NATION'S TRADE SITUATION FINE, 30,000 MEN SAY

OUTLOOK GRATIFYING

CROPS REPORTED GOOD

Preponderance of Evidence Is That Country Is in Prosperous State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 22.—The Commercial National Bank of Chicago yesterday, issued its seventh annual report purporting to show, as near as can be ascertained from nearly 30,000 correspondents, the business situation, crop conditions and the position of banks throughout the United States. The summary furnished is of vast importance in view of prevailing circumstances in the financial world at this time; and because of the care taken in compiling the report it should be one of great interest in business and financial circles everywhere.

On the whole, the analysis shows that the reports received are unanimously optimistic and that the business situation is satisfactory in the extreme. The report says in part:

"The overwhelming preponderance of evidence is that the business situation is sound and satisfactory. Not one of the thousands of replies negatives this condition in definite terms. That there has been a marked easing down from the tension of the spring and winter months of the year is generally admitted, but it is admitted without a trace of regret or misgiving.

"The strain on the money centers of the world has been very great. In ordinary times the stringency of one country is offset or relieved by the plethora of another, through the commonplaces of the mechanism of exchange. There is no easy money in the civilized world today.

Concerning Speculation.

"To suggest an idea of the urgency of the demand for capital to expand and equip the productive capacity of industry so that it may be on a par with the fast-increasing consumptive demand for the things of modern life, we call attention to the world phenomenon of stagnation in the purely speculative department of affairs.

"Recently we have seen a record low price for the British consolidated debt—consols—indicating that the rewards of capital in industry are so attractive as to prompt withdrawal of funds even from the acknowledged chief of investment securities. The same phenomenon in its application to the funded loans of all governments except our own—and for this there is a special and artificial reason—and in its application to the bonds and shares of the exchanges is a further light on the tension which is everywhere felt in money affairs.

"It is a curious and striking fact that in all the thousands of replies received there is scarcely a reference to the speculative lethargy which contributes so large a part of the news from day to day.

Demand for Funds.

"The bankers of the country with few exceptions in the far West report an extraordinary demand for funds in all lines of business activity. Interest rates are very firm everywhere, and in the central reserve cities the inquiry for funds so much exceeds the supply that money is described as 'very tight.'

"The range of our investigation justifies the conclusion that bank deposits show a straight average increase of about 14.2 per cent, against a similar average increase of 10.8 per cent in the loans. The averages weighed according to the relative magnitude of the totals would probably show a closer correspondence between the growth ofdeposits and of loans.

"It is significant that the states of primary production in agricultural and mineral deposits over loans than the states of secondary production—that is, the essentially manufacturing and trading communities.

Price Decline Inconsiderable.

"The decline in prices measured by the standard index figures of British and American authorities shows a slight and uniform decline between July and August, but the weighted average for all commodities proportioned to consumption remains several per cent above the similar figure for a year ago. The decline in prices is inconsiderable as a factor in the soundness of bank credits.

The commercial habits and usages alike of borrowers and lenders preclude any possibility of defaults as a result of price fluctuations within the narrow limits we have noted lately.

"The high cost of materials and labor and especially a certain inefficiency of labor, are noted by some of our informants as unfavorable factors in the situation. The world-wide struggle of all

ST. LOUIS PAYS HIGH RATE FOR LIGHTING GAS

Laclede Company Has Different Prices for the Same Product.

Residents of the northwest corner of St. Louis, those who live between Maple and St. Louis avenues west of Union boulevard, are paying their bills to the Laclede Gaslight Co. Thursday. The city is divided into 25 districts, and other sections have other days on which to pay.

Consumers are crowding the company's office and taking their turn in line to pay the highest gas rate of any big city in the United States. If they do not take advantage of the company's arbitrary discount they must pay $1.10 a thousand cubic feet for their lighting gas and 90 cents a thousand for their cooking gas.

Customers of the company who pay their bills within 10 days after they are rendered pay $1 a thousand for lighting and 80 cents a thousand for cooking gas.

Complaints in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 22.—There is much complaint here because of excessive gas rates. Both lighting and heating gas are sold for 90 cents a thousand.

Natural Gas in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—This city has natural gas which sells at 25 to 32 cents a thousand. The company is required to furnish free gas for al lmunicipal buildings.

Boston Thinks 85 Cents High.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 22.—Gas for all purposes here sells at 85 cents a thousand feet. This is regarded as excessive because the cost of making and furnishing it is less than 50 cents a thousand.

Chicago Pays 85 Cents.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The legal rate for gas for all purposes here is 85 cents a thousand. This is considered high, in view of the reports of experts that the cost to the company is about 40 cents a thousand.

Part of Earnings for City.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 22.—The gas company here receives 75 cents a thousand for lighting and fuel gas and pays back to the city 6½ rpe cent of its gross earnings.

Natural Gas at 25 Cents.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—This city has natural gas, for which it pays only 25 cents a thousand feet for both lighting and cooking.

Detroit Grumbles at 80 Cents.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 22.—The rate for both lighting and cooking gas in this city is 80 cents a thousand. There is much complaint because it is too high. Experts have testified that gas can be made and distributed at a cost of not more than 45 cents a thousand to the company.

New York Pays $1 Under Protest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The people of this city are paying $1 a thousand for gas, but they are doing this under protest. Acting on the report of an investigating committee the lower courts have ruled that 80 cents should be the legal rate. Pending an appeal the company is holding 20 cents of each $1 paid. If the Supreme Court rules that 80 cents is the legal rate, the excess must be returned to the customers of the company.

Toledo Wants Lower Rates.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 22.—The price of gas here is 95 cents a thousand feet for lighting and 70 cents for cooking. These rates are considered too high and a movement is under way to force a reduction.

Rate in Cleveland Is 70 Cents.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 22.—The price of gas here, for both fuel and lighting purposes is 75 cents a thousand. In addition the company pays 6½ per cent of its gross earnings into the city treasury. This amounts to 5 cents on each 1000 feet and makes the actual rate 70 cents.

Frisco Pays 85 Cents.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The price of lighting and fuel gas here is 85 cents a thousand feet. It is considered high.

SHOUTS SAVE FAMILY ASLEEP FROM FLAMES

STARTED IN HAY PILE

Passerby Seeing Blaze Pounds on Door and Yells an Alarm.

Fire, believed to be incendiary, in the home of Alois Singer, a grocer, at 3030 Ivory avenue, Carondelet, at 1 a. m. Thursday morning, came near costing the lives of Singer, his wife and children.

He was on his way home when, passing the Singer store, he saw smoke rising from the rear of the roof. Running back he saw the entire rear of the structure in flames. The first floor of the building is a grocery and the Singer family lives upstairs.

Shouts Awake Family.

After turning in an alarm Vandebecke pounded at the front door and yelled to awaken the family. Singer heard the noise and went to the front window. Vandebecke told him the house was ablaze and to get the family out as quickly as possible.

The flames were gaining rapidly and already the living rooms were becoming chocked with smoke.

Singer aroused his wife and children, all of whom partially dressed and, carrying the rest of their clothes, rushed downstairs and into the street. A moment later flames broke out in their apartments.

Pile of Hay and Wood.

After firemen had extinguished the conflagration they found a pile of burned wood and hay stacked against the rear of the building. The material had not been soaked with oil, but the fire had started there.

Special officers are investigating. Singer says he knows of no enemies.

ALABAMA GOVERNOR GIVES RAILROADS UNTIL OCTOBER

If They Still Refuse to Obey Law He Says He'll Call Special Session.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 22.—Gov. Comer, in a statement issued here last night, said he would give the railroad companies until Oct. 1 to comply with the recently enacted date law. If they do not comply at that date, he says, he will call a special session of the Legislature and urge the enactment of even more drastic laws.

Go. Comer's statement was the result of instructions given to the Federal grand jury yesterday. Judge Thomas C. Jones urged the indictment of any county or State officer who interferes in any way with the injunctions issued by his court nullifying the cheap rate law recently passed by the Legislature.

Judge Jones' charge is an answer to the threat of Gov. Comer that he would order State officials to enforce the law despite the Federal injunction. Judge Jones calls the situation "abominable, uncalled for, and detrimental to the welfare of Alabama."

GUMBERTS WAS READY TO BARE PELLOM'S RECORD

Lidlifting Chief in Daylight Silk Pajama Interview Scores Enemies.

CALLS THEM PINHEADS

"I Am Sorry Folk Got 'Hep' to Pellom," He Says, "for I Had the 'Dope' on Him."

Mighty Mark Gumberts, in white silk pajamas at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, raised his heavy eyelids (lid lifting being his specialty) on the edge of St. Louis County. Yawning, he stretched along his double mattress. Then he punched the pillows with a clenched fist and snuggled into them.

The chief of the county "lidlifters" had just been told that Gov. Folk repudiated the affidavits of "Detective" Pellom against Prosecuting Attorney Johnston and Sheriff Herpel. He was punching the pillow to show his disappointment.

"Too bad, too bad, that his record has all come out. And me uptown all last night getting the dope on that guy," exclaimed Mark, starting up to punch holes in the air. "Why, it's a joke, I tell you; the whole thing's a great big joke."

The former hero of the St. Louis bad lands fell back on the pillows and hoarsely laughed.

"Oh, it's too bad," he continued. "Why, we had it fixed to explode after these fanatics got to a trial of the charges against Johnston. Of course the Governor shakes it. He can't stand for the gaff.

Whole Thing a Joke.

"The whole thing's a joke—all this lid farce. Say, how're they going to put me out of business. They indict me for selling liquor without a license, and I haven't taken out a license for 10 years."

Getting suddenly on his elbow, Mark jabbed the air again with his clenched fist. "Let me tell you something. They can't put me out of business. The only thing that can close me down is a court. When it says by club license ain't any good, then I'm out, see.

"Talk about raids," came the roar. "There ain't no police out here. Say, how're they going to make a raid. The Sheriff can't make no raid. Why, say" —a contemptuous shrug of the big shoulders finished his meaning.

Ten Bills Introduced.

"On the square, its the biggest joke ever pulled off. Weren't more than ten bills introduced in the Legislature to put clubs out of business. Did any of them get passed? Well, the Legislature says I ain't breaking the law. What are they going to do?

"Talk about twelve honest men putting on the lid," Mark sat up straight in bed and jabbed his finger at the visitor. "Let me tell you one thing. You can't find twelve men as they come in the county that are going to put a man out of business. That's what it means out here. They'll fine a man, but they're not going to put him out of business.

"Oh, yes, you can get twelve fanatics by scraping around, but not men as they come. All this holler about law-breaking is bosh. Of course I'm fighting them. I've been fighting to keep from going to trial while the busy season's on. I want to wait until everything is closed down around here, so I can get a square deal."

Contempt for Lewis.

Mark fell back on the pillows in supreme disgust. "This bunch up here at Lewis' building," he continued. "They are down and out, I tell you. Wait until the Supreme Court decides whether they've got any city. I know they're charter ain't worth the paper it's written on. And I'm going to sit still and let them put me out of business.

"Say, let me tell you something," exclaimed Mark, coming out of the pillows where he had burrowed to bury his contempt. "They haven't got anything on Johnston. He's prosecuted every case that was brought. Well, where's he come in under this new law? Nothin' to it. He isn't worrying. Why, say, it makes me laugh.

"Everyone out here among the county officers know where they're getting off. Essen's newspaper? Why did it stop printing dope about me? Oh, well, I soon convinced Essen I was his best friend. We're good friends now," said Mark with a grim smile spreading all over his ample face.

He Threatened Essen.

Mark's reference to the Republican boss of the county was the explanation of why Essen's Clayton newspaper suddenly ceased its exposures of law-breaking at the Louisiana Club. Mark had told one of Essen's friends that if Essen did not stop talking about him he would begin talking about Essen. The exposures suddenly ceased in the Republican boss' organ.

The biggest man in St. Louis County fell back into his pillows to rest after his exertions. His tawny eyes wandered over the ceiling. Scorn curled the corners of his full lips. What was coming flickered on his lips before he rolled on one side and, peering out of the pillows' depths, he said earnestly:

"On the dead, I'm surprised that the bunch up on Magazine Hill didn't get next to that guy Pellom. Why, say, he came down here to me and wanted $500 to keep me from being raided. If

MORTALLY SHOT IN FIGHT WHEN TOLD TO MOVE

Man Who Resisted Ejectment by Fruit Dealers, Near Death From Wound.

Charles S. Pontius, wounded in a night brawl with three brothers, proprietors of a fruit stand at 1308 Market street, is hovering between life and death at the City Hospital, with the chances against his recovery, attendants there say. John Morpha, oldest of the fruit dealers, is said to have fired the shot which struck Pontius, and is being sought by the police.

Joseph and James Morpha, the two other brothers, are under arrest with Charles Lang of 1321 Clark avenue, companion of Pontius in the fight.

Pontius and Lang, loafing Wednesday night on Market street, stopped in front of the fruit stand. So far as can be learned, there had been no previous trouble between them and the Morpha brothers.

Ordered to Move On.

Joseph Morpha stepped outside to tell the men to move from in front of his place and when they refused he went inside. He returned a few minutes later, accompanied by his brothers.

Pontius and Lang still refused to leave the place and the five engaged in a battle in which fists and sticks were used. In the melee a shot was fired and the five men scattered. When Patrolman Scanlan reached the scene he found only Joseph Morpha, whom he arrested.

More than an hour later, Pontius, weak from loss of blood, staggered into the St. James Hotel at Broadway and Walnut street and asked that an ambulance be called. He was almost delirious and could give no account of his wanderings after the brawl.

At the City Hospital Pontius said he was leaning on a fruit stand watching men throw at "nigger babies" when the proprietors of the stand ordered him to move on. One of the fruit venders cut him on the forehead with a knife and another ran out to the sidewalk with a revolver and shot him, he said.

Bullet in a Lung.

Lang and James Morpha were arrested after it was learned that Pontius was dangerously hurt. They said John Morpha fired the shot. It struck Pontius in the left shoulder and stopped in a lung. The man's exertion after the fight caused a hemorrhage. He has a long cut on the left side of his forehead.

Pontius is 31 years old, and lives at 1421 Pine street. John Morpha is 34 years old, Joseph, 32, and James, 31.

Sacrifices Foot to Save Life.

BERNE, Aug. 2?.—A young man named Rechsteiner, employed at the goods station at St. Gall, was working on the line, when his foot became fast in the rails. He struggled for some minutes to free himself, but his efforts were in vain, and when he saw a train approaching he threw himself down and allowed the train to cut his foot off.

POLICEMEN HAVE SERVED 30 YEARS

Chief Creecy, Capt. Gaffney and Nine Others Were Appointed in 1877.

Chief Creecy, one captain, three lieutenants, on sergeant and five patrolmen completed their thirtieth year of service in the Police Department Thursday. They did not celebrate the event, because Chief Creecy does not believe in such celebrations and none of the others cared to take the initiative in arranging anything of the kind.

The Captain is Patrick J. Gaffney of the Manchester Avenue District, the lieutenants are James Hickman of the Manchester, Thomas Donnegan of the Magnolia Avenue and James St. John of the Angelica Street districts; the Sergeant is P. J. Kennedy of the Dayton Street District and the patrolmen are Henry Kaiser, Joseph Hollwell, Schnettker, Conrad Meyer and Freeman.

"How things have changed since we went on the force," mused Chief Creecy, as he tried to recall the names of the men who were appointed when he was. "What is now the Manchester Avenue District was then the Mounted and the city limit was Grand avenue; which is now the heart of the city. There were only about 400 patrolmen then—just one-third the number we have now."

MOTHER-IN-LAW WOULD NOT CUT WOOD, SO HE KILLED SELF

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 22.—Because his mother-in-law would not share her home with himself and bride and chop all the wood, a Sioux warrior named Red Shirt, who resided in the extreme northern portion of the Rosebud Reservation, near White River, committed suicide by shooting.

It is one of the few cases on record of a Sioux Indian ending his own life. Red Shirt was well known among the whites residing in the southern part of Lyman County, adjacent to the reservation, and always had been accounted a jovial Indian.

BURNS HUSBAND'S EYES FOR SHOOTING "CRAPS"

Mrs. Tessie Jones, a negress, 23 years old, used carbolic acid to discipline her husband when he refused to give up his favorite pastime of craps," she confessed Wednesday evening to the police of the Dayton Street Station. She said she threw the acid into the eyes of William Jones, her husband.

Jones is in the City Hospital, and may lose his sight. The negroes live at 6105 Wells avenue, and the police turned over the woman to Deputy Sheriff Campbell of St. Louis County.

GIRL, PILLAR OF FIRE, SAVED BY BRAVE WOMAN

Neighbors, Without Giving Aid, Watch Mrs. Kelly Put Out Flames.

While a crowd of excited dwellers at 2023 North Tenth street stood in the rear yard, screaming directions, but none lifting a hand to aid her, Mrs. Lottie Kelly early Thursday extinguished flames in the clothing of a neighbor girl, possibly saving her life. She then put out a blaze in her neighbor's kitchen that threatened the large house.

Miss Clara Scanlan, aged 18, had started breakfast at 6:30 a. m. on a gasoline stove. When she lighted the gasoline it exploded, flaring up so as to catch her clothing.

Girl a Pillar of Fire.

The girl ran screaming from the kitchen to the porch, then into the rooms occupied by Mrs. Kelly, and then back to the porch. Her screams aroused the neighbors and they ran into the courtyard. The girl's clothes were now a mass of flames.

Mrs. Kelly leaped from bed, took a blanket, threw it around the young woman and succeeded in partly smothering the flames. Then she ran for water, with which she drenched the suffering young woman.

Having saved Miss Scanlan, Mrs. Kelly turned to the kitchen in the Scanlan apartments, and, by heroic work, succeeded in extinguishing the fire. A few minutes later the department arrived, but it had no work to do.

Has Chance to Recover.

Dr. Frank L. Morse of 1100 Madison street was summoned and treated Miss Scanlan, who had not lost consciousness. But said that she has an even chance for recovery, although frightfully burned on the face and body. The young woman refued to be moved to a hospital because of her desire to be near her invalid mother.

MAN WHO WANTS SALOONS CLOSED ARRESTED IN COURT

Wild Gesticulations of Judge Tracy's Visitor Sends Him to Dispensary.

The City Hall Police Court had just opened Thursday morning when a man entered hurriedly and walked up to the bench. He said he wanted to talk to Judge Tracy. The Judge told him to tell it to Acting City Attorney King.

He turned to the desk of King and began to talk in a rambling manner. Then he raised his voice to a high pitch and gesticulated wildly and demanded that the dramshop laws be more rigidly enforced, claiming that the Police Courts were not doing their duty.

Sergeant Mathews seized him and escorted him to the City Dispensary. He said he was William M. McGill of 3644 Botanical avenue.

MAYOR FAHEY MUST TELL JURY OF GRAFT OFFER

BRIBER'S NAME SECRET

He Is St. Louis Man, but the Executive Forgets Who He Is.

DISCLOSURES EXPECTED

The grand jury of Jersey County, Ill., will try to learn from Mayor W. F. Fahey of Jerseyville the name of the "man from St. Louis" who offered Fahey $1000 for the exclusive gambling privileges in Jerseyville for one year.

State's Attorney Seago of Jersey County has questioned the Mayor, but Fahey has declared to him, as he did in his recent testimony in a Justice Court, that he cannot remember the name of the St. Louisan.

Seago has told fellow-officials that he is not satisfied with the results which have been attained thus far in the fight on gambling in Jerseyville. He says he will bring the whole matter, including the $1000 offer to the Mayor, before the grand jury which meets Sept. 16.

Fahey's Cousin Fined.

The net result of the anti-gambling agitation in Jerseyville, so far as the records show, is the payment of a $100 fine and $30 costs by John H. Fahey, a cousin of the Mayor, on a plea of guilty to the charge of keeping a gambling house.

The plea of guilty was determined on, and the fine fixed, by a typewritten stipulation, signed by Mayor Fahey and City Attorney Richards for the city, and by John H. Fahey, the defendant. This obviated the necessity for a second trial of the case.

John Fahey was tried last week on the gambling charge, but the jury disagreed. The defense called Mayor Fahey as a witness, in the attempt to show that the gambling privilege was regarded as a negotiable commodity. The name of William Powell, a leader of the Jerseyville sporting fraternity, came out in this testimony.

Mayor Is Questioned.

H. W. Pogue, attorney for John H. Fahey, questioned Mayor Fahey on the matter of the $1000 offer as follows:

Q. Was there a proposition made by William Powell and others to buy the exclusive gambling privilege of the city of Jerseyville for this year? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the offer made? A. One thousand dollars.

Q. When was the offer made and where? A. Right down in my office.

Q. By whom was it made? A. This gentleman from St. Louis.

Q. Who was the gentleman from St. Louis? A. I can't tell his name. Powell brought him.

Q. Is William Powell associated with this man? A. I don't know.

Could Not Accept It.

Q. What did you say about the offer? A. Told them I could not accept it.

Q. Didn't you make the proposition that there was an offer of $1000 for the gambling privilege of the city and if there was anything in it you wanted the boys at home to have it? A. No, sir.

Q. You never made any statement in substance like that? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you say in substance to Mr. Dunphy that if there was anything, any money in the privilege, that you wanted the boys around here to have the privilege? A. I said if I wanted to do anything like that, I said, there are plenty of the boys here in town.

No Gambling Privileges.

Q. In other words, you would give it to the home fellows? A. I said if I did anything like that I would rather a man in town have it than a stranger. I want it understood right now that nobody has got any privilege to gamble in this town.

Further questioning of the Mayor brought no more admissions of direct offers of money, but developed that he had talked with others about a building which could be rented if a gambling privilege was granted, and about a brewery agency which several men were trying to get for him.

He admitted that three Jerseyville saloon keepers had gone to Alton to ask the proprietors of the brewery to make the Mayor their agent, but denied having authorized them to do so.

DENIES SELLING PURE COCAINE

Druggist on This Ground Bases Plea for Acquittal.

The trial of Omar M. Willis, druggist at 714 Wash street, charged with selling cocaine, was begun in the Court of Criminal Correction Thursday.

Attorney John T. Murphy, in outlining the defense, said that it will be shown that Willis sold hydrochlorate of cocaine and not pure cocaine. He contends that there is no law against selling the hydrochlorate.

There are six informations against Willis.

STRIKERS SAY NO SETTLEMENT IS YET IN SIGHT

Interpret Small's Letter as Only Providing for Future Plans.

WILL FIGHT TO THE END

FEW AT WORK THEY SAY

They Declare Companies Are Mailing Telegrams and Are Crippled.

The striking telegraphers in St. Louis attach little significance to the report that negotiations for a settlement of the strike are about to be entered into between the officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and the officials of the Postal and Western Union Telegraph Companies.

There is nothing in the correspondence of President S. J. Small that indicates peace, further than the bare announcement that "we are preparing a plan to be submitted to locals which will provide for the election of a committee of Western Union and Postal men to go to New York and settle the present trouble, when the proper time arrives."

There is no intimation in President Small'scorrespondence that the officials of the telegraph companies have consented to grant an audience to a committee of the strikers.

Officials of the local union say that the plan suggested will have first to be submitted to the different locals throughout the country, and if approved, the committee will then be appointed, provided the proper time shall have arrived.

Time Not Here Yet.

That the proper time for peace talk has not arrived, is the opinion of most of the local telegraphers. They declare that they do not wish to return to work until the Postal and Western Union Telegraph companies are willing to acknowledge that they are whipped.

"Despite the statements of officials of the local offices that they are doing a normal business we have positive evidence that the wires in St. Louis are practically dead," said Secretary Boyer Thursday. "If the companies have not their normal forces, or anything like them, why is it that their branch offices are all closed, and that they will not take messages at their main offices except subject to indefinite delay?

"Why is it that they are using the mails to transmit messages that are accepted to be sent by wire? Why is it that they have no operators in the ball parks and racetracks, and very few men on the exchanges?

Have No Weak Spot.

"There is not a weak spot in the Telegraphers' Union and we are going to stay out forever or win this strike. The men do not propose to return to work under any unsatisfactory agreements.

"I attach no significance to President Small's letter stating that a plan to appoint a Peace Committee to go to New York is being considered.

"It is all right, of course, to make preparations to settle the trouble so that we will be ready when the officials of the telegraph companies are willing to meet our terms. The manager of one of the local offices telegraphed to officials in New York that he would have to have more money if he was expected to continue the fight here.

"We are defeating the companies all along the line, and their statements that they are handling their business promptly is made to deceive the public."

At the proper time it is stated that two St. Louis operators, one from the Western Union and one from the Postal, will be selected to join the committee that will go to New York to settle the trouble. So far no information has been received here that the telegraph companies will treat with strikers' committees.

HELD NOT ILLEGAL TO SEND TELEGRAMS BY MAIL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 22.—It is not illegal to send telegrams through the mail. That is the statement made today by United States Attorney Lyman M. Bass. Efforts were made by the striking telegraphers to bring the management of the Western Union and Postal companies into court for receiving messages at the regular telegraph rates and sending them by mail. Mr. Bass said that there is no Federal law to cover the case, that no prosecution could be brought in the Federal courts.

WORLD'S AMBER SUPPLY IS ALMOST EXHAUSTED

Mine Director Thinks It Will Not Last More Than Five Years.

KONIGSBERG, Prussia, Aug. 4.—Amber threatens to give out. Mines which have been known since the time of Nero are being rapidly exhausted. Almost all the amber of commerce is derived from mines on the Baltic coast of Prussia. It is found under 30 feet of sand and clay in a dark brown bituminous deposit about thirty feet thick.

Considerable quantities used to be washed ashore after storms, but this source of supply is also failing, and the amber fishers are turning to other occupations. They used to gather 20 tons a year on the sands, but about four hundred tons has been the average output of the mines for three years. The price has risen to $35 a pound. The director of the mines does not think the supply will last much more than five

WILLIAMS SAYS VARDAMAN WAS WATSON'S TOOL

Populist Leader Nearly Captured Democratic Organization.

TREACHEROUS FRIENDS

Party Workers Are Warned Against Future Trickery.

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Aug. 17.—Charging that Gov. James K. Vardaman spurned Democracy and coquetted with the Populists in the late campaign for United States Senator, John Sharp Williams, the victor in the fight for that office, in an address here on the aftermath of the battle, strongly condemned such an attitude. Among other things he said:

"When I first entered into the campaign I thought it was a case of friendly competition between two Democrats, both adhering to and loving Democracy and taking their guidance, when they took any at all, from Democratic leaders. I soon began to be undeceived and to discover that there was an effort being made by Gov. Vardaman to play to the Populists. This was shown first by his coquetting with the proposition of Government ownership, a proposition which no Democrat of the school of Jefferson, Calhoun, George or Walthall could have tolerated for so much as a minute. This was shown in the second place by his introduction of Tom Watson as a "man easier to criticise than to answer." This was followed by a letter of eulogy to Watson, which was published by Watson in his magazine, and then by words of eulogy-writing concerning my competitor by Watson.

"An Unbridled Majority."

"It was proven in the third place when, at Bay St. Louis, Miss., the Governor seemed to take a stand upon the rankest doctrine of State Socialism, the doctrine which would efface the power of the courts to declare acts of the national Legislature to be unconstitutional, and thus turn us over to the absolute rule of an unbridled majority.

"The intent of all this was obvious, but I continued to hope until after the primary that it would fall of results, believing that the man who had come back to the Democratic party to participate in its party election had come in good faith, and would decline to be led by Tom Watson, the leader of the national Populists, or the leader of any other party.

"The result, however, showed that I was mistaken. My competitor received the 15,000 or 20,000 Populist votes of this State almost en masse. They took their marching orders from Thomas Watson.

Enemies in Uniform.

"Let nobody mistake me. I would not drive any man out of the party—the man who desires sincerely to be a member of the party and to further its interests and secure its success—but there is a grave difference between converts and enemies in uniform.

"A man who joins your army with intent to shoot against your cause and to punish those who have battled for it or do now battle for it is, by all the laws of war, subject to be taken out and shot. The man who joins your army, however, for the purpose of battling for your cause is welcomed by everybody and, though he may come at the eleventh hour, is put upon an equal footing with the worker who entered the vineyard at the first hour.

Watson Nearly Won.

"There is one great benefit that has been attained by this lesson taught by the late primary. The plan of Tom Watson and his adherents to capture the Democratic organization in this State by holding the balance of power between Democrats came so very near being successful that the plan itself has been exposed and the eyes of Democrats who love their party have been opened. They will not be caught napping again. Hereafter I take it that if a man's vote is challenged on the ground that he is not a Democrat some regulation of the party or law of the State will require him at least to give his word of honor that he is a Democrat a . not a Republican, a Populist or a Socialist.

What of the Future?

"Take our own case right now, for example. The probability is that Mr. Bryan will be the next nominee of the Democratic party. No man in all America has ever attacked him, his motives and his character so savagely as Tom Watson. Yet there are 15,000 or 20,000 men participating in a Democratic primary in the State of Mississippi who receive and acknowledge marching orders from Tom Watson. What are they going to do when the presidential election comes and Mr. Bryan is nominated by the Democrats and Mr. Watson by the Populists? From whom are they going to take their marching orders then? I just throw this out as an illustration.

"I am sorry to say that I believe that Mr. Watson has the list of names and Postoffice addresses of the members of the Farmers' Union of this State, and that it is through these lists and the dissemination of literature that he is hoping to undermine the Democracy in this State. This is dangerous only so long as the rank and file of the Farmers' Union do not know it. The moment their eyes are opened there is no danger because they are Mississippi Democrats, proud of the history of the party and proud of the history of the State.

"I warn them now that I believe that this attempt with them has been already to some extent made and will be further made by the leader of the national Populist party.

"There are those Democrats who think it better to remain quiet about this. I do not think so. Even if I knew that Democratic defeat would follow I would not think so, because I know that it is better to be beaten in the open field than to be destroyed by men in your own uniform.

Political Priest Unfrocked.

PLATFORM TO BE BUILT FOR THE FAT, SHORT AND YOUNG

Mrs. Kuhms Insists That Her Guests Have Chance to Board Street Cars.

Because her guests at a party at her home Thursday night are all to be "stout, short, or very young children," Mrs. Emma Kuhms, 4541 Halliday avenue, Thursday morning appealed to Street Commissioner Travilla to compel the United Railways Co. to erect a platform at Grand avenue and Halliday street, "so the visitors can alight from the street cars without inconvenience."

The commissioner called up General Manager McCulloch of the railway company and acquainted him with Mrs. Kuhms' request. McCulloch promised to grant it.

Mrs. Kuhms told the Street Commissioner that the tracks on Grand avenue, at the intersection of Halliday, are undergoing repairs. The old rails have been taken up and the new ones are laid on the surface of the pavement instead of being sunken to a level with the street. This, she says, makes a difference of ten to twelve inches in the height of the car, and, because of the obesity of many of her prospective guests and the youth of others, she feared they would be put to considerable inconvenience, if not danger, in getting off and on the cars.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 24.—Gaily smoking her pipe, while receiving congratulations from her friends, Mrs. Mary McGrath, supposed to be the oldest person living in Wisconsin, celebrated her 110th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. McGrath recently was brought to the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor from Brandon, Wis., near Fond du Lac, where she lived most of her long life. The claim that she is 110 years old has been fully substantiated by the Sisters.

Mrs. McGrath insists on smoking her pipe daily, and her caretakers do not believe it well to moralize with her over the baneful effects usually attributed to the weed.

FAMOUS HUNGARIAN ACTOR ARRESTED FOR ABDUCTION, TELLS OF HIS MARRIAGE

Max Seblowitz-Salgo Must Answer Serious Charge in His Native Country.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 24.—The arrest of Max Leblowitz-Salgo, the Hungarian actor who just returned from New York, has caused a great deal of comment. He was a favorite in Hungarian society circles before going to America and was popular on his return. When arrested he was accused of abducting the minor daughter of a Hungarian society woman who died in New York. He protested, saying that the girl was his stepdaughter, as he had married the mother. An investigation by the Hungarian Consul in New York, however, brought to light these facts:

Salgo had been friendly with the wife of Dr. Schneider, a prominent Budapest physician. In 1904 Dr. Schneider died and Salgo persuaded Frau Schneider to sell her estate and accompany him to America. When they came to New York, Frau Schneider opened a restaurant. About a year ago she died, as the result of an operation, and, in accordance with her last wishes, was cremated.

Salgo insisted that she was his legal wife and that he had lost his marriage certificate. He succeeded in collecting insurance on her life and drawing her money from the banks in New York, as well as taking possession of her jewelry. A few weeks ago he came to Budapest with the young daughter of Frau Schneider. The child's relatives, being unwilling to let the child stay with him, charged him with abducting her. When he was arrested Salgo had in his possession the ashes of Frau Schneider, her jewels and about $1000.

TENNESSEE HAS A RIVAL TO ROCKY FORD DISTRICT

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn., Aug. 24.—The Rocky Ford district in Colorado has a rival in canteloupe raising. Lawrence County, in this State, is fast growing into a productive center of the succulent melon, and already the output has reached the pretentious stage of being a real industry.

The daily shipments from this county are about four cars daily and the acreage this year has been more than 500 acres. So far the prices have ranged high enough to make the "Sweet Mountain" looked upon with almost equal favor to the Rocky Ford.

What makes the canteloupe industry more important in this county is the short time in which it has been developed. But three years have been necessary to bring the acreage from a comparatively few patches to more than half a thousand acres.

TOLSTOI ENGAGED ON A NEW BOOK FOR CHILDREN

Says He Is Trying to Teach the Youth How to Write Truthfully.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 24.—Count Leo Tolstoi has completely recovered from his recent illness, and has resumed work on a book for children, entitled "The Reading Circle."

In an interview with a newspaper correspondent the Count said: "I am teaching the children, and at the same time am learning myself, to write truthfully and simply." He said he had completed several works which he did not wish published until after his death, the near approach of which, he observed, must make it impossible for him to bring all his many plans to fruition.

The Count was recently questioned regarding the doctrines advanced by him in some of his earlier writings, and expressed great regret that in his political works his expressions should have been so harsh. "Such an aggressive tone," he said, "does not establish peace among men, but only increases existing irritation."

"THE LAW IS FOR ME," SAYS GUMBERTS IN PAJAMAS

He Lifts the Lids of His Eyes for a Moment at 2 P. M. to Give His Views of Reformers and Sleeps Again.

they'd gone downtown and looked up the police dope they'd had him right, knockout drops and everything. Wouldn't that sort of management jar you?

"All Want Best of It."

"Technically, maybe I'm getting a little the best of the law, but you see I can't help it if the law lets me get ahead of it. We're all out for the best of it, even the righteous fellows that are hollering loudest. I'm making my living and 12 men are going to do a heap of thinking before they take my bread and butter out of my mouth.

Mark ran his fingers through his hair, which is thin about the temples. A look of weary disgust drew the corners of his mouth down as he sat on his haunches in the middle of the bed, thrust his head out toward the visitor until the veins in his neck swelled, sending a flood of purple color into the broad face.

Stories Are Lies, He Says.

"Say, do I look like a lamb? Do you suppose I'm fool enough to ...ve women butting around in this place? Why, that would put me out of business quicker than keeping the lid off. Those stories are lies, just raw lies. When the Charity Carnival was on at the Gardens I couldn't help it if some women came in then, because we were all open around here and running for the good cause, see?

"I'm no vicious character. I'm just fighting for my rights. My attorneys tell me I've a right to run here under my club license just as much as the St. Louis Club or any other swell joint doing business on Sundry.

"All I want is to be let alone until the right authority says I can't do business, but I don't propose to let a lot of one-sided pinheads tell me that I can't do just what others are doing who've got the money to buy the law up and down and sideways.

Does Not Care a Rap.

"Personally, I don't give a rap about all this talk about myself. It does jar me, though, to have my mother and sisters read what a terrible disreputable bandit I am made out to be.

"Well, say, I'm going to sleep again and dream that the Governor hasn't got hip to who Pellom is."

COUNTRY IN EXCELLENT CONDITION, BANK ASSERTS

classes to appropriate more of the comforts of advancing civilization and to share more generously in the satisfactions of living have brought about important changes in the labor situation and in the temper of workers everywhere.

"The demand for higher wages and shorter hours of labor has been insistent and generally successful, resulting in increased cost of producing raw materials and finished products and naturally enhancing distributive prices, except so far as economics of organization and the use of perfected machinery may have offset the cost items.

Condition of the Crops.

"Turning to the crop situation, only the broadest generalizations are justified. It is definitely ascertained that the grasses, which form the primary sustenance of our animal population, are an unusually rich crop."

The report estimates that the wheat crop in the United States will approximate 640,000,000 bushels, with an estimated 60,000,000 bushels brought forward from last year.

It is estimated that the world's crop of wheat is short by an amount between 350,000,000 and 425,000,000 bushels. The oats crop is conceded to be short 100,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels, compared with the previous year. The corn crop is placed at 2,500,000,000 to 2,600,000,000 bushels.

Minor grains promise fair harvests, both in quantity and quality. The cotton crop is estimated at within 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bales of the splendid crop of 1906.

Operations Financing.

Continuing, the report says:

"The unmistakable conclusion to be gathered from our replies on schedules touching the crop financing operations of the banks is that though yields may be deficient in quantity and in quality these defects in conjunction with an unabating consumption will require practically as large a volume of funds as last year.

"The very striking fact is noted this year, as in 1906, that the interior banks have bought a great deal of commercial paper, but in so doing they have exercised commendable foresight in that they have chosen maturities falling at such times that the crop financing would be facilitated without excessive drain on the central reserve banks.

"The unweighted average taken to show the ratio between total loans and loans on commercial paper is about 22 per cent. The significance of this, as a test of the fidelity of the banks to local needs, appears when we observe that the reports of the comptroller of the currency about a year ago showed a ratio of above 50 per cent of paper to total loans for all the reserve and country banks.

Currency Reform Opinions.

"After the exhaustive and protracted discussion of the two plans of currency reform now before the public it is rather surprising that the returns indicate almost absolute neutrality of opinion as to credit currency, according to the plan of the American Bankers' Association.

"Unfortunately the virtual indebtity of deposit liabilities and credit vank notes seems to be a less potent argument with a large part of the banking industry of the country than the traditional horror attaching to bank notes without a bond issue.

"In this state of affairs it appears to us that the central bank of issue plan proposed by the New York Chamber of Commerce, and the American Bankers' Association plan are equally powerless to enlist support enough to insure affirmative legislation."

AGED WOMAN ASKS $50,000 SOLACE FOR BROKEN HEART

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 24.—A woman of 70 years can feel just as badly when she gets the mitten as a young woman of 26. Mrs. Doane Hopkins, a resident of Joliet, so believes, and to enforce her conviction she has started a suit in the Will County Circuit Court against Adolph Youker, a wealthy citizen, for $50,000 damages for breach of promise.

Mrs. Hoskins is 70 years old. Mr. Youker confesses to the same number of years, but his bride, Mrs. Mina Kilmer, is six years younger. Mrs. Hopkins declares she thought she was engaged to Mr. Youker for the last five years. When she learned that he had been married she hurried to an attorney's office in Aurora, and the breach-of-promise suit was decided upon. Mr. Youker is a prominent citizen of Joliet.

NAVAL OFFICER PREDICTS COMING OF MOTOR AIRSHIPS

Expects Them to Take the Place of Railways in Reaching Mountain Tops.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Capt. Pustau, a German naval expert, publishes a prediction that within a decade motor-airships will come into general use not only for military but also for sporting and other purposes. He says:

"We must realize that the atmosphere, like the ocean, offers us innumerable routes of travel. Who in the future will invest his money in the construction of cable railways and rack and pinion railways up mountains, when it will be possible to reach the most elevated points more rapidly and more agreeably with less danger by means of airships?

"There can be no doubt that sportsmen, scientific men and enterprising capitalists of all countries will devote their energies to the application of aerial navigation to their respective purposes. When a few improvements have been introduced in airships they will be serviceable as a means of transport, and will certainly be preferred by some classes of travelers to railroad trains."

KING EDWARD ENJOYS VISIT TO A DOG AND PONY CIRCUS

Spends Nearly Whole Afternoon Watching a "Command Performance."

LONDON, Aug. 24.—In his flying trip to Halton, to lunch with Alfred de Rothschild, last week, King Edward spent one of the most novel afternoons even in his eventful career. There were so many curious things to see in the three or four hours at his disposal that His Majesty was obliged to forego the pleasure of a visit to the wonderful collection of Japanese spaniels, of which Mr. de Rohschild is so proud.

The King, however, was very much interested in a "command performance" of the private circus, which has just been established there. The paramatis personae consist of eight of the smallest and prettiest ponies in the world; two little dogs, which jump through hoops, balance themselves in all sorts of funny ways, and do everything else except talk; two gazelles and a donkey, which are almost equally accomplished.

There is a regulation ring, and a pretty pavilion adorned with ivy geraniums in full bloom, and upholstered inside with the luxury of a drawing room. HUSBAND FINDS CHILD BRIDE A COURT PRISONER

WRIT PROVES ERROR

Deputy Sheriffs Find Father Has Turned Girl Over to Juvenile Court.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME

Man With Whom Child Once Lived as Wife Soon to Be Tried.

Florence Hamann-Anderson, pretty and only 15, is in the courts again, this time through the effort of her husband, George B. Anderson, a second-hand dealer and hauler at 730 South Fourth street, to get possession of her by writ of habeas corpus.

In his petition filed in the Circuit Court he declares that she was being detained at the St. Louis Female Hospital, but when the officers went there to serve the writ ordering that she be brought before Judge Reynolds, they found that the girl was at the St. Louis Industrial School, held there by the order of the Juvenile Court.

Though still wearing short dresses, Florence has had more matrimonial ups and downs than most women ever have. Her father is William Hamann, a foundryman living at 207 Duchouquette street.

Father Deceased.

At 14, Florence announced that she had quit school and was going to work and soon said she had employment at the envelope factory of the Samuel Cupples company. Every morning she took her luncheon and left home to return by evening, saying she was very tired.

It was not suspected by the family that she had male companions till May 20, when her father asked the police to find her after she had been missing several days.

The police found that Florence had been staying at the rooming house of Mrs. Amelia Beamer at 715 South Broadway with a man named William Baldwin, a teamster, as his wife. Baldwin was already married and lived at 736 South Seventh street.

Through Mrs. Beamer, Baldwin was identified and arrested. His case is now pending in one of the criminal divisions of the Circuit Court.

About this time Anderson appeared and induced the girl to go with him to Chicago. Later they went to Grand Haven, Mich., where they were married on May 31, and where they lived for three weeks.

Florence told the officers that she married Anderson without loving him because she was afraid he would desert her there if she did not. Soon after they returned to St. Louis she left her husband and went to the home of her father. Her father took her marriage certificate to the police and the girl was turned over to the Juvenile Court, which sent her first to the Hospital and later to the Industrial School.

Husband's Story.

"I have been trying for a month or more to find my wife," said Anderson to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "but learned only last Saturday that she was at the Female Hospital.

"A girl who had been there with her and had been released, came to the store that day and told my clerks that Florence was being held there and wanted me to get her.

"I knew it would be no use to go without authority so I got a lawyer to begin action. My intentions toward Florence when I married her were the very best, and are now."

DEPOSED MAYOR KILLS SELF TO ESCAPE CENSURE

WAS ALWAYS SENSITIVE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 22.—Friends of former Mayor Paul C. Barth, who killed himself here yesterday by shooting, believe that his brooding over the fact that he was recently ousted by an order of Court inspired the deed.

Mayor Barth and his entire administration were deposed by the Kentucky Court of Appeals on the ground that the Democratic machinery by which they were elected was corrupt and that the election was illegal. Since then his acts, as Mayor, have been subjected to the closest scrutiny and, while it is said nothing was found derogatory to his honesty, he brooded over the disgrace that had fallen upon his family. Barth has always been very sensitive to criticism, and the attacks on him by the local newspapers were relentless.

The removal of Barth from the office of Mayor was the result of the decision of the Kentucky Court of Appeals overturning the municipal election of 1905. On the face of the returns, as counted on election day, the Democratic ticket for city and county officers (Jefferson County) had been declared elected, but a contest in the courts was instituted by representatives of the fusion ticket, the only one in the field against the Democrats.

The Court of Appeals in the final hearing of the case decided that "gross frauds" in the matter of repeating, illegal voting, intimidation of voters and falsification of the counts prevailed to such an extent as to render the election invalid.

ORANGE THIRTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

Omaha Mother's Strange Deathbed Memento.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.—An orange thirty-five years old is treasured by Mrs. Samuel E. Thomas of 212 William street, and about it clusters a sentiment.

Her little daughter was at the point of death and to gratify one of her last wishes the orange was procured and handed the child. But she was too weak to refresh herself with its juice and the fruit was laid aside. The mother thought to preserve this, perhaps the last object that the little one had craved and so through all these years she has kept the orange.

It has grown small and smaller, wrinkles have formed on its shrunken peel, and its color has darkened from a bright reddish yellow to a golden brown and its side decreased to about that of a black walnut.

Mrs. Thomas has not thought particularly about it, but when the World-Herald printed a story about a loaf of bread that a man kept for twenty years, it recalled the orange.

Mrs. Thomas is the widow of Samuel E. Thomas, a driver for the Baum Iron Co., who was killed in the street car wreck at Sixth and Pierce streets Jan. 31 last.

FOOD WITH DRINK FAILS TO LESSEN THE LIQUOR EVIL

Such Was Report to International Antialcoholic Congress in Stockholm.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 17.—The eleventh annual convention of the International Antialcoholic Congress has closed, and the next session will be held in London in 1909. America was well represented as were several other foreign countries.

There was considerable disappointment over the announcement that the Gothenburg system of dealing with the liquor business had proved a failure. The announcement that this was a fact was made by Editor L. Junggren, who has taken a deep interest in the subject. The main principles of this method were as follows:

No Private Profit From Intoxicants.

"No private person shall be allowed to make a profit through the sale of intoxicants.

"Credit must not be given.

"Solid, nutritious food must be sold with the liquor.

"The profit of the business must be used only for the benefit and social improvement of laborers."

Mr. Junggren said that the system had proved a failure as a factor in promoting temperance because, as a practice, it did not prohibit private profit-making, and drinking at the bar was rather encouraged than otherwise by the good food served with the drinks. It was resolved by the congress that the Gothenburg system badly needed reform if it was to do any good as a temperance institution.

Sixteen Delegates From America.

Bishop von Scheele thanked all the different nations which sent representatives to the congress, including America, which had 16. A dinner was served at the summer resort, Saltsjobaden, and then an excursion was made to Fort Vaxholm.

Individual members of the congress have organized an international bureau to work against alcoholism. Its head office is to be in Lausanne, Switzerland, and the officers are: Dr. J. L. Bergman of Sweden, president; Dr. Hahnel of Germany, vice-president; Prof. Herod of Lausanne, general secretary; Dr. Koller of Switzerland, treasurer. Dr. Crothers of Hartford, Conn., is the American representative in the bureau, the purpose of which is to collect antialcoholic documents and supply them to governmental, municipal, sociological and scientific societies and others interested and to work for international antialcoholic reform.

DOG NOT FOUND, BOY ARRESTED

Lad Says Early Morning Shooting Was Caused by Vicious Canine.

In explaining why he had fired a shot which had caused the arrest of himself and a party of friends at Ninth and Market streets about 1 a. m. Thursday, Harry Parks, 18 years old, of 1716 Texas avenue told the police he was defending himself and companions from the attack of a vicious dog. The police were unable to find the dog.

Parks and his friends, Charles Owens 16, of 1614 Market street; Joseph McDonald, 20, of 2607 Park avenue; Fred Genions, 20, of 938 Rutger street, and Louis Hauck, 19, of 1441 South Tenth street, were arrested after a chase, during which Sergt. Hoffman fired two shots in the air to attract other officers.

SUMMER SUIT IS OF FLY-PAPER

Rhinoceros Escapes Bothersome Insects in Unique Costume.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Mogul, the newly arrived rhinoceros at the Bronx Zoo, has a new suit of clothes of unique material.

From head to toe Mogul is clothed in flypaper, and he seems to be very proud of his novel suit. Since his arrival he has not been allowed to take his customary bath, as he is not considered sufficiently acclimated and the flies have been making his life a burden. To foil the flies, Director Hornaday ordered Mogul provided with a coating of flypaper.

Incidentally, Director Hornaday is "tickled to death" at the receipt of the news that the stork has visited one of his buffaloes and left a female calf. In addition to being director of the zoo, he is an enthusiastic member of the Society for the Preservation of the Buffalo, and he is now pluming himself on the fact that of 16 buffalo calves born at the zoo, all but one have been females.

Gunda, the big elephant at the zoo, has developed a violent and apparently permanent aversion to Keeper August Heisman. For a week Heisman has been off duty on account of injuries received when Gunda tossed him around the cage.

When he returned to work and entered the cage for the first time Gunda flew at him in a rage, and, trumpeting, charged on the keeper. Heisman got out in the nick of time and has been ordered not to enter the cage again.

Smoked Glasses for Cows.

MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—Cows wearing smoked-glass spectacles may be seen in the interior of Russia, where great tracts of country are covered with snow six months of the year. The cows became afflicted with snow-blindness while looking for fine grass under the melting snow.

RATE WAR CUTS COST OF PASSAGE ACROSS ATLANTIC

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—A rate war involving cabin passage has broken out between the Cunard and the German lines in the North Atlantic service. The Cunard line having offered a minimum first cabin rate passage from Hamburg to New York for $127.50, including a free ticket to Liverpool and expenses there, the Hamburg-American line announces a reduction from $120 to $107.50, and the North German Lloyd line a reduction from $130 to $117.50.

This was brought about by prolonged negotiations on the part of the German lines with the Cunard line for the purpose of reaching an agreement to maintain common rates.

The German lines are becoming involved in rate wars in various directions. The Hamburg-American lines' new connection between New York and Baltic ports is a blow at the European lines, which have answered with a further reduction of the steerage rate to New York.

PAIRS DISLIKES SPEECH MADE BY ROOSEVELT

French Papers See Peril in President's War on Corporations.

LONDON NOT SCARED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Great interest is taken here in the speeches delivered by President Roosevelt at Provincetown, Mass., and by Secretary Taft at Columbus, O., Monday. The newspapers print extensive extracts from both. The Kays' Journal des Debats, after sketching the powerful corporations the President is fighting, expresses fear that his methods are dangerous, saying: "The role of the archangel killing the financial dragon presents dangers which a man less wedded to his purpose would perceive. The President already has contributed largely to the depression from which the New York Stock Exchange is suffering. The President's theory of central control runs the risk of substituting for the plutocracy a demagogic socialization.

President Roosevelt, who, above everything, is an honest man, has, perhaps, failed to realize what prey he is throwing at the feet of less disinterested politicians. The leveling idea from which he does not shrink may impregnate the American masses, which, with the foreign influx, are rapidly losing their old liberal American spirit."

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its Suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

AGED ALTON MAN WHO SCARES AWAY DISEASE WITH LAUGHTER

ONE ON THE MINISTER

Invalids of the Town Call on Him to "Tell Them Some Medicine."

Since Francis F. Brandewiede, 82 years old, clerk of the City Court of Alton, cured himself of paralysis by spending his time on his sick bed telling funny stories and laughing as heartily as if he were sitting over a bumper of wine, there has been widespread curiosity in Alton to know these laugh-cure tales.

All day Wednesday Brandewiede was buttonholed by acquaintances who wanted to hear him relate the stories which warded off the hand of death.

Chronic sufferers who know the jolly old official were especially solicitous to have him use the beneficent influence of his joviality on them. He was kept busy narrating mirthful tales from his seemingly unlimited fund and it is said that perambulating invalids with whom he conversed went away laughing as lustily as he and determined to take up his cure.

His Favorite Joke.

Of course this witty old veteran who has all the vim and fire of a robust man of 40, has his favorite "contes drolatiques." One of them, in which he takes particular delight, though it has a tinge of the grewsome, is this:

"Some twenty years ago I was about to alight from a street car, when an intoxicated man placed his hand on my shoulder and informed me that he wished to talk with me a moment.

"I told him if he wanted to talk to me he would have to get off at that corner. This seemed to irritate him, for he hurled me from the car. My right foot went under the wheels and two toes were mashed. I went home, removed the shoe and threw the toes out of the window. Soon I saw two of my chickens suddenly pounce upon what a few moments ago were such a valuable part of my anatomy, and gobble them up.

"I'll get even with both of you for that,' I said to myself. The next day I caught them, chopped off their heads and ate them at the evening meal."

Joke on the Minister.

One day a Baptist minister called to visit the Brandewiedes. The minister had been in Alton only a few weeks and was making himself acquainted with the people who he thought might aid him in his church work. After several minutes' conversation he asked Brandewiede the first name of his wife.

"Her first name?" he queried, puckering his brows in an apparent effort at recollection. "Well, now I'll be darned if I know. Wait a moment and I'll call her."

He summoned his wife, and with just the faintest twinkle in his eye, told her the minister wished to know her first name, but for the life of him couldn't recall it. Mrs. Brandewiede, who didn't think her husband was joking, blushed crimson at such an unaccountable lapse of memory.

"Why, Francis, we've been married 20 years and you know my name's Theresa."

The minister all the time sat in open-eyed wonder.

"Why, that's right, come to think of it. Funny how I forgot that," was Brandewiede's dry response.

Corn Cob Gas the Best.

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 1"—Gas made from cobs and straw in the plant of a local company was pronounced by Dr. Nicholsen of the University of Nebraska, who inspected the works, to be purer than coal gas, and capable of giving a brighter light. He said the process was a scientific revelation. Coke and other by-products, he declared, were more valuable than those derived from coal gas. The new company, it is said, will try for a franchise in Omaha.

Smallest Twin Survives.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 17.—What is perhaps the tiniest baby ever known in Omaha is that little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Heagerty of 422 Patrick avenue. She is three weeks old and weighed at birth but one and a half pounds. She is one of a pair of twins, her big brother bringing down the scales at six pounds. He lived only a day or two, but the girl survives and promises to grow as big as any other girl in due time.

"COME BACK," CRY TO MISSING ONES

Relatives Appeal Through Post-Dispatch for Persons Who Disappeared.

The following persons are missing from their homes and their relatives or friends have written to the Post-Dispatch asking that any information of the missing ones be sent at once to them or to the Post-Dispatch:

W. W. Brown, 34 years old, blonde, 5 feet 8½ inches, 160 pounds. Left his home in St. Charles County Saturday evening at 10:30 o'clock with a Mr. Spickard of Springfield, Ill., taking with him considerable money, rings, a watch and a New York draft for $3500.

John Frost, grocery driver, 3112 Neosho street; last seen at 10:30 o'clock Monday night when he left two friends at Cass avenue and Sarsfield place to catch an Eighteenth street car home. He had with him $60 in money.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cauley of 50 B street, East St. Louis, disappeared at the same time three days ago under what their relatives think were mysterious circumstances. Cauley's mother, Mrs. A. White, who lives at 508 Missouri avenue, is anxiously awaiting news of his whereabouts.

STREET CARS FOR EVANGELISTS

They Will Be Chartered to Help Big Religious Movement.

Street cars will be chartered by the Clifton Heights Presbyterian Church to induce business men and others to go to the Temple Tabernacle, at Clifton and Columbia avenues, and hear Rev. Dr. William Frost Bishop.

Dr. Bishop said that men rely entirely too much on women and children to do church work. The lot was donated by Adolphus Busch. The tent seats 5000, and the meetings will be indefinitely continued.

GIRL SWIMS 3 MILES AND WANTS TO KEEP ON

Performs River Feat in 42 Minutes, Rows a Boat Back to Starting Place and Then Declares She Is Not Tired.

"The gamest girl in the water that I ever saw," is the way Capt. Charles Fitzgerald, swimming instructor at Piasa Chautauqua, characterizes Miss Alma Brockstedt of 4900 St. Louis avenue, who swam three miles from Grafton to Chautauqua in 42 minutes Wednesday evening.

"She was as unconcerned all the time as if she had been sitting in a skiff. As she swam she kept up a running conversation with me about the scenery and other things. She wanted to swim further, but I advised her not to. I believe, after she becomes a little more accustomed to the river, she could swim to Alton."

Miss Brockstedt, although she swam every foot of the way, using an aggressive breast stroke and not taking any rest floating or swimming on her back, was so little exhausted by the swim that she insisted on rowing across the river to the Chautauqua landing when she left the water.

House Party Guest.

Miss Brockstedt is 19 years old. She has been for several days a member of a house party at the Lambs' Fold Cottage at Chautauqua. She learned to swim at the swimming schools in St. Louis, but had never swam in the river before.

Miss Brockstedt was taken to Grafton in Louis Brueggeman's launch. A skiff was towed. She entered the water at 6:30 p. m. Capt. Fitzgerald swam with her. Brueggeman floated near them in the skiff. To avoid the eddies on the Illinois side they followed the channel, crossing the stream to the Missouri side and then down toward the head of Giberson Island.

It was 7:12 p. m. when she climbed into the skiff opposite the Chautauqua landing.

"Never felt better," said Miss Brockstedt as she emerged from her dressing room in street attire.

Not Frightened.

She was asked if she was not frightened at any time while in the water. She repeated the word incredulously, as if she doubted that she had heard right. "Frightened? No," she said. "There was nothing to be frightened about. I was enjoying myself. I swam all the time, but it did not make me tired. I felt as strong at the end of the swim as at the start."

WOMAN TOO HEAVY TO GET ON HER FEET IS KILLED

Mrs. Margaret Standt, Weighing 240 Pounds, Falls in Front of Locomotive.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 22.—An excess of weight which prevented her from moving quickly contributed to the death of Mrs. Margaret Standt, 40 years old, 602 West Forty-third street, yesterday.

The woman, who weighed nearly 240 pounds, was on a southbound Halsted street car that passed in front of an engine on the Belt Line at Seventy-fifth street. Fearing there would be a collision she jumped from the rear platform of the car and fell directly in the path of the engine.

Twice she attempted to rise, but owing to her excessive weight was unable to do so. Before the crew of the car could go to her assistance the engine, which the engineer was unable to stop, had passed over her body, instantly crushing out her life.

Other passengers on the car told the police that neither the crew of the car nor of the engine was responsible for the woman's death and no arrests were made.

COST ACCOUNT OF SUBWAY PADDED

Belmont's Salary and Gifts Charged to Construction by Interborough Company.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—William M. Ivens drove his probe deep into the bookkeeping methods of the Interborough Rapid Transit Construction Company at the merger inquiry, disclosing a system of financial jugglery and padding of accounts which vividly recalled the insurance exposures.

It was the first time the light has been turned on the way the Interborough keeps its subway accounts, and facts were brought out which Mr. Ivens declared were fit matters for the District Attorney to investigate.

It was shown that the cost of the subway had been padded to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars by adding items which had no relation whatever to construction. The city built the subway and leased it to the Belmont people. They were to equip it, and when the lease expires the city is to reimburse the Belmont people for their proper expenditures.

Among the items charged to the subway construction account, which the city may have to pay when it takes over the subway are:

A construction of $500 which August Belmont, as president of the Inter- Company, gave to the National Civic Federation when Mr. Belmont was president of that organization.

A history of the subway, costing $13,500, in which August Belmont is "punned" as the real genius of the subway.

Fees of $50,000 paid to lawyers for negotiating the lease of the Manhattan Elevated road.

Discount of $450,000 paid to August Belmont and Company on a $10,000,000 issue of gold notes of the Interborough Company.

MAN DYING IN MIDDLE OF STREET

Picked Up Unconscious With Fractured Skull and Taken to Hospital.

Lying in the middle of the car tracks in the 3400 block on North Broadway, an unconscious man was found at 9 p. m. Wednesday. His clothes were covered with mud. He was removed to the North Side Dispensary, where it was found that his skull was fractured. Later he was transfered to the City Hospital.

There was nothing about his person by which he could be identified. A few feet away from the spot where he was found was a gilded hourseshoe in which was set a water color of a country scene.

At the hospital the doctors said the man was evidently an epileptic and had probably fallen in a fit where he was found.

He had not regained consciousness Thursday and his condition is reported as critical. He is about 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches high, weighs 155 pounds, dark complexioned, smooth face, wore light clothes and a straw hat.

Iowan Charged With Using Mails to Defraud All Over the Country.

DES MOINES, Io., Aug. 21.—Charged with victimizing thousands of people all over the United States by the sale of bogus garden and flower seeds, F. C. Graves was arrested by the Federal authorities for using the mails to defraud. Graves is alleged to have purchased thousands of dollars' worth of seeds from big nurserymen in the East and then resold them as Iowa seeds to buyers all over the country. It is claimed he failed to pay for the seeds he got and that he got out a bogus catalogue and failed to send seeds in return for money sent through the mails.

ST. LOUIS HAS BIG PART IN "YANKEE REGENT"

I. L. Blumenstock of McMillan Avenue, Author, and Bertha Shalek Prima Donna.

COMES TO GRAND

BOX PARTIES ARRANGED

Would Have Been Garrick Offering but for Changed Bookings—Stage News.

Especial local interest attaches to next week's engagement of "The Yankee Regent" at the Grand Opera House, beginning with Sunday matinee, because of the fact that the librettist of this musical play, I. L. Blumenstock, who writes under the pen name of Irving B. Lee, is a St. Louisan, a younger brother of Louis Blumenstock, advertising manager of the Grand-Leader, and the prima donna, Miss Bertha Shalek, is a niece of Albert A. Aal of St. Louis. Both have many friends here, and a number of special parties are being arranged to witness the production.

Mr. Blumenstock's parents reside at 4570 McMillan avenue, which the young author of "The Yankee Regent" claims as his home, although he is now obliged to spend much of his time East and in Chicago. The play comes direct from Chicago. Mr. Blumenstock wrote the book and lyrics, and the score is by Ben M. Jerome.

Toby Lyons plays the title role. Miss Bertha Shalek, the prima donna, supported De Wolf Hopper when he appeared at the Garrick last season in "Happyland."

John Cort, the millionaire Pacific Coast manager, is associated with H. H. Frazee in the production of "The Yankee Regent," and the play would have been booked at the Garrick but for the fact that this Shubert playhouse is hereafter to be devoted to Klaw & Erlanger vaudeville.

"David Corson" is the current attraction.

"Kate Barton's Temptation," a heart-interest melodrama by Lillian Mortimer, the playwright star, comes to the Imperial next Sunday afternoon for a week's engagement. Its story treats of the errors of the wayward and the sorrow and suffering that are caused by the breaking of home ties.

Holcombe's band will remain at Forest Park Highlands next week, offering popular concert music. An addition to the band is the singer, Anna Geisler Woodward, whose reputation was made with the Thomas Orchestra some years ago. Interesting vaudeville attractions will be offered in the pavilion. Wednesday the Hardware and Stove Dealers are holding a picnic at the Highlands, Friday will be Grand Army day and Saturday the Republican rally takes place.

The English farce, "Why Smith Left Home," will be presented at West End Heights next week, commencing with Sunday matinee, Miss Thais Magrane taking the star role, supported by Walter McCullough as leading man.

"Frou-Frou" is this weeks' bill.

At Mannion's Park, beginning with next Sunday's matinee, the vaudeville bill will include Ellsworth and Burt, comedy sketch team; Kollins and Klifton, banjo artists; Clark and Temple in a comedy sketch, and John Byrne, monologist.

Heim's orchestra will offer musical programs at Cherokee Garden next week. The concerts are drawing good audiences.

"All Because of a Woman's Love" will be next week's offering at Eclipse Garden, presenting Arthur Stanley as the star and Miss Carrie Giles of St. Louis in the leading woman role. Mrs. Ella Allen Stanley leaves Wednesday morning for a two weeks' sojourn at Northern resorts.

"How Women Love" is the present Eclipse bill.

"The White Black Bird," a musical-minstrel farce-comedy by Richard Spamer of St. Louis, will receive its premiere production at a local summer garden, beginning Sunday, Sept. 15. It will be produced by William Ross, who presents as its comedy star, Arthur Deming, the famous "minstrel man," supported by a specially selected company. The production is already booked at winter theaters for engagements extending to Dec. 15 next. The play was written especially for Arthur Deming.

One of last season's successes, "The Four Corners of the Earth," comes to Havlin's for the week beginning with next Sunday's matinee. The exciting story of the play takes the audience around the globe in a thrilling race of melodramatic import.

"Shadowed by Three" is this week's Havlin offering.

Minnie Seligman and William Bramwell, in a farce entitled "A Dakota Widow," are the topliners of next week's Columbia bill. Other features are Charles Wayne, assisted by Gertrude Des Roche and company, in a vaudeville novelty called "10 A. M., or The Morning After;" Bartholdi's cockatoos, an exhibition by trained birds; "Binm, Bomm, Brrr," in their musical specialty; Olive Vail, prima donna, and the Two Vivians, rifle shots.

Homer B. Mason, Marguerite Keeler and company, in "A Hero," head this week's bill, with the Sisters O'Meers, wire artists, the Sisters Constantine, whirlwind dancers, and other bright features included.

The Fay Foster Company comes to the Standard next week, beginning with Sunday matinee. The entertainment will include musical extravaganza and a bright olio.

The Gayety Theater begins its new season Saturday night, offering Harry Bryant's Extravaganza Company for the week. An amusing burlesque will be presented, followed by an olio of specialty acts.

Helen Bertram, especially popular in St. Louis as a comic opera prima donna, begins a two-weeks' engagement at the Suburban next Sunday evening. She will be seen in straight comedy, with musical interpolations, followed by special songs, the first week's offering being "Jane." For the second week, the successful comedy, "A Scrap of Paper," will be produced. A new St. Louis player, C. W. Beach, will be in the "Jane" cast, also Miss Blanche Levering, a newcomer.

Delmar Theater will close its season next week with Frank Daniels' great hit, "The Office Boy," beginning with Sunday matinee. John E. Young plays the title role, and has three big song opportunities. In the Delmar production the horse race which figures in the story will be actually shown on the stage, something not attempted in the original production. Although the theater closes with next week's offering, the other features of Delmar Garden will remain open until and including Sunday, Sept. 15.

HIS GENEROSITY WAS ACCIDENT

F. Marion Crawford's Boyish Curiosity Cost Last Dollar.

A missionary Bishop, says the New York Sun, told this story about F. Marion Crawford, the famous novelist:

"Mr. Crawford went to school," he said, "in Concord, and one day he was taken to call at a Concord clergyman's.

"The clergyman had a missionary box on his drawing room table, and, time hanging heavily on the boy's hands, he amused himself with trying whether a silver dollar—it was all the money he had in the world, and he had converted it into that gigantic coin for safety—would go into the slit in the box's top.

"It was a close fit, but unfortunately it did go, and the coin slipped out of the embryo author's fingers. There was a terrible crash of silver falling among the coppers—and then the boy, as the novelists say, 'knew no more.'

"When he came to himself he found the clergyman and his family in raptures over his generosity."

BIOSCOPE IS PROVING USEFUL

The bioscope is proving itself to be an instrument of some value in scientific investigation.

At Washington certain scientists have made a series of instantaneous microphotographs of growing crystals, their object being to determine the manner in which crystallization begins, the Philadelphia Record says.

With high microscopic powers some observers have thought that they could detect the formation of minute globules immediately preceding the appearance of crystal forms.

But the new bioscopic pictures of forming and growing crystals show only crystalline shapes from the beginning. They also reveal the fact that the growth in diameter in the first second of a crystal's existence is vastly more rapid than during the subsequent period, and it is thought that this swift growth at the start is the cause of a lack of definition which deceives the eye, but not the photographic film.

WOMEN WILL TRY TO SETTLE WIRE STRIKE

TO ASK CONFERENCES

Miss Helen Gould and Mrs. Russell Sage Urged to Interfere.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, wife of J. G. Phelps Stokes, the millionaire philanthropist, will endeavor to reach the wives of the directors of the two telegraph companies, while National President Small and possibly United States Labor Commissioner Neill will be in New York Saturday to try to settle the telegraphers' strike.

The strikers said Mrs. Stokes would get in communication with Mrs. Russell Sage, who owns an enormous amount of Western Union stock; Miss Helen Gould, who, with her brothers, own considerable stock; with Mrs. Mackey, wife of the president of the Postal Telegraph Co.

There are more than 500 women telegraphers in this city, and about 5000 throughout the country, and Mrs. Stokes, who worked in a cigar factory before her marriage, knows what it is to be on a strike. She thinks arbitration can be accomplished through the wives of the directors of the two companies.

Mrs. Sage brought about the settlement of the first strike of the elevated railroad men years ago. She appealed to her husband, with the result that George Gould made peace with the men.

When General Manager Brooks of the Western Union was asked if he would meet Small, he said:

"No, siree; not in a thousand years."

It became known today that the Western Union and Postal companies would consent to have the strike settled if they were not compelled to recognize the Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

"Since the strike began," said Daniel L. Russell, chairman of the Board of Strategists, this morning, "not a man or woman of the strikers has returned to work. They have a little money saved up, and with theatrical benefits will be able to hold out until the companies surrender."

ELGIN MAYOR GOT GAY AT A BENEFIT

His Zeal to Give Park Custodian a Vacation May Cost Him His Job.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 22.—Because of his strenuous effort to boom the testimonial band concert given under the auspices of the City Council, to furnish funds for a vacation for David Walker, park custodian, Mayor Arwin Price may face impeachment charges for alleged misconduct, which is said to have been offensive to women and children, who were out in full force.

The affair was given in Lord's Park and Mayor Price was in charge of one of the principal stands. The city executive is charged with using slang and profanity and conducting himself in an otherwise improper manner.

In his efforts to enlarge the proceeds of the concert, the Mayor is said to have turned "buffalo" and refused to make change when purchases were made, no matter how large the amount of money tendered. This led to several altercations with those in attendance, one boy who bought two packages of crackajack threatening to whip the Mayor because he refused to give him back change for a dollar. Alderman John Schramm paid $5 for a bottle of soda pop.

The Council will meet in 10 days, and it is said charges will be preferred against Mayor Price at this meeting.

RAILROADS' GRAIN RATES SAID TO INJURE ST. LOUIS

Merchants' Exchange Officer's Complaint Expected to Reach Washington Today.

Complaints filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by Commissioner J. C. Lincoln of the Merchants' Exchange Traffic Bureau, alleging discrimination in grain rates against St. Louis and in favor of Missouri River ports, involving the Missouri Pacific, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroads, are expected to reach Washington late Thursday afternoon.

Acknowledgment of the charges is expected to be received by Commissioner Lincoln next week.

He accuses the railroads named in his complaints of giving Missouri River merchants a lower rate on grain from Kansas and Nebraska than is allowed local dealers. The preferential is given as ¾ cents per 100.

He cites that though elevator charges have been allowed, the grain merchants along the Missouri own their elevators and, consequently, the rate preference said to be granted them is, in effect, a direct discrimination against St. Louis.

Strong Indications.

From the Chicago News.

"Do you think the intentions of young Gotrox are serious?" asked the anxious mother.

"I'm sure they are, mamma," replied the pretty daughter. "Why, only last night he laughed heartily at one of papa's alleged jokes."

Her Share.

Egbert: Not all of it. She furnished the cheese, but she was not responsible for the ants.

THE Rosenstroch triplets are getting the milk from the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. These are the 10-day-old babies of Mr. and Mr. Rosenstroch of 1423 Carr street.

They weigh four pounds each and all seem strong. The parents are wisely giving them the benefit of the best food that can be obtained.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter called to see the babies Wednesday he was met in the yard by a prim little Miss of very few summers. In fact, she cannot yet talk quite plainly.

"Can you tell me where the three little babies live?" asked the reporter.

"O, yeth," she lisped. "They live upstairs. Ain't it a thight?" she asked, with a very mature air.

And they were a sight—a beautiful sight, as they lay there, each contentedly eating a bottle of the pure milk. They are all boys and bid fair to become strong, sturdy young gentlemen, for they are starting life on the best, purest food that could be given them.

Now, these babies will be only a few months old at the time that the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund has heretofore been obliged to close for the winter. They would then have to be put on one of the many canned or condensed foods which have played such havoc with baby life and health this summer.

Is this giving them a fair show? Is this just to them and to the proud, happy mother and father? Is it just to the hundreds of other babies that are only now recovering from what was supposed to be a fatal illness? Is it fair to take away from them their only chance of growing well and strong?

Must we give up this grand work in the winter time, merely because more than half a million people are too thoughtless to do their part in helping us to continue it? Are you one of the thoughtless ones?

What part of the requisite $5000 can you give? How soon will you give it? Can you refuse the cry of the poor, sick, weak babies that depend upon you for their very lives this winter? Of course you can't. But time is pressing, so let us hear from you soon.

LONDON PRAISES BOTH TAFT AND THE PRESIDENT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LONDON, Aug. 22.—President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft in the British Isle are distinctly the heroes of the American political situation. The Times this morning, in discussing the Provincetown speech, rejects the view that Roosevelt is on dangerous or unjustifiable ground in relation to the railways, and says that the President merely proposes that public control which has long existed in England, where no railways can issue fresh shares or bonds without parliamentary sanction. The Times regards Taft's Columbus speech as much more sharply put than Roosevelt's and as clinching the Ohioan's first claim on the confidence of the country as Roosevelt's successor in the Republican leadership.

Opinion appears to be practically unanimous here, both among Britons and Americans, that the pressure of public sentiment in the United States will gradually force a just solution of the trust problem.

HOSPITAL PATIENT ESCAPED AT NIGHT

Young Greek Feared He Would Be Deported Because of Eye Trouble.

Overhearing the doctors say that the Federal authorities intended to deport him to his native land, Luke Cojka, a Greek, 18 years old, who boarded at 3112 La Salle street, made up his mind that he would frustrate any attempt to get him out of this country.

Late at night, while all was quiet and no nurse or doctor was in sight, Cojka slipped out of bed, hastily dressed and sneaked out. He was missed soon after and the police notified.

Patrolman Beard found him the next morning at 403 Boyle avenue and took him back to the hospital, where he is now under arrest.

A week ago Cojka was taken to the City Hospital to have a tumor under the left eye removed. The malignant growth endangers the sight and has already partly closed the eye. When the doctors learned that Cojka had no relatives in this country and that he might become a public charge, they notified the Federal authorities, who decided to deport the youth. He is under close watch at the hospital and may be sent back to his own country without undergoing the operation.

THEY SEE FATHER HANG SELF

Children of a Despondent Laborer Witness His Suicide.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—In the presence of his two children, one 7 and the other 10 years old, Morris Hirschburg of 338 East Thirteenth street last night hanged himself. He was despondent over being out of work.

Mrs. Hirschburg was out shopping at the time. With his children screaming in fright, the father hanged himself by a rope from the transom of the parlor door.

The outcry of the little ones brought Policeman Schriefer to the house. He found the door locked and had to break it open. Hirschburg was dead when cut down. He was 33 years old.

REGISTERED BAG GONE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 22.—Postoffice inspectors are certain that George Bell, known from ocean to ocean as the greatest of mail robbers, stole the pouches containing at least $250,000 from a Burlington train between here and Denver, and 25 detectives are trying to find him.

The police assert that the robbery of Sunday has the earmarks of Bell's work and they have information that he was in this neighborhood before the crime. Since then he has not been seen in this vicinity.

A package about the size of a shoebox, wrapped in a newspaper and tied with strong twine, was put in the mails a short distance east of Denver and was addressed to either Chicago or Omaha. The police of these two cities are working together in the hope that the stolen money was sent to confederates and that it may be recovered.

Many mail packages have been opened in the postoffice here and every bit of mail that has been handled here since Sunday has been minutely examined. But no clew to the missing funds has been found and none will be, the detectives say, unless Bell is traced.

Mail Robbery His Hobby.

The inspectors declare that they have information indicating that Bell is the guilty man. This sort of work is his hobby and his success at it has been phenomenal.

He has served several terms in prisons for just such crimes and probably he would be in the penitentiary now had he not escaped from two inspectors three years ago by jumping through the windows of a fastly moving railroad coach. He was being taken to Philadelphia then to stand trial for a mail-pouch robbery.

The registered mail bags are reported to have contained much currency and easily negotiable paper. Several packages holding large cash sums are said to have been in them and the paper matter could readily be tunred into money.

FEARLESS PARSON KILLS AN APACHE

Indian, Attempting to Murder Him and His Family, Meets With Sudden Death.

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug 1.—Details of the threatened uprising of the Apache Indians on the Fort McDowell Reservation in this Territory were brought here by Miss Elizabeth Reilly, a teacher in the Indian school at old Fort McDowell. Miss Reilly fled to escape the massacre which she believed to be inevitable for all the whites who remained. All the other whites at Fort McDowell left the reservation about the time she did, with the exception of her sister, Mrs. J. A. Sanderson, and Rev. John Gill, subagent for the Indians, and his wife and baby. The trouble with the Indians was precipitated by Rev. Gell killing Austin Navajo, a chief of the tribe.

Mrs. Sanderson was urged to accompany her sister and the other whites when they fled from the reservation immediately after the murder of Navajo, but she refused to leave, insisting that it was her duty to keep the Indian school open, no matter how dangerous the situation might be to her personally. She lives at the school building alone and unprotected except by the gun which she carries with her constantly. Before the trouble over the killing of Navajo arose she was well liked by the Apache braves and her friends believe she may pass through the ordeal unharmed.

Rev. Gill was forced to kill Navajo in order to save his own life and that of his wife and baby. He is known as a man of courage and no surprise is expressed that he should have decided to hold his ground despite the threats that are made upon his life by the incensed Indians.

The trouble arose out of an order which was issued by Rev. Gill a few months ago, prohibiting the Indians making "tisswa," which is an intoxicant produced from fermented corn. Chief Navajo refused to obey this order. He continued to make the "corn juice" and partook freely and often of the liquor. Navajo was warned repeatedly by Rev. Gill that he must cease making the forbidden liquor. Navajo ignored these warnings and finally Rev. Gill placed Navajo on the "unfavorable list," as it is called.

This is one of the worst kinds of punishment that can be meted out to an Indian. Navajo was enraged beyond measure when he learned of Gill's action, and made repeated demands to be reinstated, but Rev. Gill stood firm. Chief Navajo then appealed to the Government Indian Commission at Washington. Gill was sustained by the commission.

It was then that Navajo resolved to murder Gill and his family. A short time ago he crept up to the window of Gill's house at night and fired eight shots from a pistol at Gill and his wife and baby through an open window. By some rare chance all of the bullets went wild. Gill grabbed up a gun and fired a shot at the retreating form of Navajo. The bullet went through the Indian's head, killing him instantly. Notwithstanding his dissolute habits, Navajo was a man of great influence among the Apaches, and when the news of his death was spread around over the reservation an uprising seemed imminent. The white people at Fort McDowell were terrified and fled in haste to the nearest settlements.

Rev. Gill urged his wife to go and take the baby with her. She refused, saying that she preferred to share the danger with him. During the height of the excitement Rev. Gill barricaded himself in his house. He has a good supply of arms and ammunition, and will put up a good fight should the Indians make an attack.

The refugees from the abandoned post notified the authorities at Washington of the situation, and word was immediately sent to the commander of Fort Apache, situated some distance from the scene of threatened trouble, to have troops in readiness in event an uprising took place.

Buckingham Club.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Buckingham Club was held Monday evening at Westminster Hall, 3806 Olive street. After an hour devoted to the routine business of the club, the re-election of officers and various discussions the members adjourned to the Colonial Apartments, where a dainty repast was enjoyed. Dr. H. E. Rose was re-elected president and Mr. W. H. Schacht chosen to fill the position of both secretary and treasurer. The club has decided to entertain its friends during the coming season on the following evenings: Tuesday, Sept. 24; Tuesday, Oct. 29; Friday, Nov. 22; Tuesday, Dec. 31; Tuesday, Jan. 28; Friday, Feb. 28; Wednesday, March 25.

Farewell Party.

A coffee party given in honor of Mrs. Al Goethe at the residence of Mrs. Otto Eckardt, 1409 Grattan street, as a token of neighborly friendship and a farewell. Mrs. Goethe is soon to occupy her new home in Sutter Heights at 6424 Etzel avenue. Among those present were:

WOMAN STARTS DESPERATE FIGHT OF TWENTY MEN

One Man's Head Crushed and Another's Arm Disabled With Cleaver.

One man will die and another will lose the use of his right arm as the result of a desperate fight in a boarding house at Benbow City, the Standard Oil community six miles south of Alton. A demand for the payment of a board bill caused it.

Steven Nermit is the man who will die. He has a crushed skull. Frank Muga is said to have struck him with the back edge of a cleaver. Charles Gonick was disabled with a blow from the edge of the same cleaver. The muscles of his right arm were severed at the bone.

Muga and his wife keep a boarding house at Benbow City, which is a boom town with a saloon in every other house.

Woman Stopped Boarder.

Nermit has been boarding with them. For four weeks they say he did not pay his board. When he started to bed at 10 o'clock Wednesday night he was met at the door by Mrs. Muga, who demanded payment. He tried to put her off. She told him he could not sleep there unless he paid his board. He brushed past her into the house and she says he struck her.

She seized him and a struggle began. Her husband went to her assistance and the men started a rough and tumble fight. Friends of both mixed in until there were more than twenty men fighting, cursing and shrieking in the dining room of the house. Some were trying to stop the fight, but their efforts only made it worse.

The table was overturned and the dishes dashed to the floor and the other furniture broken.

Cleaver as a Weapon.

In the midst of the melee Muga caught up the cleaver and swung it right and left. A blow on Nermit's head sent him to the floor like a log. Gonick's arm was cut and that stopped him.

There was a lull in the fighting and Deputy Sheriff Crow of Alton, who had been passing in a trolley car, entered and all but Muga and the two injured men fled.

Muga was arrested and the other two were sent to St. Joseph's Hospital at Alton.

OF GRANT'S "FAMOUS 305" ONLY 73 STILL ALIVE

Conkling's Great Fight for Third Term for Grant in 1880 Described—How the General Changed His Mind—Will Roosevelt Do the Same.

Twenty months before the national Republican convention of 1880 nominated James A. Garfield as its candidate for President, Gen. Grant, twice elected President, delivered this prophecy and argument against a third term:

"What a grotesque suggestion, and what a position I should hold! I have been twice President, and on each occasion the unanimous choice of the convention. The heads of the party, the men eminent in leadership, the older men who were in authority before I was known, the younger men who have since won from the party its highest consideration—all lowered their colors and followed mine. Where should I be in regard to them? I would have to antagonize their honorable ambition. At its best the nomination would come only with strife. * * * It would be the bitterest campaign in history—would leave heartburnings that years would not compose. I could only conceive one contingency in which my friends would consider me (as a candidate for a third term), and that is some widespread revolution or social upheaval, when the strong hand and military prestige would be required to save society."
—Gen. U. S. Grant to John Russell Young at Malaga, Spain, in October, 1878.

When he wrote this, Gen. Grant was completing the tour of the world upon which he had embarked two months after he had completed his second term. During his absence the ambitious Blaine, already pointing for the honor of the next nomination, had been busy proselyting among the Southern States for delegates. Opposed to him was the faction led by Conkling, the master mind of the political machinery of New York and the leader of the anti-Blaine movement.

Unknown to Gen. Grant—according to Mr. Young, who had travelled with the great soldier during his triumphal tour of the world—Gen. Grant had no suspicion of the intensity and bitterness of the strife between the factions of his party led respectively by Conkling and Blaine, nor of the plans of the Machiavellian Conkling to defeat the ambitions of Blaine.

Conkling's Machiavellian Plan.

With two such vigorous and partisan natures, any contest would naturally have been deep-rooted and bitter in the extreme. Each disliked the other with the utmost cordiality; each was jealous and envious of the other; both were vain, subtle and suspicious. Blaine rightfully believed that Conkling alone stood in his way of advancement; Conkling blamed Blaine for the defeat of his own ambition to dominate the party, because Conkling and his intimates always asserted he had never entertained any hope of the Presidency. They referred to him as the "Maker of Presidents."

So while the first soldier of the war of the rebellion was receiving the plaudits of the celebrities of other nations, both civilized and barbaric, for his past achievements, the two great leaders of his party were taking advantage of the "hiatus between campaigns," as the Hayes administration was called by John J. Ingalls of Kansas, to prepare for the battle of 1880.

Grant Boomed While Absent.

There had been no serious consideration or discussion of Gen. Grant as a third-term candidate when he began his trip around the world. But before he had accomplished more than half of it the activity of the Blaine agents in the Western and Southern States goaded the watchful and vengeful Conkling into energetic resistance; and while Gen. Grant was presumably oblivious of the fact, his name was being used as a bait to attract support to the third-term idea.

Conkling employed every artifice and resource at his command to arouse sentimental loyalty to the "Old Commander." For a time the battle between the two masters, Blaine and Conkling, assumed the proportions of open antagonism to Blaine. But when in the absence of any single potential force Blaine was found to be gaining ground, Conkling, through his agents and allies throughout the country, sprung the third-term idea. He had not consulted Gen. Grant about his plans; there had been no communication between the two for more than a year.

Grant's First Intimation.

The first intimation that Gen. Grant had of the audacious propaganda inaugurated by Conkling reached him through the newspapers. A bundle of New York newspapers awaited his arrival at Malaga. There had been some serious strikes in this country and the newspapers were active in suggesting remedies for troubles of that sort. Mr. Young read the accounts of these strikes to Gen. Grant as the latter reclined on a sofa in the hotel at Malaga, before an open grate fireplace. The General listened until Mr. Young read an editorial suggesting that the most vital need of this country was "a strong arm like that of Grant."

Gen. Grant listened intently until Mr. Young had concluded reading the editorial, which was based upon a covert suggestion of Conkling, pointing to the demand for a man in the White House like Grant. Then he expressed himself in the words quoted above.

Blaine Opposed Third Term Idea.

But while he was completing his tour, Conkling concentrated all his forces in behalf of the third-term idea, while Blaine as strongly fought it. In the campaign which followed, Blaine said certain things which gave offense to Grant, who, it is claimed, decided to accept on account of the resentment which this produced in his mind.

For a week before the convention Conkling and his allies went to work with their coats off and formed a "Grant League." There were 756 delegates in the convention. It required 379 votes to nominate. Conkling and his crowd succeeded in securing 306 delegates the afternoon before the convention met. They established their headquarters at the Palmer House. Huge signs bearing mammoth pictures of Grant and the words "LET US HAVE PEACE" filled every niche and wall.

The speech of Conkling at the caucus of the "306" will be remembered by the men who heard it as long as they live. For more than an hour he worked upon the sympathies of his hearers, and was rewarded by hysterical exhibitions of fanatical loyalty. Every man in the room kept his pledge to vote for Grant.

"306" Stuck to End.

It was defeated by a vote of 400 to 318. The followers of that master read the handwriting on the wall when it was announced, and foresaw defeat. But the "306" hung together until the end, and achieved immortal fame. They aroused the greatest enthusiasm by their cheers when Conkling, leaping on the reporters' table in the convention on the day of the nomination, presented the name of Grant, commencing with these words:

And when asked what State he hails from,
Our sole reply shall be:
"He hails from Appomattox
And the famous Apple Tree."

But it did not draw enough votes to enable the "306" to accomplish their purpose. Valiantly as they worked upon opposing delegates, defeat met them at every turn.

Blaine, not strong enough to bring about his own nomination, administered a stunning defeat to Conkling; Conkling found solace only in the fact that he had defeated the plotting of Blaine.

Through 35 ballots it was Grant against the field of five "favorite sons." Then the friends of Garfield began to get in their work. On the thirty-fifth ballot he appeared the strongest "favorite son" in the field.

Then the Garfield Landslide.

On the thirty-sixth and last ballot the scattered delegates began to gather under the Garfield banner, and a landslide to him followed. He received 399 votes and the nomination. Arthur was selected as Vice-President, in an effort to placate the followers of Grant.

The "306" left the convention hall in a sullen mood. Once in a while now the survivors gather to recount the history of the old days. About seventy-three of their original number are still living.

BIG PLANTS SHUT DOWN TO GIVE GIRLS VACATION

Order to Close Made After Young Women Said They Were Going to the Seashore.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—In order that 50000 up-to-date factory girls may enjoy the tan and sunburn and the hundred other joys which go with a summer vacation, three thread factories, the greatest of their kind in the world, closed their doors today and they will remain locked until Sept. 3.

Campbell Clark, representing the Clark Thread Co. of Edinburg and Newark and Kearney, N. J., declared that he had to close the immense plants to give the girls their outing.

About two years ago one of the great strikes of recent years was waged by these same girls and resulted in their getting a 10-hour day with a half-holiday on Saturdays. Two weeks ago a committee told a superintendent that 500 of them had planned to spend the last week in August at Atlantic City in a great camp which they had rented for the period and that he had better be looking for help while they were away.

The official went to Campbell Clark with the information. It meant that one branch of the factory would have to close down. Mr. Clark bit his lips, but was silent.

Later in the day another department head reported another section of the "cotton experts" headed for Coney Island with like plans for the same period. A hurried council was called and the suggestion made that the shops close down for ten days to give the entire force a vacation at the same time. It was readily adopted as the easiest way out of the difficulty.

RISKS LIFE IN FIRE TRYING TO SAVE CHIFFONIER

Flames Drive Ferguson Man From House He Recklessly Re-Enters.

STAGGERS OUT DOOR

Volunteers' Hose Cart Sticks in Mud, Blaze Getting Big Start.

Algernon Beard, 27 years old, brother of Mrs. Ida B. Hoffman, a society leader of Ferguson, St. Louis County, narrowly escaped death early Thursday morning when fire destroyed the beautiful summer home of Mrs. Hoffman, on Thoroughman avenue, Mrs. Beard, his mother, and Mrs. Hoffman escaped unhurt.

Mrs. Beard was awakened at midnight by the smell of smoke. She rushed downstairs and found the dining room in flames. Hastily awakening the other sleepers, she helped her daughter dress and all three rushed out of the house. Beard rang the firebell and the volunteer department quickly responded, but the road was so muddy that the hose cart got stuck and by the time a horse could be procured the flames had gained such headway that all efforts to check the fire were futile.

Beard, with several other young men, went into the burning cottage to save a valuable chiffonier. Spectators yelled to them not to go in and all but Beard desisted. The smoke was so thick when he got into the house that he was partly overcome and blindly staggered his way out just as the flames in a great sheet shot out of the front entrance.

Mrs. Hoffman had recently removed part of her furniture to the house next door, which she had arranged to occupy. Her three children and Emmett Thoroughman were asleep in this house. They were awakened by the turmoil. Thoroughman broke in the door of the barn and rescued two valuable horses and a rig.

At 3 a. m. Thursday the fire broke out again in the smoldering timbers and the volunteers were once more called out. They worked two hours longer before they left the ruins. The loss on house and furniture is $2500.

ELLIOT MAJOR SAYS BIG OIL FINE HITS PUBLIC

Candidate for Missouri Attorney-General Thinks Imprisonment Is Only Adequate Penalty.

Elliott W. Major, Democratic candidate for Attorney-General of Missouri, doubts the effect of a big fine on the Standard Oil Co.

"They can easily regain the amount of the recent fine imposed in Chicago in a year by adding a couple of cents to the price of oil," said he at Union Station Thursday. "If Judge Landis had sentenced the guilty parties to a term of imprisonment befitting the offense, they would have no means of counteracting the punishment. The fine can be devoted to good uses, but it will react directly upon the common people."

Mr. Major, who spent Wednesday night at the Southern Hotel, was on his way to Willow Springs, Mo., where he will speak at the Pythian picnic Friday. He lives in Bowling Green.

LIDLIFTER SETS DRUGGIST STRAIGHT ON CASABIANCA

Boy on the Burning Deck Never Got Salvage Price, but His Family Collected Insurance—Poetry for Mulvihill.

"I see they've started to have a war over at the place where the boy stood on the burning deck," said the druggist, as he reached up to take down an Egyptian cigarette poster. The policeman on the beat, who learned art criticism from City Attorney Anderson, had objected to the poster.

"If you mean Casa Blanca," said the Lidlifter, "I fear your memory is more porous than that sponge I bought here yesterday. The boy who remained to claim the ship's salvage was Casabianca. He failed to collect the insurance on the ship, but his family collected insurance on him, as I remember the story. My Fourth Reader failed to state where the sad affair occurred, but I see no reason to think it was at any place that has been in the papers lately.

"But say, I've got a new one for you. You were asking me about the plural of grapefruit. Now you tell me what is the plural of attorney general."

"What difference does it make?" said the druggist. "I don't have to telephone to the grocery to send me two of them for breakfast. They only come one at a time, anyway."

Which Is It?

"Don't you believe it," said the Lidlifter. "They're coming here in half dozen lots and one paper says they're attorney generals and another that they're attorneys general. John D. Rockefeller gets out of it by calling them all pests."

"That's what John's friend, Judge Landis, calls the men who are trying to run him for President," said the druggist. "He says they ought to be hit on the heads with baseball bats."

"Imagine our friend and fellow townsman, D. R. Francis, starting out with a baseball bat," suggested the Lidlifter. "Pretty soon there'd be an ambulance call from the City Hall and the wagon would haul Mayor Wells to the hospital.

"Then it would be out to the Aero Club for Dave and his bat, and if Bud Dozier didn't see him first and get off the earth in his balloon, there would be a different kind of a balloon ascension. Then—well, I don't believe I know anybody else that would have to be punished."

"Well," said the Druggist, "after he had finished with his friends, he might turn in and help the police break up some of these gangs along Jefferson avenue. First it was the Bottoms Gang and then the Tower Gang."

Need Second-Story Man.

"There ought to be some second-story men in between those two gangs," said the Lidlifter. "These gangs, and the size they grow to in police reports, remind me of what I read a while back about comets. The wise man who wrote the story said that a comet was all a false alarm, and that you could put a dozen of them in your hat.

"If a policeman gets his helmet stove in by some dipsomaniac, it looks a lot better to report at the station that he got the dent while five other fellows were attempting to take the man away from him. Next day the incident grows into a new and savage gang, and the Captain gets a you-must-do-better-than-this style of note from headquarters. Then the man on the beat has to find a gang or make one, and there are generally some ambitious youths who will accommodate him. If not, he can keep on making his reports in the Falstaff style, with ten men in buckram setting on him every night, just before he goes off watch."

"Speaking of literature," said the Druggist, "I cut a verse out of a paper I thought you would like. It was in a series of "Poems You Ought to Know," and was by William Cullen Bryant. This is it:

The light of smiles shall fill again
The lids that overflow with tears,
And weary hours of woe and pain
Are promises of happier years.

"Show that to your friends who are wondering whether we'll have another Governor and Excise Commissioner like Folk and Mulvihill.

"I'll give it to Julius Lehmann," said the Lidlifter, reaching for the clipping. "He'll put some yodels on the end of it and use it in his vaudeville stunt."

IOWA MAN HAS A TEAM OF MOOSE

Spins Along Country Roads at Speed Equal to Record Trotters.

ELY, Minn., Aug. 22.—Edward Crossman of this city owns one of the oddest teams in America. He has succeeded in breaking a pair of moose to drive in harness. In his sleigh Mr. Crossman spins about as rapidly behind these animals as if drawn by a team of trotting horses.

The moose were captured at Bear Island Lake, a few miles south of Ely, three years ago. The mother had been killed by an Indian and a trapper in the neighborhood, hearing the dogs barking, sought the cause and found two moose calves. Mr. Crossman bought these calves from the trapper and secured a permit from the Governor to keep them.

At the first the moose did not enjoy harness, but they soon became accustomed to it. Their antlers are now growing, and by the time the moose are 5 years old they will be large size. At first the problem of feeding them was no small one. In their natural environs they live on pond lily roots, leaves of trees or tender shoots of willow.

Mr. Crossman fed them willow twigs and young birch, but it soon became a difficult task, as they required three wagon loads a week. Today they eat turnips, hay, cabbage and seem to enjoy the diet as much as the one to which they had before been accustomed. One of these moose will eat as much as two horses. They nibble most of the time, except when lying down in the middle of the day. Each weighs about 700 pounds.

BABY WASHED UP BY SEA WAVES

Remarkable Escape From What Seems an Intended Murder.

LYNN, Mass., Aug. 17.—Almost through a miracle the life of a 5-months' old infant was saved at Willow Beach, Nahant, where it was discovered after it had apparently been thrown into the sea. The police are certain that someone, perhaps the child's mother, intended that it should die.

Chief of Police Larkin, who personally began an investigation after the finding of the wailing infant, is of the opinion that the baby was thrown into the water at a spot where there are a number of jagged rocks at the full flood tide. Instead of being washed out to sea the child was carried back toward the shore and landed between two of the rocks, where it became firmly wedged.

Every particle of clothing was water soaked, and the child's face looked as if it long had been exposed to the water. He does not believe the child would have floated long enough to reach the shore if it had come from a ship.

The young one's apearance is not that of a baby that had lacked anything in life. No clews to the identity of the would-be murderer have been discovered.

NOSE CAUGHT IN MACHINE

WABASH, Ind., Aug. 24.—Attracted by the workings of a new sausage cutter, Martin Gackenheimer, a druggist, concluded to inspect it. Peering into the machinery his nose was caught by a knife and almost cut from his face, requiring numerous stitches to hold it in place.

MESSAGE OF THE VIOLET WAS DEAD

Mother of Girl Who Ended Life Didn't Stop to Read Farewell Postal.

The evening before she ended her life with carbolic acid, Anna Regan, 16 years old, mailed to her dearest friend, Daisy Klein of 3014 Laclede avenue, a souvenir postcard bearing the picture of a violet. On the card she had written:

"Last farewell. Good-by, Daisy, till we meet again."

The card lay awaiting Miss Klein at her home at the time when Anna Regan swallowed poison Wednesday afternoon in a dressing room of Punch Bros. skirt factory, 905 Washington avenue.

Miss Klein, who formerly worked with Anna at Punch Bros. factory, but is now employed elsewhere, found the postcard on her return, and at once made inquiries about her friend. She learned that Anna had died at the City Dispensary after being taken from the skirt factory.

Mrs. Klein, Daisy's mother, said Thursday that if she or anyone at the house had chanced to read the message on the violet card, Anna's life might have been saved.

"I only saw the flower picture," said Mrs. Klein. "I was busy and did not stop to read the writing."

Anna Regan lived with her aunt, Mrs. Luke Regan, at 6440 Etzel avenue. She had three brothers, all older than herself, and two sisters, one younger.

Friends were unable to account for her suicide.

TALL COUPLE HAD NO MONEY

Judge Makes Six-Footers Man and Wife on Credit.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Aug. 24.—Ames Durrett, a Hardin County, Kentucky, giant, who measures 6 feet 6 inches in his stocking feet, and Eliza Askridge, herself more than six feet tall, were married here by Magistrate B. J. Ferguson, to whom they promised to send a fee as they had but $3 with them. This was the amount necessary to purchase a marriage license.

FOUR MISSOURI BROTHERS HELD AS BOOTLEGGERS

Federal Officers Check Epidemic of Whisky Selling in Ozark Mountain Village and Family Faces Prison.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 17.—For the past several months United States Deputy Marshal Allen Sheldon of Springfield has been trying to break up "bootlegging" around Mountain Grove, in the southeastern part of Wright County, and almost in the heart of the Ozark Mountains. At least a dozen arrests have been made either in or near Mountain Grove, and Sheldon does not believe they have yet secured all the "bootleggers" operating in that vicinity.

Four brothers have been arrested with other members of the same family. The young men are the sons of Tom Sherrell, two having been sentenced at the last term of federal court here, the other two being out on bond to appear here at the October term of Judge Philipps' court.

Government officers, who have spent several years in ferreting out and arresting "bootleggers," assert the crime is very much like an epidemic in many respects. It will suddenly break out in some community in the Ozarks and thrive for a short time. Then the Federal officers come, arrests follow and "bootlegging" in that vicinity is generally stopped for a while. By the time the epidemic has been checked in one part of the hills, it will break out elsewhere and the officers are kept busy all the time.

A "bootlegging" epidemic is usually started by one man in the neighborhood who conceives the idea of buying whisky, about the cheapest he can get, and adulterating it to sell in small quantities, often trebling his investment.

When a man's neighbors see that he is making money by "bootlegging" faster than they are by labor, they determine to go in the business for themselves and the result is that several men are soon selling whisky, making a good profit on every gallon.

This continues until the violations of the law become so flagrant that the Government officers are notified. Usually a light fine is imposed on the "bootlegger" for the first offense, second and third offenses being given heavier punishments.

Practically all the whisky that is sold by "bootleggers" in the Ozarks is bought at one or two saloons in Springfield, where large quantities of "liquid lightning," worth about $2 a gallon, are kept.

FRANCE WILL SPEND MILLION FOR MILITARY AIRSHIPS

Buys Famous Exposition Building in Which to House New Balloons.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The Budget Commission has voted $1,000,000 for the construction of military airships of the "Patrie" type, and extensive arrangements are being made for the accommodation of the new balloons.

The Galerie des Machines, which has been one of the features of the Paris exhibitions for the past 20 years, has been bought by the Government from the City of Paris. The immense building is to be removed and re-erected at Issy, to serve as a shed for the airships.

NAME IN BOTTLE, COUSIN A BRIDE

Girl Who Sent Name Down Stream in Bottle Has Two Romances, Relative Helps Her.

FAIRFIELD, Ill., Aug. 22.—Miss Grace Calvin of near Newton, Ill., wanted a romance all her own. She had a cousin, Miss Cora Jayne, who lived in Mountain View, Mo., a town well up in the Missouri Ozarks, and that sounded more romantic than anything she could think of, so she decided to get her cousin's aid.

In the spring of 1906 Miss Calvin sent a note describing herself and asking the finder to "write" to Miss Jayne with a request that she throw it in Jack's Fork River, a romantic sounding name. Then she waited, but while she waited "the man" came and she had her romance.

But during the hazy Indian summer days of last October Henry C. Howell of Oakside, Mo., farmer and lead mine owner, sat in a sequestered nook on the Jack's Fork River, when the little bottle came floating by the log on which he was sitting. He caught it, read the breezy note within, and resolved "to write."

Miss Calvin received the letter, but not wishing to endanger her romance, and thinking not to waste an opportunity, she gave Mr. Howell's letter to another cousin, Miss Jennie C. Jayne, a neighbor.

Miss Jayne answered and more letters followed. Before the courtship had reached the serious stage Mr. Howell came to Illinois without announcing his coming to his correspondent. He made careful inquiries about the family and then made himself known to Miss Jayne's family. He found she was absent on a visit. He left excellent testimonials for himself and a good impression on the Jayne family.

MUSKOGEE WILL HAVE MANY GUESTS

Even Indians Are Taking a Lively Interest in Coming Commercial Congress.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Aug. 24.—The Transmississippi Commercial Congress which will meet at Muskogee Nov. 19-23, will not only be the guest of the city of Muskogee, but will be the guest of the Creek Nation, in whose ancient territory the city of Muskogee is located. Chief Porter, whom President Roosevelt designated as "the greatest living Indian," will not only be on the platform of the Congress, and an earnest eye-witness of the proceedings, but he, as chief of the Creek Nation has extended an invitation to the chiefs of the other civilized tribes to be present. These are not the blanket Indians of Colorado and other Western States. They are the products of wise governmental supervision and these Indians contribute to the business and social life of the new State many of her richest, most progressive and highly educated citizens.

The Transmississippi Commercial Congress has behind it a useful record covering a period of 18 years. As an educational factor upon matters for National Legislation it stands first among the quasi-public bodies of the country. From it came the Irrigating and Mining Congresses. It originated the Reclamation Act, and assisted materially in its passage. Galveston, San Pedro, the Columbia River and scores of other great public improvements owe much to its influence. At the Colorado session of 1901 was formulated the bill for a Department of Commerce, which was substantially endorsed by the National Board of Trade and soon became a law. Every great public measure affecting the Transmississippi States has first found utterance upon its floor. Internal navigation is now the active principle advocated corollary with the equally important subject of a closer commercial union with the Latin Republics. Both will be prominently to the front at this session.

MRS. MEFFORD SAYS BROWN IS HER NEMESIS

SLEPT ON THE PORCH

Woman Says Man Beaten by Her Brother Also Made Threats.

HAD HIM ARRESTED

Boarded With Her and She Put Him Out When He Began Making Love.

Mrs. Laura Mefford, of 4947 Washington boulevard, who appeared in the City Hall Police Court Thursday, to prosecute Dudley Brown and to tell why her brother, Clarence Estill, beat Brown on the head with a revolver, declares that she is utterly unable to understand why Brown has persisted in paying attentions to her after she had told him that she did not want to see him or hear from him.

The case was not heard in the City Hall Court, as Brown obtained a change of venue to the Dayton Street Court, where the trial was set for Aug. 28.

"I dislike notoriety as much as anyone," Mrs. Mefford said to a reporter of the Post-Dispatch, "and I am sorry that my brother got into trouble because of me, but what could I do? Mr. Brown began boarding with me several months ago and for a time he caused me no annoyance. Then my husband went to another town to open a dental office and soon I noticed a change in Mr. Brown's attitude. He began making love to me and I was finally compelled to ask him to leave the house.

Told He Might Call.

He asked if he might call once in awhile and I told him that he might come back in the evening occasionally. I did not want to have any open break with him, because at times he said things that might be construed into threats, and I did not know what he would do.

"Then I learned that he was following me when I left the house in the evening. One night he followed me to a summer garden and back to my home. He rang the doorbell repeatedly that night and finally went to sleep on the porch. I telephoned to the police and he was arrested.

"The next morning he was fined $10 by Justice O'Hallaron in the Dayton Street Police Court on complaint of my mother.

"I wished to avoid publicity at the time and did not appear against him.

"Last week I moved from 4117 Delmar boulevard to my present home, thinking that I would avoid further trouble. I rented the house in the name of my mother and she also ordered the telephone. Imagine my surprise when I received a note from Mr. Brown Tuesday morning.

Receives Second Note.

"The note was delivered by a man who was often with him. I refused to answer the note and then I got another asking me to meet Brown downtown and saying that this was 'the last chance.'

"I went downtown to see a physician who is an old friend and I told him my story. Brown followed me and waited in the street while I was in the doctor's office. He joined me later and then followed me to a drug store, begging me to listen to him. I went into a drug store to telephone and he followed.

"I told the druggist the man was annoying me and he advised me to have him arrested.

"Brown then left the store and boarded a car. I went right home and entered the house by the rear door.

"Within a few minutes Brown rang the front door bell, and when my mother opened the door he declared that he must see me.

"All afternoon and evening messages were received from him. Finally at 8 p. m. I saw him with a friend across the street. I was really frightened and telephoned to my brother. He came over about 10 o'clock and we went out together. We found Brown and his companion.

"My brother, who had warned Brown before to let me alone, spoke to him and told him to go away. He denied that he was annoying me and defied my brother.

"Then there was a fight and my brother knocked Brown down with his pistol. We left him in the street and went home, where we remained until the police came for us at 3 o'clock the next morning.

"If the result of this unfortunate affair is that I will be bothered no more I will be satisfied. The trouble was not of my seeking."

Patrolman Didn't See Joke.

Anthony Sarrasing of 4300 Papin street says that his arrest Tuesday night on a charge of impersonating an officer was due chiefly to a joke which a patrolman did not understand. It was charged that Sarrasing, who was a Jefferson Guard during the World's Fair, had arrested without authority. John Rietter of 5 South Tenth street. Rietter also declares that it was a joke.

IF YOU SPIT FROM SKYSCRAPER ROOF ONTO CARS YOU'LL BE ARRESTED

Nor Must You Sit on Tree Limb and Expectorate Into the Windows.

You mustn't sit up in the limb of a tree on Market street and spit on the roofs of passing cars. Likewise you must not spit on the cars from the window of a De Hodiamont skyscraper. The Health Commissioner has issued a new order warning you that you will be arrested if you do.

The threat of arrest also applies to those who sit or stand inside the cars and spit on the floor. "In or on" the car you must not spit, reads the new warning in its complete terms, else you will be arrested.

If you should spit "in or on" a car and should not be arrested, don't be discouraged. Call the attention of the "conductors or motorman" to what you have done and they or he "must" and "can" arrest you.

Here is the new card as it appears in the cars, except the words "Health Commissioner" and some other words not herewith capitalized are in capitals:

Arrest and Fine
for SPITTING
In or on This Car.

Conductors and Motormen Must Enforce This Law. They Can Do So, Having the Aid of the Legal Authority of the Health Commissioner.

A member of General Manager McCulloch's staff said at the office of the United Railways Co. that the signs were put because of complaints of dirty cars, due largely, he said, to the carelessness of passengers about spitting.

THIS FOOD INSPECTOR LEFT FEW EDIBLES UNCONDEMNED

In One Indiana Town You Could Buy Neither Milk, Meat or Canned Goods.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 22.—Deputy State Food Inspector Owen has just been through Sullivan County and Fire Insurance Inspector Butler, who had business in Farmersburg, says when he went into a restaurant he was told Owens had been there and as a result they had nothing they could offer him to eat.

They could not even give him a ham sandwich because the ham was condemned and he drank coffee without cream or milk because it was under the ban. So was the butter. At a grocery he could not get canned goods for a lunch and he was told that the town butcher had been fined $38.

TABBY MAY BE LAYING IN FOOD FOR A RAINY DAY

Kansas City Cat Has Taken Two Young Rats Into Her Family.

Molly, the feline mascot of the electrical supply house of the Federal Lead Co. at Flat River, has adopted two young rats, which she is rearing together with three young kittens, says the Kansas City Journal. The little rodents are as much at home as the kittens, and the mother cat seems to prize them just as highly as she does her own offsprings. Heretofore Molly has been a most persistent hunter of rats and mice, and the office force at the Federal is rather doubtful about the trustworthiness of Molly's intentions.

HORSE BITES OFF A BOY'S THUMB WHILE IN ITS STALL

Was Putting Corn in the Feed When Animal Snapped at Him.

He was putting corn in the horse's feed box when it snapped at him, catching his hand.

Management of the school has just been conferred on the Christian Brothers.

SHE TELLS HOW RICH AMERICAN DECEIVED HER

Paula Klippenburg Gives Horace E. Miller's Letters to Public.

HE SPOKE OF MARRIAGE

Visited Europe Annually for Five Years and Captivated Her.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Miss Paula Klippenburg, the pretty Vienna girl, who was released yesterday after having been detained on Ellis Island for eight days, today made public some of the 250 letters she says were written to her by Horace E. Miller, the Newark (N. J.) millionaire whom she came here to sue for breach of promise. She also gave her version of the romance between her and Miller.

After being released from the island, where she was held pending deportation, until acting Secretary of Commerce and Labor Smith had heard the true facts of the case, she came directly to New York and went to the Imperial Hotel, where were her 16 trunks. She declares that no time shall be lost in filing her suit against Miller. Her attorneys are now preparing the petition.

"I first met Miller," Miss Klippenburg said today, "in 1902—just five years ago.

"I was not quite 18 then. It was in Vienna, where I was living with an aunt. My father and mother were both dead then. I was an innocent girl, and Miller, who was a few years my senior, appealed to me. He was a man of the world, handsome, and won me easily.

"The aunt with whom I was living died shortly afterwards, and Miller induced me to accompany him to Paris. There I remained while he was in Europe, but the following year went to Budapest.

He Talked of Marriage.

"Miller came over every year after our first meeting and remained about three months each time. Frequently he took me on long tours through Germany and Switzerland, and we also visited London. He was liberal always, sometimes spending as much as $600 a month. Always he talked of marriage when he came back again, but it was only talk.

"Then, about a year ago, I learned of a wife and children in this country, and we quarreled. This year he did not come over and I came to this country to seek restitution and justice. I did not intend to bring suit against him at first, as I wished to spare his wife and family.

"We were on perfectly friendly terms until the day of my arrest, which came as a great surprise. Only a couple of days prior to my arrest he took me to the cafe, where we lunched together."

One Letter in English.

Most of the letters which she says Miller wrote to her are in German and all express a sincere affection. Some are signed Heinrich Holbein, some Horace E. Mueler and others Horace E. Miller. One, written in English, is as follows:

New York, 14 Sept., 1903.

"Wohlgeborom Fraulein (high-born young lady)
"Paula von Klippenburg,
"Wien I Bez, Austria.

"My Dearest Polly—Another week has gone and I am continually thinking about you, how you are, if you are well and what you are doing. If you think of me as often and as much as I do of you and if you love me ever the same?

"Dearest Sweetheart, there is a saying, 'Absence makes the heart grow fonder.' I don't know if this is true in all cases (Is it true in yours?), but I know you are ever in my waking thoughts and also in my sweetest dreams.

"Your loving letter, written to me the second day after your return to Vienna—Aug. 26—the day I sailed from England, was received by me three days ago, and the maiden-hair fern you sent to me in the letter I think was from your room, from the flowers you had before we went away to Nuremburg. Am I right, dear sweetheart? How I wish you were here! I would kiss your dear hair and eyes and the hollow in your neck that was just meant for my kisses.

"Can you imagine how I long for you and for your love and sweet affection?

"You said I might write to you in English, and that you would send one of my English letters translated into German back to me so I would know you understood. Now, Dear Sweetheart, tell me true if it is too much trouble for you to understand the English, for I would not have you grow tired of my letters and rather have you say if the English is too difficult, then I will write always in German?

"I am very well and try to work so hard that I may be happy, but it is lonesome here without you and I missed you terribly. Have you got your picture, and is it good? I shall look forward to the pleasure of receiving a picture of you.

"With oceans of love and kisses upon kisses, I am, Dearest Sweetheart, ever thine.

"HEINRICH."

The foregoing letter was inclosed in an envelope addressed to Miss Klippenburg, and on the back of the envelope was written "Heinrich Holbein, Poste Restante (General Delivery), New York, U. S. A."

Wrote in a Week.

On Aug. 31, 1903, another letter, dated on the ocean, read in part:

"My Dear Polly: One week ago today, love, since we said good-by. Taken altogether, that last Sunday as spent in Wurnberg was the strangest, queerest, most unhappy day that I remember, and the night that followed was so full of passion, tears and kisses that the remembrance is a bitter sweet."

Lawyer Edwin S. Merrill of 52 Broadway, who returned from Washington yesterday with authority overruling the action of Immigration Commissioner Watchorn, told the acting secretary that Miss Klippenburg, who is 24 years old, came here on the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, on Saturday, Aug. 3, for the purpose of bringing suit for breach of promise of marriage against Horace E. Niler of Newark, who, she says, imposed himself upon her under an assumed name and as unmarried, won her affections and then left her.

Mr. Merrill said Miss Klippenburg first learned a few weeks ago that Miller had a wife and two daughters of near her own age, and that, when she reproached him he left Paris suddenly and returned to this country.

Subsequently, it is said, he wrote to Miss Kleppenberg, asking forgiveness. She came to America and, it is reported, was met by Miller, who escorted her to a restaurant and entertained her lavishly.

Wanted to Buy Letters.

Then, according to the lawyer, Miller induced the girl to go to the office of his attorney, E. R. Vollmar, at 229 Broadway, where, it is alleged, he offered her $500 for the 250 letters which she had with her. Finally she was offered $2000 to settle the matter. This she refused.

Mr. Merrill told that Miss Kleppenberg then consulted the only friend she had in America, Michael Gluckman, an importer of cigarettes, at 106 Eldridge street. He recommended her to Lawyer William Solomon, who was retained. It was said that Miss Kleppenberg brought a considerable sum of money with her as well as valuable jewelry.

Solomon was informed by the woman that she had promised Miller to meet him last Monday, in his attorney's office. Solomon advised her not to keep the appointment, but she insisted.

She went to Lawyer Vollmer's and did not reappear. Next day Solomon read that she had been taken into custody by the immigration authorities and was held at Ellis Island for examination upon the charge that she was an improper person.

Mr. Merrill told the secretary that Mr. Solomon had been denied by Commissioner Watchorn permission to see his client, or to be present during the hearing, had been denied information as to the identity of the person lodging complaint against Miss Kleppenberg, and had finally been ordered off Ellis Island by the commissioner.

It was also stated that the commissioner had secretly had the young woman taken to the Imperial Hotel, where she had been made to gather up the letters from Miller, her money and valuables, and was then taken back to Ellis Island. Mr. Merriss said neither he nor Mr. Solomon had been permitted to read any of the letters. He represented to Secretary Smith that the woman was helpless and liable to be returned to Paris without a fair hearing of her case.

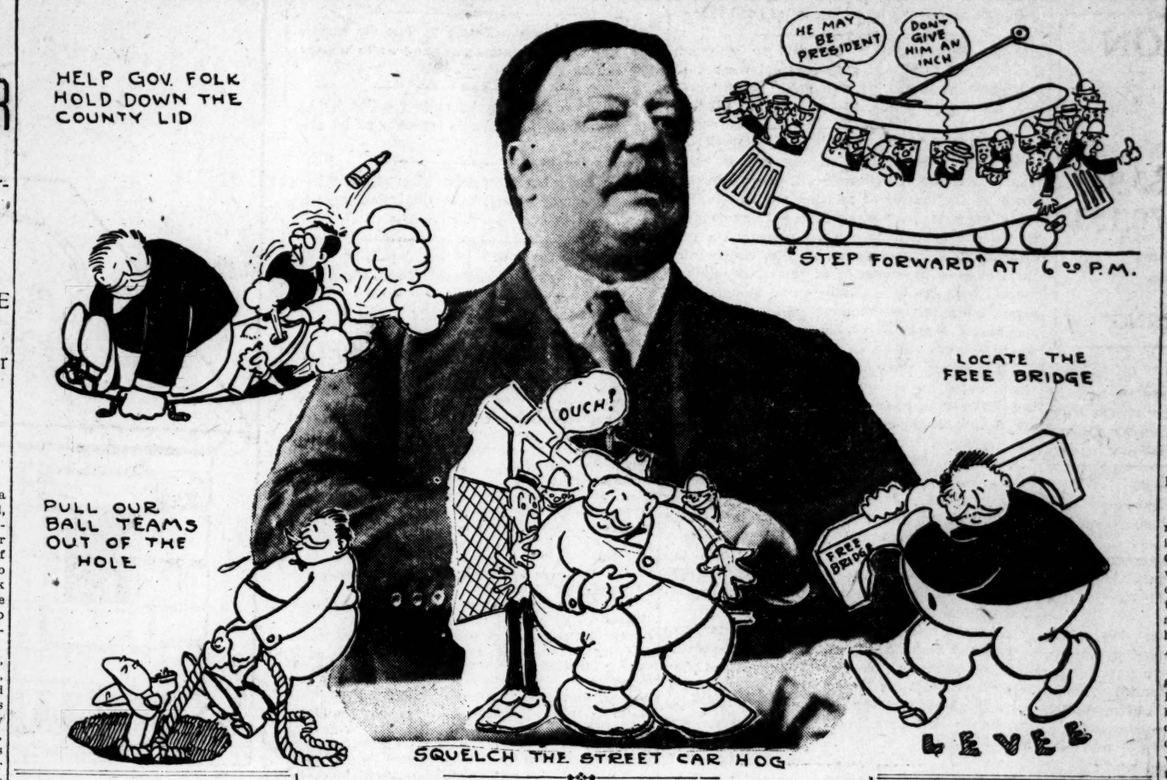

He represented that she had been tried by Commissioner Watchorn without a proper hearing, the interpreter being a Swede and not a German, and not understanding properly the German language.

Secretary Smith's Action.

Secretary Smith is said to have become incensed at Commissioner Watchorn's action and to have dictated a letter directing that Mrs. Klippenburg be admitted to bail during the consideration of her case in Washington. Mr. Solomon and Mr. Merrill were authorized to communicate with her and take charge of her papers.

Armed with this authority, Mr. Merrill and Mr. Solomon went to Ellis Island yesterday afternoon. The Commissioner accepted the $1500 bail bond tendered by Abraham Fosher of 209 East Broadway, and released the girl.

HOW SECRETARY OF WAR TAFT MIGHT HELP ST. LOUIS AND ENJOY AN ANTI-FAT EXERCISE AT THE SAME TIME

TWO MEALS FEATURE OF TAFT'S HALF DAY HERE

Between Breakfast and Dinner Parties the Secretary of War Will Receive Anybody Who Wants to See Him.

Secretary Taft, avowed candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will be in St. Louis from 7:30 a. m. Friday until 2:30 p. m. He will be entertained at a breakfast at the Planters Hotel by prominent Republicans, after which he will hold an informal reception and meet those who desire to call upon him.

Secretary Taft will pass through the city on his way to Oklahoma, where he will deliver a speech Saturday. Since Secretary Taft's visit to St. Louis a few months ago he has entered actively into the field for the Republican nomination, and there is political interest in his visit at this time.

Senator Warner, regarded as a champion of Secretary Taft's candidacy, will attend the reception. Senator Warner and Attorney-General Hadley have both expressed themselves as favorable to Secretary Taft as Roosevelt's successor.

A committee will meet Secretary Taft at the station and conduct him to the Planters Hotel. At the breakfast table, besides Senator Warner, will be Charles Nagel, host to Secretary Taft on his last visit to the city, former Judge Franklin Ferriss, Gen. John W. Noble, Robert Moore, Thomas K. Niedringhaus, chairman of the Republican State Committee; Jeptha D. Howe, chairman of the Republican City Committee; Thomas J. Akins, Republican national committeeman; Robert Day, and others. The breakfast, like the reception to follow, will be entirely informal.

Secretary Taft will spend the greater part of his time at the hotel. All persons who wish to see him will be received. As he is making a long journey it is probable that he will be taken for an automobile drive through the city about noon, and stop at one of the clubs for luncheon.

From the club, which will be selected later, Secretary Taft will be driven directly to the station.

There will be no speeches in St. Louis and no plans have been made for any political conferences.

The Ohio Republican State Committee has solicited the support of the Missouri Republicans for Secretary Taft in the national convention and he has a strong following here.

Some Republican leaders appear to be working in the interest of Vice-President Fairbanks of Indiana. Chairman Niedringhaus of the State Committee and Chairman Howe of the City Committee are classed as supporters of the Vice-President.

AUTO SMASH AFTER CHOP SUEY FEAST

Owner of Wrecked Car Says Her Son Was Driving It and Hit Stone.

The automobile which collided with a Delmar car on Olive street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets early Thursday morning belongs to Mrs. Ella B. Robinson of the Barwick Apartments, 4365 McPherson avenue. It was being driven at the time by her son, Verne Robinson, 22 years old.

He told his mother when she learned by the solicitous calls of friends that there had been an accident, that two men were with him. Persons who saw the accident say there was a woman in the automobile.

Verne had taken a New Orleans man named Shepard to Delmar Garden Mrs. Robinson said Thursday, and from there to Union Station. He and his two friends, one of them Louis Shelton, had then gone down town to a chop suey restaurant. They were returning west on Olive street when the wheel of the machine struck a rock and veered and came in contact with the car.

The fender of the car was bent and the tire of the auto was damaged. It was taken to a garage for repairs.

HORDES OF ARABS CIRCLE CASABLANCA

One Camp Alone Contains 4000 Fighting Men and All Are Heavily Armed.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PARIS, Aug. 22.—A correspondent of the Matin at Casablanca says the besiegers are now divided into three camps, the smallest of which contains 4000 men.

Gen. Drude, in an interview, declared it was impossible to dislodge the Arabs from their camps without 1500 more men. The Intelligence Department affirms that each Arab is provided with from two to four hundred rounds of rifle ammunition.

Spain Cautions Troops.

MADRID, Aug. 22.—The situation in Morocco was discussed at last night's Cabient meeting. At the close of the conference a statement was issued, saying that no reinforcements would be sent to the Spanish troops now at Casablanca, and that the latter were to remain inside the city and abstain from all fighting unless attacked. It was explained that they were there as police only.

Sounding for McKinley Bridge.

Soundings were taken Thursday for the bridge to be constructed by the Illinois Traction Co.—McKinley System—from St. Louis at the foot of Salisbury street to Venice. An ordinance designed to remove the last right of way obstacle on the East Side is under consideration by the Venice City Council.

Child Killed by Engine Whistle

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 22.—Awakened by a shrill, long-drawn-out engine whistle, the 2-year-old child of John Nedhoski, though in the best of health, was frightened into spasms, which resulted in death.

PASTOR BRINGS BACK BRIDE HE HAD TAKEN AWAY

Rev. A. A. Wheedon Says God Told Him to Restore Another's Wife.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Rev. Ashbury A. Wheedon, a Methodist minister, 57 years old, and Mrs. Anna Moffet, the 18-year-old bride of Charles W. Moffet of 545 Bergen street, Brooklyn, returned to the home of Moffet at 11 o'clock last night, after being missing since last Thursday.

Moffet had asked the police to send out a general alarm for his wife and the minister. When the couple returned the husband was away, conducting religious services. His girl-wife called him on the telephone and said she had been directed by God to return to her home.

According to Mrs. Moffet, her husband understood why she had left home and he instantly forgave her. The minister and Mrs. Moffet waited in the parlor for the return of the husband.

"We were ordered by God to return home," said Wheedon. "We did not elope, as was generally believed. I took Mrs. Moffet away because she said she was unhappy with her husband. She told me he was cruel to her.

Slept in Own Home.

"We have not lived in the same house since we went away last Thursday, but we have been within easy communication of each other. Mrs. Moffet did not leave her room Thursday night, as was supposed. For two nights she slept in an empty room at the top of her husband's house. She did not wish to be near him. At night she would creep downstairs and procure food.

"Then she told me that she could not stand such a life any longer and asked me to take her away. I did so, and am sure I can give a satisfactory explanation to her husband why we went away. We have done nothing wrong.

"It was a remarkable thing the way in which God told us to return. I called Mrs. Moffet up by telephone and told her that God had directed me to tell her to return to her husband. She said God also had sent a like message to her. I instantly went to her and we have returned."

When Mrs. Moffet talked with her husband over the telephone, he seemed to feel that his wife had done no wrong and told her he would hurry home.

Lives With the Couple.

The minister has lived in the Bergen street apartment with the Moffets since their marriage two months ago. Moffet and Wheedon are partners in a paper-box business.

"Wheedon took only a fatherly interest in my wife," said Moffet. "He and she would sit for hours without talking and, as Wheedon put it, offer silent prayer. They are both fanatics on the subject of religion and discussed little else."

Moffet met Wheedon, he said, four years ago, when he was a clerk at $9 a week in a Boroklyn dry goods store, and added that the minister had taught him to become a business man.

Baby Is Arrested for Trespass.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—William George Shaffer, 2 years old, was arrested today charged with trespass. Magistrate Armstrong refused to hear the case. Frank B. Fisher was the complainant. He alleges that baby Shaffer tore up his lawn.

DEATH PLOT FOR MONEY LAID TO MAN AND SISTER

They Are Accused of Hiring Agent to Kill Brother-in-Law.

SAID TO HAVE PAID $50

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Conspiracy to murder Frederick Hulse for $1500 life insurance is the charge on which George Carnie and his sister Marian Carnie were remanded for trial at New Brighton, Staten Island. According to District Attorney John J. Kenny, Carnie admitted his guilt, but protested that his sister was innocent. The District Attorney said:

"George Carnie is a stationary engineer. He lives at Port Richmond. His sister Marian, 32 years old, is his housekeeper. Frederick Hulse, a machinist, was married to their sister who died two years ago. Ever since his wife's death he has made his home with the Carnies. His life is insured for $1500, and George and Marian Carnie are named as the beneficiaries.

Wanted to Marry Again.

"A month ago, Hulse informed them he intended to marry a young woman of Jersey City. He had lent money to Marian Carnie and he told her she must repay his loans. About this time a man named McKenzie, who hangs out around the battery, went to police headquarters and said a man who told him he was George Carnie, had asked if he would undertake the job of putting a man out of the way. McKenzie told his story to Detective Smith, who came to me, and we began an investigation. Smith assigned Policeman Vockes to dress as a hobo and become the companion of McKenzie.

"McKenzie and the policeman had several interviews with Carnie and his sister at their house. They talked about killing Hulse and about the easiest way of doing it.

Were to Kill Him for $50.

"Finally a bargain was made that they would kill Hulse for $50. Smith sent for Hulse and told him of the plot. He warned him he must keep silent and not go home. Hulse promised and he stayed away.

"This morning McKenzie and Vockes went to George's house. They told Carnie and his sister that Hulse was out of the way; that they had murdered him last night by throwing him into the ocean and as proof they showed Hulse's watch and chain to Carnie.

"When Carnie saw the watch and chain he got scared. He gave McKenzie $50 and told him to get out of the house. Then Vockes arrested Carnie and his sister. The motive for the crime will be shown to have been the desire of the Carnies to get the insurance on Hulse's life and to avoid paying the money he had loaned the sister."

CONTINUE MAKING WARLIKE TOYS

Rabbi Fails to Induce Germans to Stop Manufacture of Certain Type.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 22.—Rabbi J. Leonard Levy, president of the Pittsburg Peace Society, returned today from a 10-weeks' trip in Europe. His mission was to induce German manufacturers of military toys to discontinue that type, so as to abolish from the minds of children warlike ideas. Rabbi Levy failed in his effort. He said:

"Manufacturers of toys in Germany, more especially in Nuhremberg, advised me that their work was clearly a commercial proposition. The Germans make toys for our market because it is the best in which to sell. We cannot expect any assistance from the peace conference at The Hague in this direction."

IS GOV. FOLK WAVERING?

If Gov. Folk has any well defined policy relative to law enforcement in St. Louis County it is not apparent at this date.

If he is interested only in suppressing the unlawful sale of beer in that community, he has an imperfect and entirely inadequate view of the situation.

The Governor asked for a State law which would enable him to deal with derelict officials. The law was enacted and is now in force.

After some spectacular gubernatorial visits to the scenes of alleged lawlessness and corruption action under the law is at length taken and it is instantly repudiated by the Governor, who cannot vouch for the complainant and who says he will ignore the proceeding.

No one will criticise Mr. Folk for refusing to countenance action which may not be in good faith, but what does he mean when he says he will use the whole power of the State to enforce the law and then adds: "I shall wait for some resident of St. Louis County, not a detective; some person who may be reasonably supposed to be striving solely for the public good, to file an affidavit before I take action. If such a person does not come forward to demand a better government for St. Louis County, then it will be just to conclude that the county does not deserve any better government than it has been getting?"

When a Folk clothed with the executive power of a great State talks in that fashion, it must be that things are not so bad in the county as they have been supposed to be or that the situation is so desperate as to be hopeless.

In either case, if the Governor has eyes for nothing worse than beer drinking in the county, there has been a prodigious hullabaloo over a comparatively trifling matter.

According to Mr. Garfield, the Indians of Oklahoma are divided on the question of statehood, which shows that they are not yet up to the paleface's level. Every white man would like to be a sovereign state himself.

CHEAPER WATER FOR THE PEOPLE.

That is a wise provision of the City Charter which prohibits the expenditure of the water fund for general municipal purposes.

It was placed there by men who knew exactly what they were doing. Experience had shown that in places where the water fund was available for current appropriations it was systematically looted to promote every scheme originating in the brain of extravagance. In this way taxes for water remained high and the service deteriorated.

We are surprised that anyone in authority in the City Hall can be found to advocate a change in the provisions of the charter by which the rights of the people are so wisely and effectively safeguarded.

Water should be supplied at cost. Any attempt to make a colossal profit on the business for the purpose of fattening the general revenues of the city cannot fail to result in an unjust and a burdensome tax upon the poor. No more inequitable system of taxation could be devised.

Instead of quarreling with the charter, the city authorities should be thankful that it is as it is. Instead of proposing destructive amendments they should devote themselves to extensions and improvements of the service and, when these have been provided for, to reductions of rates.

William E. Chandler of counsel for Mrs. Eddy's son, has discontinued proceedings for an accounting of property on the ground that they are unprofitable. When Mr. Chandler cannot see profit anywhere it is useless for other people to look.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S SUNDAY BANQUET.

The increasing cost of living interests everyone—the housewife who has to buy the supplies, the man of the house who pays for them, the boarding-house keeper who finds her profits diminishing, and the boarder who finds his purse depleted. It is the problem of the day. What is the cause of it? Light is thrown on this question in an interesting and informing article in next Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

Despite the flowers and delicacies frequently showered by women upon men accused of monstrous crimes, convicts are not usually regarded as desirable life partners. Yet four women eagerly sought marriage with one convict. The story of their infatuation is full of extraordinary human interest.

Men and women have adopted remarkable methods to save those they loved, but the method adopted by a Belleville man to save his divorced wife is one of the most remarkable ever recorded. Of course, it ended in a romance, but not the kind of romance which was expected by the friends of the couple. The story of the experiences of this couple is not surpassed in fiction.

What is the pull of a 40-horsepower automobile? Did you ever try to figure it out? It is figured out in the most striking and interesting way in next Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

In addition to these stories, next Sunday's Post-Dispatch will have many other absorbing and informing features, with all the news from all parts of the world. It will be a banquet of good things.

If Mr. Roosevelt ever attempts to elaborate the postroad theory of governmental control of interstate commerce, it will take more words than there were dollars in the Standard Oil fine.

TRIFLING WITH THE FREE BRIDGE.

Until its "committee on engineering" makes a report the House of Delegates will take no further action in the matter of locating the free bridge.

Nothing could have given more aid and comfort to the monopolistic interests opposed to a free bridge than the appointment of three members of the House in the capacity of scientists and engineers to make investigations and submit findings. Acting as astronomers to investigate the star-dusted infinitude of heaven, the committee would achieve results as relevant and practical.

But it is not what they will do that concerns the monopoly on the one hand and the people on the other—it is when they will do it. Delay, to the delight of the monopoly, is written all over the expedient.

William J. Brennan, Alexander Bourg and James Gallagher constitute the committee. Brennan, author of the resolution creating the committee, and its chairman, is opposed to prompt location of the free bridge. Gallagher is the man who last week introduced a bill to locate the bridge at Mullanphy street, and was undoubtedly picked for this committee because of his opposition to immediate location.

Under the resolution creating it, the committee is virtually authorized to continue its "investigation" indefinitely. A decently organized and fairly representative House would promptly dissolve this body of three and proceed to carry out the public will in a business-like manner and with dispatch.

When Senator Foraker uses Secretary Taft for a pincushion, he has a big one at any rate.

POLITENESS SHOULD WORK BOTH WAYS.

In a letter to the Post-Dispatch a person signing himself "Masculine Gender" utters some tart objections to giving up his seat to a lady in a street car. He says: "Many times the person who gets up to give the lady his seat will get in return a cold, stony stare, and after this happens about twice, a man takes joy in seeing a woman stand."

No; a real man would not feel such joy, and one who aspires to the title of Masculine Gender ought not to. It may be said that if this aspirant ever did give up his seat to a lady as he describes he perhaps mistook for a cold stare her look of genuine surprise.

The ladies were made to be "given up to," and real men have encouraged them in that idea; but they receive so little of their deserved deference in this era of straphanging that some show of astonishment is almost pardonable when a seat is actually proffered.

Mr. Masculine Gender is right, however, to the extent that he emphasizes the necessity for greater politeness on the part of some women who are fortunate enough to receive their dues. Politeness might as well work both ways. While the ladies owe us no special thanks, still they can afford a little gratuitous graciousness towards us when we behave as we should.

The important thing for a man, however, is his own manly and gentlemanly conduct towards the weaker sex. What the weaker sex does in return doesn't much matter. This much is absolutely certain—if all males and masculine genders were really men and gentlemen, the ladies would be forced to a universal amiability and sweetness of manner in recognition of that fact.

Wall street found, on reading the President's speech closely that no honest men need fear anything from him or his policies, and so Wall street, having a good opinion of itself, concluded not to get scared this time.

TEDDYBEAR AS A TRADEMARK.

A teddybear magazine fresh on the bookstalls illustrates the further use of this popular symbol and hints that its remaining unexploited possibilities are tremendous. The teddybear indeed is but in his infancy.

There is yet no teddybear cigar, baking powder, pickle, shaving soap, breakfast food, liver pill, hook-and-eye, chewing gum, corset or cocktail. Why not give the teddybear freer play in this bright commercial era? Give us teddybear chocolates, bottled beer, fly paper, steam laundries and automobiles.

By way of divertisement, why not dramatize him or do him into modern fiction?

In any event, there ought to be a soothing syrup with the symbol blown in the bottle.

All of University City's officials, except the Town Marshal, are absent on vacation. If they desire to establish the legal status of their town as a municipality this is no way to go about it. Moreover, if they were at home they might stand a chance of being counted among Gov. Folk's "dozen good men" in helping to redeem the county.

"Texas will drive the Standard Oil from the State if every home within its borders has to burn candles for light," says Attorney-General Davidson. This is the spirit of 1907.

It seems that the Government will proceed against the undertakers' trusts when all the other trusts shall have been buried.

Next year in Missouri should not be merely a presidential year. It should be made a tree-planting year. In every available spot there should be a new timber tree.

In spite of dieting, exercise and hard work, Secretary Taft continues to take on weight. When such a man once gets under way in a presidential race it will be hard to stop him.

Nobody will blame the Republican party for claiming that it made the prosperity, but the Canadians and a whole lot of other foreigners are also prosperous.

St. Louis County officials neither die nor resign, and there is some gambling as to whether they can be ousted.

Mr. Shaw's forgotten boom is recalled by his new advice to the American people to be sane financially.

Some blooming statesman who will not be a water hyacinth should take Chairman Burton's place.

After 1907 there will be less humidity in the air. There will be a decrease of stock watering.

Don't Nag the Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Too bad something can't be done to quiet those old fogies who are continuously nagging the young ones for playing on the sidewalks. I would suggest that they move out in the country. They seem to have forgotten that they, too, were kids once upon a time. Mr. Groutchy, if you don't like it, you ought to at least try and bear it. We are children only once in a lifetime. Don't lose sight of that.

BINGHAM L. F. DAY.

Business Life and Its Temptations.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Women in the business world are just as much women as those who stay at home, but when it comes to being just as much of a lady, as in the majority of cases, is an entirely different conditions. There are heads of departments in stores in our city who will employ only the best looking, best formed girls and only that they may entertain them at dinner at hotels and cafes without attracting attention. This country is growing more immoral each day simply on account of young girls and women in the business world being tempted with fine clothes, dinners, automobiles, etc. Let the women stay at home and make the world better and hold the love and respect of man.

Hotel Beers, St. Louis. A READER.

Women Must Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems to be the general opinion of writers that the home is the place for woman—but with a million more women than men here and other countries still worse supplied, the race is fast disappearing—and how, pray, are we to become the much-talked of housewife? Most of the unmarried women must make their own way—they are not seeking a career—but just trying to find a little niche in life and fill it the best they are able—being thankful to provide some comfort to an aged parent or help a younger brother or sister ANNE.

The Unwritten Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Please allow me a few words in your letter column in regard to the "Unwritten Law" as discussed recently in your paper. I am sure I voice the sentiment of millions in saying that it should be legalized. Women cannot stop on the streets or other places without being insulted by some creature calling himself a man, and there are thousands of cases never reported because the women dread the disgrace and the creature denies it, of course, as he is afraid to acknowledge it. Prof. Russell of Washington, D. C., as quoted in your paper, gives statistics proving that such crimes are on the increase, and there should be something done to stop it. It is so refreshing to go down South, to "the land of chivalry," where we find true gentlemen—men who are broad-minded and honest enough to acknowledge the truth—that the protection of women and children is the most vital question of civilization—that it protects himself as well. A.

Peril on Back Seats.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Now that there are no more limericks, please publish this, from an Illinois physician: "I believe all agree that smoke is minute particles of carbon, resulting from incomplete combustion. Many smokers are infected with consumption, pneumonia, influenza and other infectious diseases, peculiar to the nose, throat and lungs. The very passages these little carbon balloons are made to travel in the almost universal habit of smoking, and we are all compelled, on the streets, in the cars, depots, hotels and all other public, and many private places, as well, to take this same smoke, second-handed, and probably disease-germ ladened from some badly diseased and infected mouth, nose, throat or lungs, and breathe it into our mouth, nose, throat or lungs."

JEEMS.

Olive Street Blocked.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

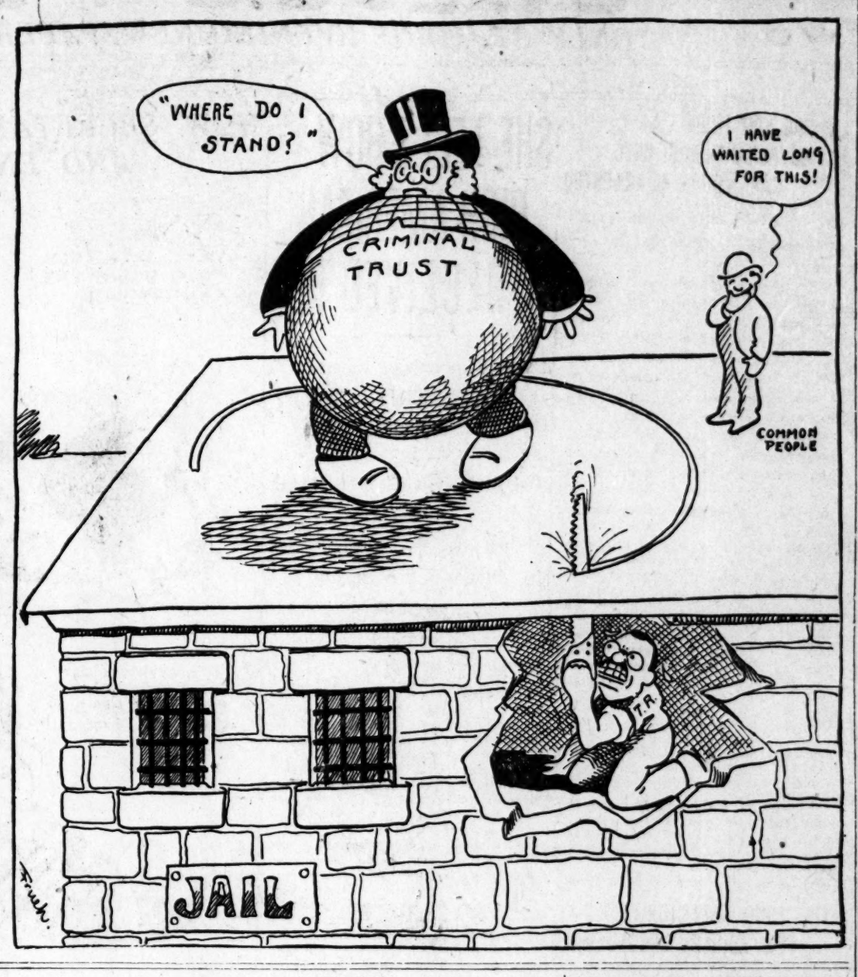

May I humbly ask, through your columns, what part of the street we poor pedestrians may claim as our own, at the west corners of Broadway and Olive? The buildings at both corners are in an unfinished stage of erection or destruction, and both sides of the street are cluttered out to the car tracks—one side with bricks, the other with sand. The construction company working on the south side was kind enough to reserve a little covered walk for us, but that is now almost filled up with terra cotta work. When the little trap door is open there is scarcely space enough for two to pass abreast. When I tried to get by there Wednesday morning, during a busy hour, the knights of the wheelbarrow were in possession and traffic was suspended. This leaves us only the car tracks, and a woman hesitates to get mixed up in the dispute that is continually going on between teamsters and the United Railways Co. as to the right of way on the tracks. Can anything be done? Hoping so, and thanking you for giving space to my grievance, I am, A SUBSCRIBER.

Can't a Girl Rise?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A woman's work is to do what she can. That all women should be housekeepers and housekeepers only is as fair as to say that all men should do hard work for housekeeping is hard work. If a woman can rise and better her condition, why should she not do so? If girls should only learn housekeeping, how much salary do they get? They get little enough as it is, but they can still be free to live at their own homes, not in someone's kitchen where they never see a friendly face except on their one day out in a week. Is this not a country where all are free and equal? Then why is it that the men always try to keep the women down, and if anything goes wrong, they lay the blame on a woman, but in the case of a success, they don't give all the credit to the woman. In the marriage question a man expects a woman to cook from the first day as good as mother, but he does not bring in as much money as father. There are faults on both sides, so let everyone please themselves, but don't go out of their way to push someone down. LUCKY STREET.

WE MAY SEE SOMETHING DROP.

JUST A MINUTE.

AT LAST.

(Tuesday was the coldest August day in 71 years.—News).

The oldest resident observed
The mercury's collapse,
The men and women going in
Their overcoats and wraps,
And long icicles hanging on
The leaking water taps.

He looked upon the August sky
With keen, prophetic ken,
He set his face toward his home,
And trotted now and then,
And he never loitered once to say,
"Now, I remember when."

EXCLUSIVE PANTS.

A citizen of Memphis, Tenn., has just taken a bold step to force a test case in the matter of one's exclusive right to particular patterns in clothes.

Two other men admired his new pants and made inquiries which led him to believe that they intended duplicating them. Becoming satisfied of their intention, he got a shotgun and killed them both.

The unwritten law as to clothes is, perhaps, as well understood as any of the other unwritten statutes. Among women, especially, it is well known that the owner of the first dress made from a certain piece of goods is exclusively entitled to that pattern. Subsequent purchasers are not only abhorred, but are humiliated with remarks like, "You have a dress like Mrs. Smith's, haven't you?"

Among men a complete understanding has not been reached except in the single garment of pants. Your pants pattern is exclusive. If you are the first in the field with a certain stripe or check, you have a perfect right to defend yourself against imitation. You want your pants to be distinctive and the community will back you up in any action you may take to keep the pattern from becoming such common property that you cannot go on the street without seeing a half dozen pairs of pants just like your own.

As we understand these matters, the man at Memphis is bound to be freed by the unwritten law as to pants.

WILL WE EVER SEE IT?

ANSWERS.

Mr. Rockefeller: No, Kenesaw Mountain is not a volcano.

Mr. Taft: We do not recall Mr. Bryan's time around the world.

Dr. Long: Yes, it is true that the President has resumed the attack upon the nature fakers. Stay where you are.

Choo-Choo.—We don't know how much money you should take with you to run to Kansas City. Your expenses will probably be very reasonable after you get through St. Louis County.

Mr. Folk: we don't kknow just how the East feels toward you. Keep on sawing wood.

Bryan disasters go in series. He has also been in four railroad wrecks trying to reach the Rockford Chautauqua.

LOST IN FOREST PARK.

Delegate Gallagher has discovered hitherto undeveloped possibilities in Forest Park. You can get lost in it. Mr. Gallagher hit upon this happy discovery the other night, when he tried to go through the park. He wandered from familiar highways and spent most of the night in the woods. A huckster's owl wagon finally rescued him.

Delightful! To be lost in the woods—and so near home! It is beautiful. It makes us all feel like going out and losing ourselves, though few of us, perhaps, would have the good luck that Mr. Gallagher had. We would be sure to miss those bosky dells into which he unconsciously strayed, and from which no amount of ranging could deliver him. The particular moss bank upon which he rested while the pale moon sailed the sky; the unpathed forest in which he could hear no sound but the night birds and the soft wind in the trees; the sweet solitude into which he plunged—no, we would never be so lucky as that.

Mr. Gallagher wants to have guideposts placed everywhere in the park, so no one else can ever be lost there. Having had that rare experience he would deprive all the rest of us of the possibility of having it. Fie, Mr. Gallagher, and no guide posts.

TAFT—HIS HAT.

ONTO HIM.

The gentlemen had lighted their cigars, when the host rose and began talking in a reminiscent vein.

"I beg your pardon," said one of the guests, "but are you going to talk of old times?"

"Well, yes," said Methusaleh, "I thought I would go back a little."

With a groan that could be heard across the Euphrates, the company rose and departed.

EXCEPTIONAL INDUCEMENT.

Stage Manager: We are having a terrible time getting pretty chorus girls.

Producer: What are we offering?

"Thirty-five dollars a week."

"That's enough money. Tell them we also guarantee a week in Pittsburg."

HUMAN NATURE FAKING.

Once there was a wedding at which none of the guests looked for the price marks on the presents.

"George, what do you think of my lemon pie?'

"Better than mother ever dared to make."

Mr. Bryan was offered the presidential nomination for the third time.

"O, let someone else run this time," he said.

WOMEN PHYSICIANS.

From the Boston Post.

In the entire list of admissions to practice at the bar just made public there is not one woman among the more than 100 new attorneys. Of these ninety-two doctors of medicine passed by the State Board of Registration ten are women. The alignment of the sexes in the professions seems to be turning in the direction of natural aptitude and sympathetic development. The practice of law is not a congenial occupation for women unless in exceptional cases. Few have the temperament and the disposition to find in it happiness or achieve success. On the other hand, the healing art offers to women a career in which their natural intuitions and their delicate perceptions constitute invaluable aids to science.

Comforting Signs.

From the Chicago Herald.

It does not follow just because Wall street and Mr. Rockefeller are shrieking that all is well with the country as a whole, any more than it follows that there is anything wrong with the country. One must look to better sources for proof. The calm interviews with Chicago bankers, who are remote from the influence of Wall-street pessimism, which the Record-Herald printed, are very much in point just at the present time. The Chicagoans see "tight" money a little earlier than usual this season, but they also see general conditions to be good. They deal with the underlying facts, knowing that while these facts are allright confidence will take care of itself.

Bryce Is Nice.

From the Baltimore American.

Ambassador Bryce has qualified as an international member of the fisherman's guild. He has settled the case of the seizure of the American fishing steamer, the Alert, last spring for engaging in fishing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence without a trap-net license, by recommending that the local authorities should not interfere with the American fishermen in any case where a license would not be required by British fishermen. Thus he places the Americans upon the most favored nation footing with regard to the water catch. His adroit angling apears in his mild recommendation that in the meanwhile the Americans might with propriety take out British license.

Loeb Still Busy.

From Leslie's Weekly.

This may be the vacation season for President Roosevelt, but probably it is no vacation for his hard-working secretary. The newspaper interviews with Mr. Loeb all show that there is no busier man than he during this hot summer. Scarcely a day passes when he does not bring his fountain pen into use to defend the President from assaults of some tresspasser on the truth, or explain the attitude of the chief magistrate on questions that are more or less important.

San Francisco.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

A deeply serious protest is uttered against calling San Francisco by the trifling name of 'Frisco, because the place was named for St. Francis of Assisi, and to call it out of his name "is an insult to his memory." Well, it isn't half so bad as for 'Frisco to act the way it has been doing for the last few years. No saint could abide it.

Can Worry Along.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Uncle Sam expects to harvest only 2,648,673,000 bushels of corn this year; but, with the advance of temperance sentiment in the South and West, he hopes to pull through without a positive famine.

Bride's Strategy.

From the New York World.

Heredity will tell. The granddaughter of Stonewall Jackson who eloped and was pursued through three states by an angry father, won out in the end by the execution of a flank movement.

W.—Presents for girl of 13: Hand-painted fan, plant in jardiniere, four-leaf clover stickpin, tortoise shell comb, handbag of seal leather, flowers, a gold cross, dog-collar of gold beads, a book by her favorite author, combination purse and card-case, enamel or wrought-iron belt buckle, beudoir clock.

A.—Dough bait: Pour hot water on wheat flour, knead to the consistency of dough, adding enough molasses to make dough slightly sweet; put in little pieces of cotton to strengthen dough and keep it from crumbling and washing from the hook when it hardens in cold water. Balls should be rolled the size of marbles.

A. O.—As a rule harmless snakes are oviparous (laying eggs) and the venomous are ovoviparous (hatching eggs within the body), but the exceptions are numerous. The eggs are generally excluded in a chain, being connected by a viscous substance. In most cases the mother leaves them to be hatched in the sun, but some species coil around them. Some, at the approach of danger, open their mouth and receive their young, which come out unharmed.

E.—To clean and polish old furniture: Make a mixture of a quart of stale beer or old vinegar, with a handful of common salt and a teaspoonful of muriatic acid, and boil it 15 minutes; put it in a bottle and warm it when wanted for use. Wash with soft hot water the furniture you wish to clean, so as to remove all the dirt, then afterward wash it with the mixture in the bottle; then polish with a soft flannel rag.

MRS. F.—Scorch stains: These may often be removed by merely leaving the spot where the strongest sun rays will fall directly upon it. Sprinkling with dry starch and laying in the sun is also excellent for more serious stains of this sort, and when the scorch is all but burnt into the fabric, moisten the starch with a little cold water, making a thin paste; spread this over the scorch, and lay in the direct rays of the sun. This method will remove the worst scorch stains, unless the fabric is actually burned. A slightly scorched, newly-ironed article may be hung out of doors on the line, in the sun and wind, and in a short time there will be scarcely a trace of the stain left, if, indeed, the spot is perceivable at all. Sometimes the next laundering will of itself remove all trace of scorch without further efforts.

G. R. S.—Some of the following remedies may prove beneficial for car-sickness. It must be remembered, however, that what one person may have found invaluable may not always have the same good effect on another. Foremost is the old-time remedy—lemon juice. If this is taken freely, undiluted, it will usually prove a preventive. Another remedy is clam juice. Cool the juice with ice and drink as much as desired. Tablets of black licorice and pieces of cinnamon bark are also recommended. If thin smoked beef is put in the oven until crisp and a piece taken at intervals during the journey it may prevent sickness. Lying down in a berth in a sleeper may cause sickness, whereas one may not be affected if only slightly reclining. Astigmatism is said to cause it in some cases.

ALL WOMEN HAVE HOMING INSTINCT.

They May Be in Business but, Subconsciously or Consciously, They Are Looking for Husbands, Says This Post-Dispatch Writer.

BY LUCY HOSMER STOUGHTON.

DESPITE indignant protest, Mrs. Sam Small hits hard when she says women enter the business field with matrimony in their mind's eye.

Many of them do.

They may not have the idea in defie form, and they grow hysterical in their denials if flatly accused of the fact.

But there isn't an unmarried woman living who begins work in a big business office without a careful survey of the masculine element present, and a calculation, subconscious perhaps, as to the eligibility and the possibility of certain unattached males as husbands.

"Will He Do?"

She can't help doing this. It is just as inate, as instinctive, as that of the man, who (married or single) takes account of stock of the New Girl in the office and unconsciously compares her with his own wife or sweetheart, or contemplates her charms with an eye to sole possession of same.

But it by no means follows that because a business woman looks over the field and occasionally views the nearest man as a prospective, though unlikely, husband, that she adopts the same tactics as her sister in the business world. The better balanced the woman, the less does she think of the matter at all.

Miss Pompadour drives her typewriter only when she herself is driven, and watches the clock with feverish anxiety for closing time. She is likely to indulge in that pastime known as "making eyes" and to find speedy opportunity to open the way for the head clerk to invite himself to call.

In marked contrast, Miss Serious Spinster scorns the usual feminine dodges, perhaps has outgrown them, but she likes the way the young clerks have of leaning over her desk for a few minutes and asking her valued advice concerning their love affairs, and on the day the New York bachelor manager arrives for his semi-annual visit she dons her prettiest waist and brings a bunch of flowers for her desk.

Miss P. hasn't outgrown her illusions quite so much as Miss S., but deep down in their hearts both have the same fundamental interest in those members of the opposite sex with whom they come in contact.

Mrs. Small is, to my notion, unqualifiedly wrong when she declares that business women make poor housekeepers and are domestically deficient.

Poor business women make poor housekeepers.

And if I may venture to inquire, how many excellent housekeepers does Mrs. Small know, anyway?

And what is her proportion between the slip-shod housekeepers of her acquaintance, who never saw the inside of a business office, as compared with that of the sensible, energetic, trained-to-detail business women, who marry and go into homes of their own and who get the best results for their households the least expenditure of time, brains and money?

A capable woman will be capable in any field.

She may not know a thing in the world but shorthand, accounts and bills of lading, but if she's good in that line, she can read a cook book and keep the refrigerator clean. She will make mistakes, very naturally, for there is no more difficult business, if you please, than this "keeping house," but she learns the trade, just as she learned how to type a neat letter. The finest housekeeper that I know is a St. Louis woman who for 15 years did first clerical and then managerial work for a wholesale jewelry firm and kept track of such a multiplicity of detail that, at the time she married and retired, her employers offered her almost any sum within reason to remain.

All really fine women have the domestic, the homing instinct. This doesn't mean washing dishes nor scrubbing pots and blacking stoves.

It means the genuine desire for a home and the foundation of a family, the finest possession that can come to anybody.

"Ah, I'm too tired!"

Instincts grow by cultivation and you can't make, all at once, a skilled housewife out of a young slip of a business girl, whose mother never lets her sweep her own room and who flops onto the sitting-room couch every night after dinner, refusing to stir except to dress and go to a summer garden, claiming that she is too tired to help with the various little domestic duties.

It is altogether likely that she IS too tired.

But if she cared less for the "having just as good clothes as Marie or Grace or Emma," and more about a perfect development of her womanly character, she wouldn't be doing anything except helping mother and finding plenty of time for her own pleasures, too, provided they were such as her father could afford to give her.

There are exceptions, and this category does not by any means include the girl who goes downtown to work because she must support herself completely, and perhaps other people, too.

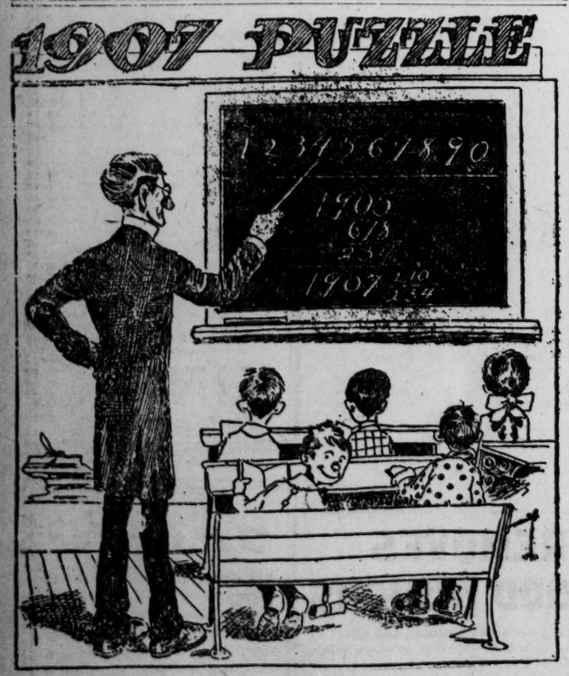

A vast majority of girls accept business positions because they want more things, better things, greater opportunities to see the world than those which their parents can give them.

They want increased chances to meet eligible men, too, which brings us back to the precise point where we started.

"IT HAPPENED IN CHINA."

TWO-STORY buildings are believed in certain parts of China to exert a baneful influence. A correspondent tells of a case in point, fatal results following the erection of such an edifice opposite the yamen of an official: "The official protested against the completion of the building. The house was finished, nevertheless, and then the mischief began to work. One after another of the yamen people took sick and several died. Finally the official himself fell a victim to this criminal disregard of the laws of the unseen world. Since his death large screens have been erected between his yamen and the house in question, and the merchant owner of the latter has been ordered under official surveillance."

1907 PUZZLE

SAYS Prof. Figgers in his entertaining lecture on fractions: "You see, I have arranged a sum of the figures, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0, which gives a total of 1907 210-234. Now, who can arrange those same ten figures into another sum, using fractions, proper, improper or otherwise, which will add up nearer to 1907 than the example I have shown?" Nothing need be added to Prof. Figgers's proposition. All you have to do is to arrange the ten figures in a sum which will come as close as possible to footing up 1907.

SOLUTION OF THE "PICTURE SUM."

TESS GETS A RAISE.

BY JOSEPH A. FLYNN.

"AND what's all this talk about your leaving?" I asked Tess the other morning.

"Gumdrops!" she replied, stealing a sly look at a pink silk peek-a-boo on the other side of the table. "There was a little flame, but, like William taking the third pledge, it's all over now. You know I'm a live one. I've lamps, two listeners, a dining room to fill and a lid to cover, just like every other Mary Ann, and I don't always feel with my fingers like some of the bonnets here.

"Because I sling plates, don't think I belong in the closet. Don't get a clog in your Think that this job is like sweeping sunshine off the stoop. It isn't. Some of the settlers here are white, but there's a couple of slams and creeping Idas that I've got a shoe behind my back for.

"Some of the bamboos here think I'm a honk-honk. Whenever there's murder at the factory, I get it. Whenever Mary's had a wrestle with John, I get it. The surprise party came off Saturday night. Adrian asked me to look at the moon, so after everybody fed their face I climbed the ladder, fussed up my mop, shook the dust off a white cloth blouse with a tearholder pocket over the heart, and was trotting down the hall when one of those Pictures-Turned-to-the-Wall—that Henrietta with the Glue-Works face—opened her gate and said, like a lot of cracked ice, "Girl, come in here and help me with my hair!"

"Talk about Rock-Me-to-Sleep-Mother-Darling. It took me four minutes to come out of it.

"Now, listen to my argument. In the first place, I'm not acquainted with 'Girl;' in the second place, it isn't her own mop, and everybody in the house knows it, for one night it took a vacation and we found it on the parlor floor in the morning; and in the third place I'm not a stoker here; so I put on the brakes, handed her a North Pole smile, told her she was big enough and old enough, even if she didn't know enough, to fix her own roof; that I wasn't a hair restorer, and to move further up in the bed or she'd slip out. Then I ha-ha'd down the stairs, walking on eggs.

After I beat it she was Hot-Foot-Jim down to the old lady with a Horrible-Horrible, and a couple of twists and I hardly shook hands with the door again when I was right on the pan.

"Now, I'm not shaking for my job here. I'm not Nervous Minnie on finding dusty corners, but I've got a good rep to hold up, and if I don't shine my own face the wind won't do it for me. There's no medals on me for hard work, and I'll never buy bread and butter for the spec doctors chasing it; but just the samee, I always twirl my lunch hooks when it comes through the door.

"I wouldn't get a thousand Per if I shook this Dippy Foundry in the morning, but I make good with every bite, so when the old lady started to pull me through the strainer I punched my jicket and locked the trunk. The old lady said it was a case of me or Mollie kissing her good-by, so I said, 'All right, put your job in the cooler. A nickel a line for mine.' Out in two minutes, by the mut in the yard, she was up in my bunk on her benders, bawling that I was the best Mary Ann that ever laid a curly head on the pillow; that all the Johns would shake a leg next morning if I left, and to please not spoil her graft.

"You know there's nothing like touching Hubby after a meal, so before I signed the papers I made a strike for an extra case, and she fell like off the Bridge. It was so easy I'm sorry I didn't make a crack for two. Mollie was getting ready to make a grandstand play for a Dollar Dead who was going to call in that night. Mollie thinks she's good looking, and if he feels that way about it he needs windows. She knows my handle now, for I guess I copped her goose that night.

"Why, didn't she catch him?" I asked, glancing over the morning paper.

"Catch doughnuts!" she answered, counting the silver spoons as she placed them on the sideboard. "She couldn't catch a cold."

"ELECTRIC" FUNERALS.

POSSIBLY as a guarantee of speedy funerals Berlin has acquired its first electric motor hearse. The hearse has been approved by the police and is to be put in regular service immediately. Its owner says that it will enable funerals to be dispatched in one-third of the time that is now necessary.

"We Shall Not Pass This Way Again."

We shall not pass this way again.
If there be aught of secret pain
'Tween you and me,
In the great sea
Of all men's pain let it be cast
This night, that only love may last.

We shall not pass this way again
My Heart, in pain shall we refrain
From tenderness,
And cease to bless
Each added hour that love may give Us in this piteous space we live?

We shall not pass this way again
Haply tomorrow comes in vain,
If we shall part
With heavy heart
This night. Ah, then could love forget
The little griefs we cherish yet?
Let us be done with pain—
We shall not pass this way again.

OFF DAY IN THE BROWNS' SCHEDULE GIVES McALEER'S MEN A REST AND ALSO FURNISHES A SHORT VACATION IN ST. LOUIS . . . . . FOR FANS BUT THE CARDINALS WILL BE BUSY IN BROOKLYN AND TOMORROW THE HEDGES OUTFIT WILL PLAY CONNY MACK'S AGREGATION HERE AT HOME

THESE ARE HAPPY DAYS FOR PROFESSIONAL MEN

Ballplayers and Prizefighters, With Few Exceptions, Are Putting Aside Money Every Year and Building Up Comfortable Fortunes.

Wallace—$6500 Per.

ONE Mr. Hoffman, by his great work in the field at critical stages, prevented the Browns from taking the last game with the Highlanders Wednesday afternoon.

Rain shut off whatever chances the Cardinals might have had in Philadelphia. An open schedule keeps the Browns off the diamond today and it remains to be seen what McCloskey's rejuvinated youngsters will do with the hard-hitting Brooklyns.

In yesterday's game the fact that the Browns lost cannot be charged up to Harry Niles, for McAleer's low-priced second baseman got three hits out of four times up, made six put-outs and as many assists. His three out of four swats incidentally put him close to the top of the American League batting list once more.

It is quite likely that Niles will be one of the high-priced men in the league next year. Of course, he will not touch the $6500 mark of Bobby Wallace, but then Bobby won't be getting that much, either—about $4500 will be nearer the figure, it is believed—but by his good work this year Harry will just about double his salary.

These are certainly the banner times for professional athletes. Not alone are the ballplayers getting the money, but it is coming still easier for the pugilists.

There was a time when fighting and prodigality were always linked together in the same sentence. But no more! The modern fighter is out to get all he can and keep everything but the interest on his money.

Take Joe Gans. For the past year or so we have heard occasional loud announcements from Bill Nolan and Bat Nelson that Gans is "broke." Nolan-Nelson have counted upon this state of financial depression to force Gans to fight Nelson again under absurd conditions. But Gans isn't "broke," by a long shot. He's one of the most affluent gentlemen of the ring. Gans is building a hotel in Baltimore just now, they say. He has bought much property in his home town. And he has a bank account that has to be bled every month or so to keep it from suffering with severe attacks of congestion.

Gans has money—and he's making more. Things are coming very easy for Joe just now. He ought to clean up $10,000 or so with Memsic and at least twice as much with Britt. And if he gets away with these two fights there's nothing to stop him from going right on the stage as Othello and making a fortune.

Britt—Owns Chunks of Frisco.

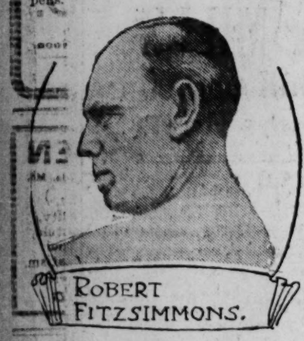

AND still talking about money—here's a surprise. Bob Farrell, John L. Sullivan's old sparring partner, an ex-champion lightweight, who now runs a boxing school in New York, says that John L. has become a genuine capitalist.

"Sullivan," says Farrell, "now has between $60,000 and $65,000 in cash. I positively know this to be a fact. John was the greatest money-maker in the ring. But in all his days he never had so much before at one time. When Sullivan stopped drinking two or three years ago he reformed in other ways, too. Without drinking he easily saved his money, and he has been wonderfully successful on the stage. John is really a great story-teller. His monologue has made a hit wherever he has showed, and now that he's traveling with his old rival, Jake Kilrain, he has packed houses every night. He and Kilrain fought a great 75-round battle and he has not forgotten it. So John's old fighting ability is still earning him a living, and a mighty good one. Yes, sir; I know it to be a fact that John has over $60,000 at this moment. And he's adding to his pile every day."

Britt gave all of his money to his father after the earthquake in San Francisco. The old gentleman was wiped out of business by the fire. James came up with the coin and now Britt Sr., is as well off as ever. Jimmy has always been good to his family. He deserves credit for that.

Jim had about $100,000 in paying property located in San Francisco. His houses were located outside of the fire zone and escaped the Frisco disaster without any more damage than a few shaken chimneys and broken windows.

Jimmy Coffroth, the Frisco fight promoter, has cleaned up a quarter of a million dollars in various sporting enterprises and has invested most of his capital in California vineyards. He is on Easy street, not matter what happens.

One of the Few Exceptions.

Kid McCoy is rich in his wife's name, and has a bunch o- real estate in his own.

Old "Elbows" McFadden is a rich man. He is eccentric enough to wear overalls and work at his old trade of brickklaying whenever he can get time. Collecting rents keeps him fairly busy and Mac, being thrifty, is his own carpenter, plumber, bricklayer, janitor and a few other things.

Jim Corbett although he doesn't say much about it, is carrying a lot of Long Island real estate and can afford to wear a peck or so of diamonds if he wants to. If Kid Broad and young Corbett were in Jim Corbett's boots, the people on Mars could see a guttering spot located near the crossing of Broadway and Forty Second street.

Gus Ruhlin is so rich that it is almost a shame. Gus has been wise in land buying, and now owns large hunks of Harlem and Long Island.

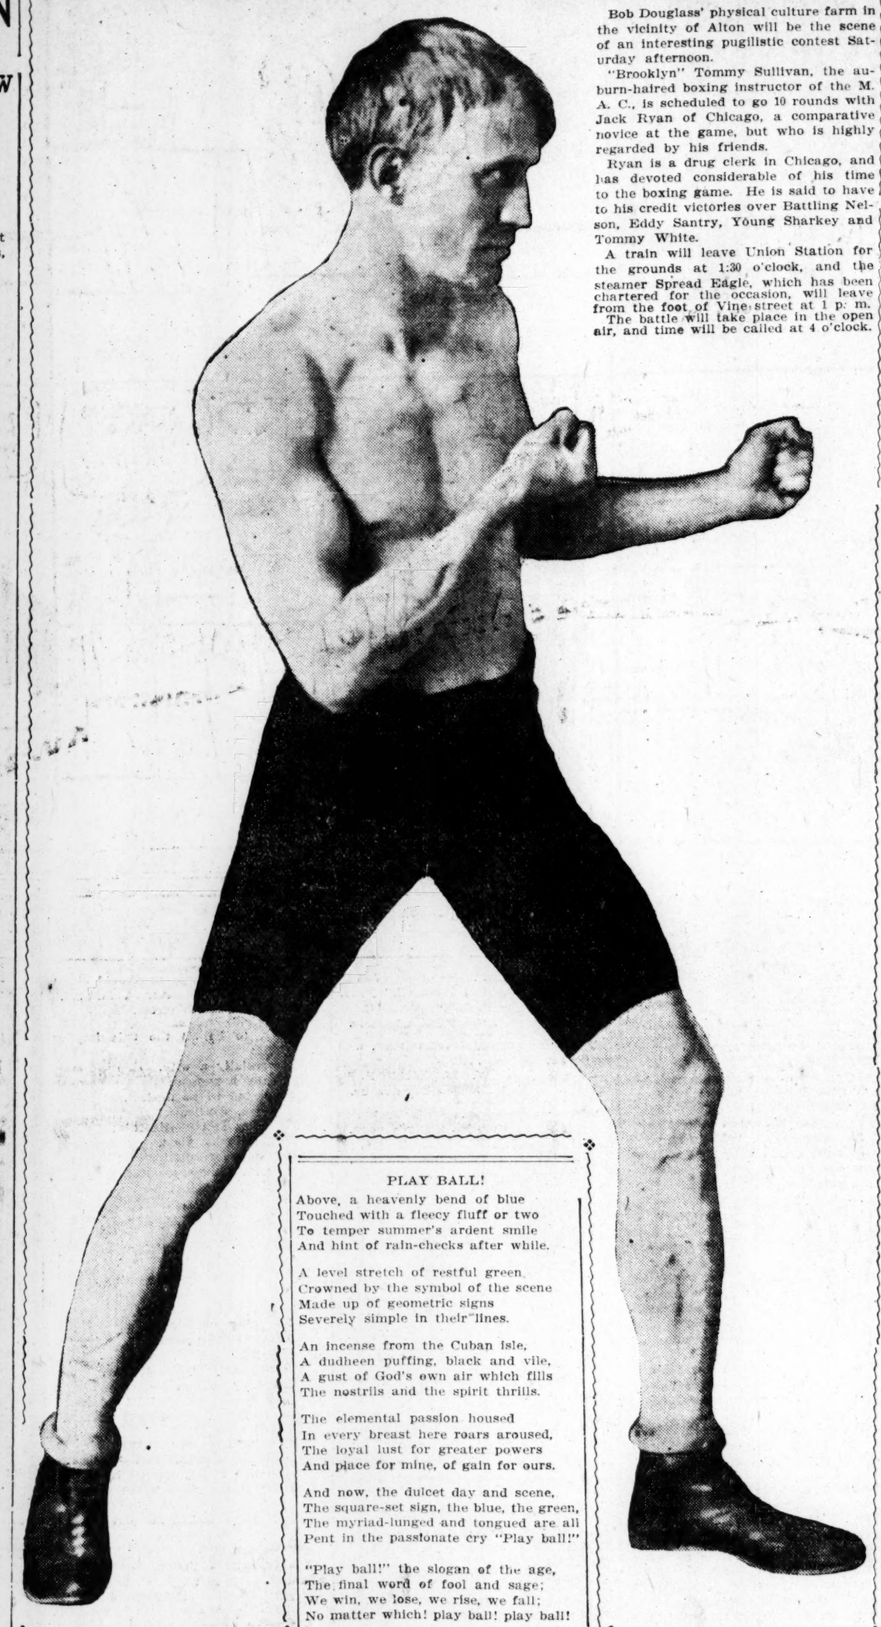

Bob Fitzsimmons is one of the most deserving of old-timers. Yet the hero of a score of desperate battles has hardly a dollar to show for his fights. The Washington Sporting Club of Philadelphia has not yet paid Fitzsimmons his share of the purse for the last fight with Johnson. There was to have been a settlement this week, but Samuel Brecklee, the owner of the club, sent word, through his lawyer, that he was too busy at Saratoga to pay any attention to such a small detail as settling with Fitz.

Terry McGovern, through the great benefit tendered him by the New York sporting public a few months ago, has enough to live on comfortably for many years.

Battling Nelson, although he is deposed from his high position in the ring, has enough money to live on velvet for the rest of his life. Nelson's fortune is over $100,000.

RYAN READY TO FIGHT SULLIVAN

Bob Douglass' physical culture farm in the vicinity of Alton will be the scene of an interesting pugilistic contest Saturday afternoon.

"Brooklyn" Tommy Sullivan, the auburn-haired boxing instructor of the M. A. C., is scheduled to go 10 rounds with Jack Ryan of Chicago, a comparative novice at the game, but who is highly regarded by his friends.

Ryan is a drug clerk in Chicago, and has devoted considerable of his time to the boxing game. He is said to have to his credit victories over Battling Nelson, Eddy Santry, Young Sharkey and Tommy White.

A train will leave Union Station for the grounds at 1:30 o'clock, and the steamer Spread Eagle, which has been chartered for the occasion, will leave from the foot of Vine street at 1 p. m.

The battle will take place in the open air, and time will be called at 4 o'clock.

PLAY BALL!

Touched with a fleecy fluff or two
To temper summer's ardent smile
And hint of rain-checks after while.

A level stretch of restful green,
Crowned by the symbol of the scene
Made up of geometric signs
Severely simple in their lines.

An incense from the Cuban isle,
A dudheen puffing, black and vile,
A gust of God's own air which fills
The nostrils and the spirit thrills.

The elemental passion housed
In every breast here roars aroused,
The loyal lust for greater powers
And place for mine, of gain for ours.

And now, the dulcet day and scene,
The square-set sign, the blue, the green,
The myriad-lunged and tongued are all
Pent in the passionate cry "Play ball!"

"Play ball!" the slogan of the age,
The final word of fool and sage;
We win, we lose, we rise, we fall;
No matter which! play ball! play ball!

BIG BENEFIT FRIDAY WILL BE GIVEN AS A HELP FOR CAROL CAIN

Proceeds Will Be Devoted to Defending the Fighter Charged With Murder.

Practicall every fighter of consequence in St. Louis offered his services for the benefit which will be tendered Carol Cain, the local featherweight fighter at the Crescent A. C. Friday night. Cain, a short time ago, struck his father with a baseball bat, the blow resulting in the elder Cain's death. Carol Cain is at present out on bond charged with first degree murder. His trial will take place in the near future and the benefit is for the purpose of raising money to pay his lawyers.

Harry Trennell, Johnny Regan, Young Fitzsimmons, Kid Silverburg, Young Van, all four of the Eton Brothers, who are wrestlers and boxers, and probably "Brooklyn" Tommy Sullivan and Jack Ryan, who will fight Saturday, will be on hand. All of the men are expected to go on in short exhibition contests. No admission will be charged to the club, but a collection will be taken up during the show. The men that are promoting the show expect to get Harry Sharp to act as master of ceremonies and referee.

The first game will be called at 2 o'clock.

GIVE UP HOPE OF FOOTBALL

Faculty Action Makes Cornell Students Abandon Idea of Eleven.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Whatever hope Columbia University had for football has been dashed to the ground by the refusal of the faculty committee to approve the recommendations of F. S. Bangs and other influential leaders in Columbia athletics.

They proposed that football be reinstated, with certain restrictions, in the hope that it would improve the inharmonious relations between the undergraduates and the faculty. There is no doubt that the Columbia authorities are making a serious mistake by carrying their opposition to football to such lengths.

The whole student body and practically the entire alumni organization, as well as many members of the faculty, are in favor of the game, so that President Butler and his associates are merely storing up trouble for themselves by their arbitrary refusal to consider the wishes of the thousands of undergraduates and alumni of Columbia.

SENATORS WILL DROP STAR MEN

Washington Club to Dispense With Altizer, Falkenberg, Heydon, Warner and Others.

According to Bob Hedges, who was in Chicago Monday talking over some proposed deals with the Washington team, there are at least four players on the Washingtons who have drawn salary for more than one season who will not be found wearing the uniforms of the Washington club next year.

During the winter trade will be made for these players. In fact, one deal is as good as closed. This deal will send Altizer to one of the other American League clubs, where he will be played in the outfield, while a hard-hitting infielder will be secured in his stead.

Altizer is very popular with the fans, but he does all his work at home, and is very erratic on the road, a fact which does not make him a desirable player for a team like Washington. He may show better form with some other club.

Falkenberg is an in-an-outer as a pitcher and not a winner. Heydon and Warner have both caught good ball this year in spots, but they are not considered winners in Washington, and will have to make room for younger and more energetic men.

Case Patten, for years the star of the Senatorial team and one of the greatest left-handers in the American League, is also on the list to be traded or sold. Patten needs a change of clubs, and will unquestionably be a star again with some other club than Washington.

"CHAMP" ENTRIES CLOSING EARLY

While more or less latitude is allowed by the A. A. U. in regard to the time in which entries will be received for the usual open meets given under its auspices, they are much more strict in regard to the championship games of the association.

And so entries for the Western A. A. U. championship games to be held here in October, close Sept. 16 and all entrants for the meet must signify their intention of competing by sending in their blanks on or before that date.

The A. A. U. authorities have sent notices around to all the clubs and schools of the district and expect a large entry list. Blanks can be had either at the Central Y. M. C. A., the M. A. C. or Mermod & Jaccard's, care of Con O'Brien.

It has developed that one of the most potent reasons that the meet is held in the autumn rather than the spring is the fact that it is a rule of the A. A. U. that they should be scheduled at such a date. Sometimes permission is given to clubs as to the Kansas City A. A. two years ago, to hold them on earlier dates, but the plain rule of the organization is that they should be held in the fall. The date this year has been put off to October rather than in September for the fact that it is thought to meet the situation here better than a time in September.

MANY BOXERS WORKING FOR BIG BATTLES

Four Good Contests on the Books Out in San Francisco.

QUARTERS ARE SCARCE

So Many Boxers Training That Resorts Are Nearly All Filled Up.

FOUR IMPORTANT BOUTS BOOKED FOR CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—When Schreck and Billy Hogan arrived in town they at once set about to find a suitable place, but were disappointed on all sides. Frisco is just now crowded with boxers, training for coming contests. Joe Thomas is to box Young Ketchell, Mike Schreck is to meet Al Kaufman and Jimmy Britt and Joe Gans are to hook up, all within a short space of time.

So many boxers are in training at the present time that it is difficult to secure suitable quarters. Britt and Joe Thomas have arranged for accommodations at Shannon's, near San Rafael, while Ketchel is located at Joe Millett's place, near Colma. Gans wants a warm place in which to work, and Alameda was the nearest he could come to his requirements.

Manager Greggains looked over the field yesterday for a suitable place in which to stage the meeting between Schreck and Kaufman. After looking over the available places he decided that the Auditorium was best adapted for the purpose. With the experience gained in handling the Britt-Nelson fight, he feels he will be able to seat everybody without confusion.

Kaufman is at Harbin Springs training and Billy Delaney, the veteran handler, promises to have him in the best of condition when the day of the fight comes around. Kaufman is going on the road with Britt at the present time. He has been taking light exercise for some time, and it will not require much work to fit him for the severest competition.

IN OUR SET

BEING LITTLE STORIES OF PEOPLE IN THE SPORT WORLD.

The striking telegraphers, through the courtesy of R. L. Hedges, will play an exhibition game of baseball in Sportsman's Park Tuesday, Aug. 27. The teams will be composed of Western Union and Postal strikers.

"Big Chief" Bender yesterday lost his first game in the last 12 he has pitched. The rapid climb of the Athletics is due to Bender's gerat work, and yesterday the White Sox made only two hits up to the ninth inning, but in that they bunched two more, with a sacrifice in between, and won the game.

The Cincinnati Reds are wailing about the Brooklyn Superbas being a hoodoo to them. They will win from New York, the Phillies and Boston on their Eastern invasions, but as soon as they land in Brooklyn they begin to lose.

It is altogether probable that the Cleveland fans have forgot about their enmity for the Naps' leader, Napoleon Lajole. Several days ago they were clamoring for his release and a new manager, but with Bradley, Stovall, Lajole and Flick back in the game, the Naps have won a majority of their games in the last two weeks.

In the National League the race for second place is between the Giants and the Pirates, and the Pittsburg fans are jubilant and believe that their home boys will finish ahead of the ex-champions.

Still are the best judges in the land in dispute over the fact whether Ned Hanlon is a good manager. The point hinges on this: If Hanlon developed McGraw, McGinnity, Keeler, Kelley and other Baltimore stars, he is, but if these stars made Hanlon, he is not. Take your pick.

That was a hard game the Tigers lost to the McGuireites, but since Jim has taken hold most any team is fortunate in breaking even on a series, not even the Sox excepted.

The Cleveland fans are so sweet on Young "Dode" Birmingham that the player is apt to become conceited. But then he deserves all the praise that he gets. The other day he took away the Philadelphia fans' breath by making a great throw, and yesterday he made three hits out of four times up.

The New York writers say that if the Giants had nine Bresnahans they would have a pennant team. Wonder if they would beat nine Wallaces, nine Chances, Lajoies or Wagners. There are other great players.

NOTED PITCHER SAYS GAME IS MORE STRENUOUS NOW

Joulett Meekin, 10 years ago the brightest star in the baseball firmament, spent Tuesday in St. Louis en route to Mexico, where he will spend the next several months prospecting, and where he may locate permanently.

In 1895 Mr. Meekin was at the height of his fame as a baseball pitcher, holddown the kopje for the New York Nationals and making that team the terror of every other squad in baseballdom. He had but one rival for the world's championship honors in the twirling line and that rival was in the person of Amos Rusie on the same team. Mr. Meekin grew reminiscent yesterday afternoon and discussed freely his career and mistakes that he might have corrected.

"The spitball in my day was totally unknown, as were many of your newfangled improvements," he said. "Baseball now has grown to be a game thoroughly scientific and there is as much difference in the game of today and that of my time as between the same modern baseball and the country style of townball. I still enjoy a good game notwithstanding the fact that I have abandoned the diamond for aye. I think sometimes that I may take up my glove and go on the firing line again, but the reflection of hardships experienced and the knowledge that the game is more severe now by far than it has ever been before deters me. No, I am out of the game for good."

The veteran twirler still bears on his body scars incurred in some of the fastest games the world had seen up to 1895. One bruise, in particular, on the left hip was sustained in a long slide for the home plate, and the one, by the way, that won for his team a very closely contested game. Mr. Meekin played under the management of George Davis, who is now playing shortstop for the Chicago White Sox. A part of his baseball career was spent with the Nashville, Louisville and Cincinnati teams.

SAYS "AMEN" TO FAN'S YELL

Detroit Preacher Shows Quiet Enthusiasm for Team.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 22.—Detroit is baseball crazy, made so by the great fight the Tigers, under the leadership of Hughey Jennings, are making for the American League pennant. As a sample of the frenzy possessing the fans they tell of two gentlemen of the cloth who were deeply interested in a recent game. Wild Bill Donovan came to bat with his sweater buttoned sigzag for luck. An enthusiast yelled: "Sting it on the nose, Bill! Chase it to the fence!" Then one of the reverend gentlemen turned to the other and quietly whispered "Amen!"

Manager McGraw is still picking up promising youngsters to supplant the "old heads." Please lets us have a few of your old head, Muggsy.

SHIP PETER PAN TO KENTUCKY; COLT MAY NEVER RACE AGAIN

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—James R. Keene's great horse, Peter Pan, the champion money winner of the season, closed his racing career as a 3-year-old yesterday, when he was shipped to the Castleton stud farm in Kentucky to be turned out for the season.

It is doubtful if he will ever be returned to racing. Peter Pan's retirement is due to an injury received recently during his work of training.

S.S.S. REMOVES BLOOD HUMORS

When the blood becomes infected with unhealthy humors the effect is shown on the skin in the form of pimples, rashes, eruptions, or some other type of skin disease. These humors circulating in the blood, come in contact with the delicate tissues and fibres of the skin and produce irritation and inflammation, and often excessive itching and burning. Trying to cure skin troubles with external applications is treating the effect instead of the cause. Such treatment perhaps allays some of the itching and discomfort, but does not reach the blood where the real source of troubles lies. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for humors in the blood. S. S. S., a gentle acting, safe blood purifier, is the proper treatment. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes the humors and removes them from the blood. S. S. S. supplies the blood with the fresh, healthy properties necessary to sustain the skin and keep it free from disease. S. S. S. cures Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, rashes, and all other skin affections and diseases, because it purifies the blood and removes the humors which are responsible for the trouble. GRADE CROSSINGS SPLIT BUSINESS ASSOCIATIONS

Southwesern Organization Withdraws From Affiliated Body.

Dissensions as to a crusade against grade crossings and prosecution of the United Railways are given as the causes for the withdrawal of the Southwestern Business Men's Association from the Affiliated Business Men's Association. The larger body was originally composed of 13 commercial and improvement organizations.

Differences of opinion became apparent in the affiliated association when it waged war against uncleanly street cars, and this was heightened by the action of the Legislation Committee in asking for a Municipal Assembly public hearing on grade crossings, without consulting the remainder of the members.

Recently there have been sharp debates as to the location of the free bridge, and members of the Southwestern Association say all the South Side organizations will secede to fight for the Chouteau avenue site.

Others favor a North St. Louis site.

HERE IS A NEW CLASS OF MEN—WHISTLE SPLITTERS

They Leave Their Picks in the Air When the Noon Signal Is Given.

"See those fellows," said the foreman in disgust, looking at the dozen laborers, who were hurrying toward their lunch pails. "They are 'whistle splitters.' They don't move a hand until the whistle blows to begin work in the morning and nary a second do they exert themselves after the relief blast."

The "whistle splitters" are soon spotted on all jobs. Not long ago a structural iron worker was perched upon the steel frame of a building with a bucket waiting to catch hot rivets.

The man at the forge flipped one to him just as the noon whistle blew. The pail was slammed down on the plank, the rivet fell sputtering 16 stories below and the man was contentedly eating his lunch when fellow workmen were still finishing up the immediate work before them.

DOG SAVES LIFE OF WOMAN; HAD RECOGNIZED HER VOICE

St. Bernard Hears His Injured Mistress Shriek and Brings Help.

Returning from New York, Mrs. Coxe arrived at Whitlock after midnight. In the darkness she fell and broke her left leg. Mrs. Coxe shrieked, then fainted.

The St. Bernard, 13 months old, was chained in the yard a quarter of a mile from the Whitlock station. But it recognized her voice when she screamed. The dog barked, howled and tugged at its chain until the widow's brother, George Deering, unchained him.

Instantly the dog ran toward the station, and soon Deering heard a shriek and hurried down the road. There he found his sister. The St. Bernard was licking her face and barking loudly. She was carried home.

PLAYGROUND CHILDREN DRILL FOR VISITORS

ALL LIKE TO BATHE

The thousands of children who have enjoyed the privileges of the St. Louis Playground Association are giving exhibitions of their work and special drills and exercises for those who visit the grounds this week, closing the open-air work for the season.

Five playgrounds have been conducted by the association, of which Mrs. E. A. De Wolf of 5459 Bartmer avenue is president. Mrs. De Wolf has devoted her time and effort to this particular philanthropy for the past eight years.

"I have observed a great improvement in the children from year to year," Mrs. De Wolf said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "This work is not an experiment. It has been proven a necessity for the children in the crowded districts.

Education to Mothers.

"We have educated the people to a realization of the needs and requirements of these little children, and now the matter will be taken up by the city. There will probably be 14 playgrounds maintained next year. It means moral and mental improvement, invaluable to children who would otherwise be on the street in the gutter, possibly in mischief.

"One of the unmistakably good results of the playgrounds is that there have been many less instances of children in juvenile court.

"I would estimate that in the last week of July, during the very hot spell, 13,000 children were cared for in the five playgrounds. Each had a shower bath, with the use of soap and towel every day. Many of the little things had never had a bath except those they had at the playgrounds.

"Sometimes we have as many as 20 little babies asleep in the hammocks, some as young as 6 weeks. They are in charge of the 'little mothers,' some of them tiny children themselves.

"Several mothers have told us that this sleep is the only time all the hot day when the babies can rest. In their own hot, noisy rooms the little things can only cry and fret with the heat. The 'little mothers' never get to play like real children except when their charges are cared for by the attendants.

Do Not Know How to Play.

"One of the sad things of these little lives is that they do not know how to play, they have to be taught how to have a good time. The basket weaving, bead work and just the least bit of sewing which we encourage the children to do, appeals to them and they are greatly interested in the instruction they receive.

"We let the girls dress dolls if they wish. One boy took an interest in sewing and made some nice clothes for a doll. The boys like the basket and bead work equally as well as the girls.

"All the work is given in the form of play. We do not put any tax on them in their play hour.

"The influence of playgrounds is not just as a temporary pastime, but extends beyond the children themselves and brightens and betters their home lives as well.

"Mothers have implored us to continue the playgrounds because there is no other place to send their children for exercise and fresh air. We have a man and a woman in charge of each playground as instructors and to keep the crowd orderly.

"The children take care of the grounds with little rakes, brooms and baskets for papers. They enjoy the work and are learning the first lessons of pride in neatness.

"After this is done they have a refreshing romp in the water. In the afternoon they swing, teeter-totter and have a general good time.

New Life for Them.

"In this way happiness, health and moral training are brought into the lives of the city's children and they will grow into better men and women. The good cannot be over-estimated."

The playgrounds are situated at Twenty-third and Pine streets, Tenth and Carr, Twelfth and Biddle, Sixth and La Salle and the Fowler Playgrounds at Seventh and Russell. The receptions will be on Thursday and Friday, from 10 to 12 a. m. and 2 to 5 p. m.

Persons interested in the work of the Playgrounds Association are invited to visit the children on those days.

WROTE 200 LOVE LETTERS; FINED 50 CENTS FOR EACH

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Does writing love letters to a girl constitute disorderly conduct?

Judge Himes of the Desplaines street branch of the Municipal Court holds it does; at last, he declares the two hundredth such letter is a breach of the peace.

Morris Ellison is the ready letter writer, and it was his two hundredth letter, burning wit blove and adoration, for May Hollis, a pretty waitress in the Crescent cafe, 170 West Madison street, which caused him to be fined $100 yesterday by Judge Himes.

"I stood for 199 of his mushy letters," declared Miss Hollis, "but this last one—the two hundredth—is the limit, and I quit. He has been hanging around the restaurant trying to induce me to give up my position, and elope with him."

"What have you to say for yourself?" asked the Court.

Ellison had nothing to say. At least, what he said did not prove a satisfactory explanation to the Court.

Hearing on Grade Crossings.

A joint committee of the Municipal Assembly will give a public hearing at 10 a. m. Friday on grade crossings. The Legislative Committee of the Affiliated Business Men's Association asked for the hearing. Many real estate men have announced their intention of attending. A delegation from the Tower Grove Citizens' Association will be present.

CELEBRATES HER BIRTHDAY ON COT IN HOSPITAL WARD

Girl's Scalp Torn Off as She Was Preparing to Make Ready for Outing.

This is the sixteenth birthday of Mamie Radomski, and she had planned to spend it in an outing. Accident intervened, and she is in a critical condition at St. John's Hospital from injuries she suffered when her scalp was torn almost off in the plant of the Brown Shoe Co., Jefferson avenue and Mullanphy street.

Miss Radomsky hurried to a washroom on the fourth floor of the plant as soon as she finished work Wednesday, eager to get home and finish preparations for her birthday fun. She was combing her hair when it caught on a whirling shaft five feet from the floor.

Other girls entering the room screamed and fled in terror. The machinery was stopped and the girl taken to the hospital. She has been three years in the factory. Her home is at 1528 Hogan street.

Elizabeth Gilligan was similarly injured last Saturday at a shoe factory at Twenty-second and Locust streets. The police are investigating the arrangement of machinery in both places

Woman's Nightmare

No woman's happiness can be complete without children; it is her nature to love and want them as much so as it is to love the beautiful and pure. The critical ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so fraught with dread, pain, suffering and danger, that the very thought of it fills her with apprehension and horror. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either painful or dangerous. The use of Mother's Friend so prepares the system for the coming event that it is safely passed without any danger. This great and wonderful remedy is always applied externally, and has carried thousands of women through the trying crisis without suffering.

AUTO TURNED HANDSPRING WHILE ON ITS FIRST TRIP

Belleville Man Loses Confidence in Machine After Striking Sand Pile.

The first ride of Charles Reis of Belleville in his new automobile was not calculated to fill him with confidence in the thing. It turned a flip-flap and sent him and his brother Herman skidding down the street on the seats of their trousers.

The machine had been behaving nicely and at 10 o'clock, as it was spinning along on South Illinois street, the proud owner was thinking to himself that a life on the road was the life for him.

Then the auto plowed into a sand pile, turned a handspring and landed on the flat of its back in the middle of the street. During the evolution, Charles and Herman were tossed out. They struck the street in a sitting posture and did not stop even then.

They were not hurt, but their trousers were.

There was a lantern on the sand pile, but Mr. Reis says it was not lighted until after the misadventure.

EXPLAINS DEAD MAN'S PRESENCE IN HER ROOM

DIES SUDDENLY THERE

Negroes Take Body Away and Report Victim Succumbed on Street.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 22.—An explanation of the presence of Thomas Francis Shay, widely known as a criminal lawyer, in the apartment of Mrs. Ada Taylor, his stenographer, where he died Monday night of appoplexy and of certain mysterious circumstances following his death, was given today by Thomas Cogan, Shay's law partner.

Cogan said it was at his suggestion that Shay called at the apartment of his stenographer in order that she might receive final instruction regarding some work prior to Shay's departure on his vacation.

Shay, his partner said, had worked later than usual at the office, had overlooked his evening mail, and it was natural, he said, that Mrs. Taylor should have prepared a luncheon for her employer.

As the heat was oppressive, it was also natural, Cogan thought, that Shay should have put aside his coat. He thought there was nothing unusual in the fact that Mrs. Taylor should have become panic stricken when Shay died so suddenly, and to have sought to interest the colored janitor and his assistant in suppressing the news of his death.

It developed at the coroner's inquest that two negroes, at the suggestion of Mrs. Taylor, removed Shay's body to an undertaking establishment, for which each received $50.

In order to keep from publicity that Shay died in her apartment, Mrs. Taylor let it be stated that death had occurred in the street, and this was the information received by the coroner.

Mrs. Taylor, who is separated from her husband, has abandoned her apartment and has disappeared from the Grand Hotel, where she went immediately after Shay's death.

CONVICT'S WIFE DIDN'T KNOW HIM WHEN HE RETURNED HOME

Man Was So Altered in Appearance That Woman Thought Him an Imposter.

PARIS, Aug. 2[illegible].—A convict named Dehorne, who has just been pardoned after serving seven years' imprisonment, was so altered in appearance when he reached home that his wife refused to acknowledge him as her husband.

The man had a long way to walk, and when he reached his native village he was barefooted, clothed in rags, and his hair—which had been black when he went to prison—was white as snow. His wife ordered him away from her door as an impostor.

He had to go to the Mayor, prove his identity, and take that official back to his wife's house before he could induce her to believe that her husband had really returned.

SEA SERPENT NO LONGER A MYSTERY; HOME FOUND

British Sailors Say Steamship Was Invaded by Hundreds of Big Snakes in Sourabay Bay.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—At last the sea serpent mystery has been solved. Capt. Thomas Smith of the British steamship Kilkerran, his first officer, Mr. McMillan, and his second officer, Mr. Horn, all testified today to the origin of the sea serpent and Chief Engineer Cowan backed them up. The freighter brought the first cargo of sugar from Java this year.

For 48 hours McMillan, Horn and Cowan fought the so-called sea serpents in Sourabay Bay. The freighter had steamed out of Sourabay harbor on the morning of June 17 and had not yet got out of sight of the port, when Horn, who was on the bridge, called the attention of his fellow officers to an invasion of serpents over the starboard bow.

Through the hawse pipes came the black, creeping things, some of them of prodigious length, and in a minute the Lascar contingent on the forward deck was in an uproar.

"All about the ship the sea was full of snakes," said Horn in telling the story today. "They were from three to ten feet in length."

The officers fought the reptile invasion in relays and kept score. To Mr. McMillan's credit there were 289 snakes. To Mr. Horn's there were 293 and to Mr. Cowan's 102.

EMPLOYERS ARE FOES OF MILITIA, OFFICERS SAY

Gen. Greely Blames Them for Shortage of National Guardsmen.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Statistics as to the attitude of large firms and corporations toward men who join the national guard and who may be absent on important military duty, are set out in the annual report of Gen. Greely, who commanded the northern division during the last fiscal year. Inquiries on these lines were addressed to the adjutants general of the states in the northern division.

To the question as to whether members of the national guard who are in the public service are deprived of any portion of their regular wages while absent on military duty, three states reported "no," seven "no, with exceptions" and two "yes, in part or in while."

To the question whether it is the custom of large firms and corporations to make reductions in wages for the time of necessary absence on important military duty, eight officers reported "yes" and four "yes, with exceptions."

Nine officers reported "yes" to the question whether there was any difficulty experienced in keeping organizations filled with desirable men.

Among the causes for this as set down are influence of labor unions, lack of interest in military affairs, prosperous times and plenty of work, inadequate pay and allowances and inadequate State and national appropriations. Seven officers reported "yes" and five "yes, with exceptions" to the question if labor unions oppose recruiting.

The remedy suggested was that the latter be educated to full understanding that the Government guard should not be looked upon as an enemy, but should be given to understand that their common object should be the welfare of the country.

FAIR HORSEWOMAN ON TOUR OF WORLD

NEW YORK, Aug. . .—Miss F. Eulalie Leprieto, a handsome young Italian woman, stopping at the Hotel Astor, is the pioneer of a new, though somewhat expensive, hobby. Being an excellent judge of horses and an expert horsewoman, she is traveling round the world with a string of 80 magnificent hunters which she enters in all the principal horse shows.

That her judgment of horseflesh is sound is shown by the fact that she nearly always carries off the first prizes. Discussing her plans, Miss Leprieto said:

"This is my first visit to this country, and I am naturally charmed with what I have seen. I have just completed a year's continuous traveling. I went through India, thence to Australia, from there to Vancouver and then through to Seattle, St. Paul and Chicago, finally landing in New York.

"Then I went to Atlantic City and showed my horses there. Now I am deliberating whether I shall show in Newport or go back to Australia.

Her Father a General.

"My father was an Italian General. I was born in Florence and educated in England. While I was going to school I used to attend horseshows and then conceived the idea of showing horses of my own.

"I am proud of my string. I have three Italian bred horses and the rest are English, four of them being champion prize winners. In Australia, where the money prizes are very valuable, I succeeded in nearly covering my expenses.

"I am just as much at home in Paris or London as I am in Florence, and I think I am the first woman who ever rode astride in the Bois de Boulogne, as I do also in Rotten Row, London.

"If I go back to Australia, I shall return to this country next year, as I am anxious to see more of it. I consider the women in this country very fine horsewomen. English women are very good at cross-country riding.

Dog Gift of Chinese Empress.

"My aunt, Mrs. Wagner, with whom I travel, has gone to Pittsburg and has taken with her my imperial lapdog. It was given to my father two years ago by the Dowager Empress of China. He was then in that country on a diplomatic mission.

"My father, by the way, is very tired of my long absence from home. Since I have been in New York I have had three cablegrams from him asking me to return, but my wanderings are not yet over.

"Although my aunt has left me all alone here, I do not find the time hangs heavily on my hands. I drive much about the city."

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

EASTPORT, N. Y., Aug. 22.—A death here, attributed by physicians to inhaling disease germs in the dust raised by automobiles, has increased the hostility of the farmers of Long Island against automobile owners.

Early in the season many of the residents contracted a disease of the throat due to the germs in the flying dust raised by automobilists. Characterized by chills, sore throats and nausea it generally terminated in a few days, leaving the victim as well as before.

The recent death of one of its victims, however, and the serious illness of others from the same malady, have produced more antagonism against automobiles than had ever existed.

Killed by Fall of Three Feet.

GAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 2[illegible].—A fall of three feet caused the death of J. S. Crowley here. Mr. Crowley was a furnace tender at the Gas City smelters of the Prime Western company. One night six weeks ago he became ill. He drew a bench, which is perhaps a few inches less than three feet in height, away from the furnaces in a cool spot and lay down to take a nap. An hour later a fellow-worker went to see how he was getting along, and found him in an unconscious state on the floor near the bench from which he had evidently fallen.

BACHELORS COOK AND SERVE MEAL

Young Men of Webster Believe They Have Solved Servant Girl Problem.

Four young bachelors of Webster have solved the servant question. To the satisfaction of themselves and their friends, they have demonstrated that, contrary to the word of the poet, men can live without cooks.

The young men in question are Sidney Skinner, Spencer McCourtney, Andrew Kauffman and Frederick Howe Jr. Saturday evening the rain prevented them from spending their usual hours at the Paddle and Saddle Club, so Mr. McCourtney invited the others to dine with him at his home, Joy and Hawthorne avenues, and, incidentally, to aid him in preparing the dinner. It made no difference that the guests of honor, four very charming Webster maidens, had departed that morning for the Northern lakes. Places were laid for eight, the place cards being elaborately handpainted by a member of the party who has talent as an artist.

The more artistic duties disposed of, the amateur cooks went to the kitchen, which was for the time being deserted. The young man's family is away, so the servants are enjoying their vacations.

Donning large aprons, and, with their sleeves rolled to the elbows, these four venturesome bachelors went to work. The following menu of eight courses was served, each young man serving two courses:

Soup, vermicelli (canned); oyster cocktail, superfine; steak, a la wondrous; fricaseed potatoes, olives, fruit salad, French dressing, salted almonds, celery, neapolitan ice cream, cakes, cigars, grape juice and black coffee.

In the words of one who was let into the secret: "There never was such fine cooking and clean kitchen aftel all was over at 11:30, and the only thing lacking was the presence of the four maidens at the banquet, who were toasted by the four cooks."

It is understood that when Mrs. McCourtney returns from her summer outing she will consider her servant question solved for all time, and will "let the men do the work."

FIDO BACK TO HIS LOVE; POOR JACK IS AN OUTCAST

One of the Instances When There Was a Great Deal in Name.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 24.—Jack White and Cora Bird have broken off their engagement—that is, Cora has. Her love for Jack palled, but she still loved her Fido. The dog disappeared and in the afternoon came the following:

"Darling Cora: I have taken Fido and you'll never see him again unless you take me back into your dear heart. I am a desperate man, broken-hearted by your indifference and with a longing for the sweet long ago. Take me or you won't get Fido.

JACK."

Cora had Jack arrested and recovered the canine. Jack hasn't yet recovered and it's off with him for keeps.

HERO SAVED FROM PAUPER'S GRAVE

Friends Raise Burial Fund for Doctor Who Braved Two Cholera Epidemics.

Had it not been for his friends, Dr. Harry Coons, for many years a well-known St. Louis physician and the hero of two cholera epidemics, would have been buried in the Potters' Field at the expense of the city.

He died at the City Hospital Monday, having been taken there from his room at 1623 Olive street two weeks ago. Friends heard of his death and prevailed on the hospital authorities to hold the body until a fund could be raised to give it better burial.

Louis Miller, an undertaker, also of 1623 Olive street, completed the fund Thursday, and the interment will take place Thursday afternoon at Bellefontaine Cemetery.

For several years during cholera time Dr. Coons was superintendent of the St. Louis Quarantine Hospital.

Dr. Coone was born at Harper's Ferry Va., Oct. 20, 1840, and came to St. Louis in 1857. He served as a clerk with Company A of the Fortieth Missouri Volunteers in the Federal army. It was after the war that he made his cholera record. In one year he cared for 350 cases of cholera and lost only one. For the last 37 years he has been in private practice here.

His wife, Mrs. Peliga Coons, lives at 212 Market street. He had brothers and sisters in Portland, Me.

FOLK SENDS TO 15 COUNTY LID REFORMERS

Assistant Attorney-General Goes to Interview Citizens Named.

THEY MAY BRING SUIT

Expected to Make Affidavits About Johnston and Herpel in Office.

NO TRACE OF PELLOM

"Detective" Affiant Has Not Been Seen Since Police Record Exposure.

Gov. Folk said to a Post-Dispatch reporter at Jefferson City Thursday, that he had directed John Kennish, assistant Attorney-General, to proceed to St. Louis County and interview the 15 person whose names have been sent to the governor as witnesses of law violations in the county.

The governor said that Kennish's inquiries might result in his taking charge of the county grand jury, which meets next Monday, and ...recting its investigation of the conduct of county officials.

Officials of University City said Thursday that new affidavits against Prosecuting Attorney Johnston and Sheriff Herpel of St. Louis County will be sworn to, if it seems propable that the affidavits made by W. H. Pellom, or Pelham, will be rendered ineffective by his record as a police character, first made public in late editions of Wednesday's Post-Dispatch.

Pellom has not been seen, so far as can be learned, since the filing of his affidavits at Clayton late Tuesday afternoon. He was at first said to be a resident of University City, but it is now said by those well acquainted there that he does not live in the town. His acquaintances around saloons and "lid" club headquarters say he lives in St. Louis, and has never been a bona fide resident of the county.

Acting Mayor Coyle said that he would order Pellom to take no further action in the matter of the affidavits without instructions. He said that Pellom was chosen as the affiant because of the belief that he was well informed on conditions in the county.

Coyle expressed the belief that Pellom had personal knowledge of facts sufficient to support his affidavits in court.

Sent to the Workhouse.

Coyle and City Attorney John Lewis professed great surprise on learning that Pellom, under his former name of Pelham, had been arrested twice for frauds committed under the pretense of being a detective, and had once been sentenced to the Workhouse as accessory to a robbery committed by women. The identification of his Bertillon photograph, taken from the Four Courts rogues' gallery, by seven of the detective's acquaintances, established his identity beyond a doubt.

That Gov. Folk repudiated Pellom's action and announced that he would not present the Pellom affidavits to the Attorney-General also caused Coyle and Lewis to doubt the effectiveness of the action taken.

"If we find it necessary to drop Pellom," said Mr. Coyle, "we will find others, recognized as citizens of the county, who will make an affidavit.

"Gov. Folk knew that Pellom was getting evidence of such a nature as to support a proceedings under the derelict officials law. He was not directly informed, so far as I know, that Pellom was to be the affiant.

"We selected Pellom because of his intimate knowledge of conditions, and because we knew of nothing against his character. We would not have used him had we known that he had a record as a police character."

Willmann Continues to Act.

Coyle said that the suspension of Marshal Willmann of University City, ordered by him, on the charge of disregarding orders to raid Mark Gumberts' Louisiana Club, would stand until the Town Board of Aldermen acted on the case. Willmann has continued to perform the duties of marshal since his suspension.

Johnston and Herpel were highly pleased by the revelations regarding the character of their accuser.

"That shows," said Herpel, "how unjust the new law is. It permits a man with a long police record to file an accusation against a public official whose integrity has never been impeached."

Judge Ryors said: "My position in this matter is rather embarrassing. I understand that the new derelict officials law makes no requirement as to good character on the part of an affiant.

"What effect proof of bad character would have on the weight of an affidavit is another question. I may decide to call Pellom into court and question him myself, as well as the matters he has sworn to."

ROBBERS LOOT THE HINKLE COTTAGE AT BAR HARBOR

Jewels Taken From Cincinnati Man's Summer Home While Family Is at Dinner.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 22.—The cottage of A. Howard Hinkle of Cincinnati was entered Monday night by robbers, who carried off jewels of an estimated value of from $2000 to $10,000. The robbers looted the rooms of Mr. Hinkle, Mrs. Hinkle and their daughter, Mrs. Ingalls.

It is supposed they entered the house while the family was at dinner.

Bar Harbor has been singularly free from burglars and the episode at the big Hinkle cottage has caused much alarm. The cottagers have taken extra precautions to safeguard their property.

NO WATER RATE DECREASE NOW

Balance of $1,119,000 in Funds Needed for Extensions, Says Player.

The report that there is an unappropriated balance of $1,119,000 in the City Treasury to the credit of the Water Department is causing a lot of worry for Comptroller Player through demands for a decrease in the rate. The Comptroller says it is not possible at this time that there may be any further reduction of water rates to manufacturers or to any other users of water.

The $1,119,000 in the Water Department fund, he says, is not surplus, but simply a balance that will be consumed in the course of the year in the payment of interest and sinking fund charges. That amount, he says, must, under the provisions of the charter, be in the treasury at the beginning of the fiscal year.

The Comptroller called attention Wednesday to the fact that within two years manufacturers have had the benefit of a reduction from 12½ cents to 8 cents a thousand gallons.

The Water Department, in connection with the Board of Public Improvements, is now considering plans for the further extension of the system, including the deepening of Compton Heights reservoir, the laying and extension of mains in the southwestern part of the city, a new pumping house at Bissell's Point and additional pumps made necessary because the pumping capacity at Baden and Bissell's Point has been reached.

The balance, he declares, is not larger than the actual necessities of the department demand. Continuing, he said:

"If it appears in the near future that a reduction in water rates can be made without jeopardizing the work of the department or the best interests of the city at large, it would seem to me that all users should benefit by a general scaling of the rates, and this would particularly appear to be the only just procedure, since the manufacturers so recently profited by a generous concession."

CHILDREN SEE HUSBAND SHOOT BRIDE AND SELF

MARRIED TWO MONTHS

Murderer Leans Over Victim and Calls on Her to Live.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—In view of two terror-stricken children, Julius Teich of 510 West One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street shot his bride of two months and put a bullet into his own brain. Both died in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

Jealousy is supposed to have inspired Teich. He won his wife after following her to this country from Grievle, Poland, where they had been sweethearts from childhood. She married him last June, when he threatened to kill her if she did not do so. They began housekeeping and were apparently happy, save when Teich's unreasonable jealousy asserted itself.

Teich was 35 years old, a silk weaver. His wife was 28. She formerly was Miss Emily Herter. She lived with her uncle, Julius E. Herter. Tuesday Mrs. Herter invited her neice to go with her to Brooklyn. Teich's jealousy was such that he could not bear his wife to be out of his sight. He forbade her going and they quarreled.

Returns and Shoots Her.

Yesterday morning Teich left to go to work. His companions at the silk mill say he appeared to be brooding. At 10 o'clock he returned home. Mrs. Teich was dressing when her husband arrived. It is presumed that he accused her of intending to go with her aunt and that he shot her in a rage.

Lillian Miller, 14, and Lena Gass, 12, were making candy in a kitchen directly across the court from Teich's rooms. They heard high words and saw Teich chase his wife, revolver in hand. As she reached the bedroom overlooking the court the husband fired and she fell on the bed. Teich was evidently stricken with remorse.

"Oh, Emily," the girls heard him cry, "come back to me. I love you and I didn't mean to do it."

The crazed man bent over her body. "Oh, why, why did I do it?" he screamed.

The girls were transfixed with horror. Before they could act Teich appeared before his window, placed the revolver to his head and fired. His body fell back in the room.

Schoolmates in Poland.

When they were schoolmates in the Poland village they were inseparable companions, but the girl, although she loved him, feared his temper and would not marry him. Because of his threats her parents sent her to New York three years ago.

Upon finding that his sweetheart had fled, Teich saved money with the object of finding her. Two years ago he learned she was in America. He came here and searched Chicago and other cities for her. Last March he accidentally met the girl on a street in Harlem.

"Now I've got you," he said. "You will never get away from me again. I want you to marry me right away."

Miss Herter put him off. He urged marriage constantly. The girl's father wrote from Poland forbidding her to marry Teich and her friends urged her to dismiss him. Teich haunted her house and several times displayed a revolver, which he said he would use if Miss Herter did not marry him. Two months ago they were married.

RAISING $1,500,000 TO CRUSH LABOR, GOMPERS SAYS

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Following the suit of President Van Cleave of the National Manufacturers' Association for an injunction against the use of the "unfair list" by the American Federation of Labor, President Gompers said today that probably the federation would bring a counter suit against the Manufacturers' Association, charging that body with conspiracy.

"We have learned," said Gompers, "that the Manufacturers' Association met in New York recently and decided to raise a fund of $1,500,000 to crush organized labor.

"I am strong in my conviction that when it comes to the test of surrendering my rights as an American citizen or surrendering to an injunction of the courts, I shall not hesitate to exercise my rights.

"The men behind the injunction proceedings are pitting their millions of money against human hearts and minds and in the long run the hearts and minds will win."

WILL FIGHT PLANTER'S DIVORCE

Mrs. Josephine Musgrave Says She Wasn't Supported.

Mrs. Josephine Musgrave of 3024 Locust street, who assisted deputy constables recently in trapping her husband, Thomas H. Musgrace, of Barfield, Ark., in his bath, and searching his room to levy on a doctor's account, says she will fight his suit for divorce. He filed the petition Wednesday.

Mrs. Musgrave says that she married suddenly, and did not know her husband, 61 years old, had been married four times prior to that. They lived together four days on his Arkansas plantation, and separated. Since then, Mrs. Musgrave says, her husband has failed to support her. Musgrave is said to be in Arkansas.

Father Meyer Coming Aug. 30.

Rev. Father Rudolph J. Meyer, S. J., will reach St. Louis Aug. 30 from Toledo to assume his new duties as provincial of the Missouri province, to which he has just been appointed. Father Meyer is a St. Louisan. He was considered recently for the office of "black Pope," head of the Jesuit order. Rev. Father Henry Moeller, whom he succeeds, is retiring on account of ill health.

BOY LOST FOOT SEEKING WORK TO GET CLOTHES

Little Chap's Shoe Caught in Frog on His Way to St. Louis.

TRAIN RUSHED ON HIM

He Wanted to Make Enough Money to Buy a New School Suit.

Fate was doubly cruel to brave little Harry Moore of Venice, Ill. The boy had come to St. Louis in search of work that he might buy some new clothes and go to school. He is a proud, studious lad, and when he saw his only suit getting seedy and tattered, and knowing that his parents could ill afford to buy him another, he started out to seek a job in St. Louis. His plan was to work long enough to get the new clothes and then go back home to Venice well dressed.

But the hopeful plans of this sensitive little chap were frustrated. He was walking along the Wabash railroad tracks at Dock street when his left foot caught in a frog.

He struggled and wrenched to free his foot, but it was tightly jammed There was no one in sight to render him assistance.

In a few moments he heard the rumble of a passenger train behind him. Faint from fear and the horror of being run down, he became frantic in his efforts to release the imprisoned limb. Every second now might mean his life.

Foot Held Fast.

But every tug, every wrench, seemed only to fasten his foot tighter in the frog. The next moment the train was in sight and the shrill shriek of the warning whistle added to his terrible fright.

The engineer saw the boy's plight, but it was too late. With a roar and whirr the locomotive struck the boy, crushed his foot off and threw him to one side. The train was stopped and backed up. Harry was found unconscious.

The boy was carried into a car, taken to Union Station and sent to the City Hospital. There restoratives brought him back to life. So weak was his condition from the mental anguish he suffered while waiting for the train to rush over him and from the shock of his injury that the surgeons postponed operating on him till Thursday mornin, when sufficient strength returned to justify the surgeons working on him.

"Oh, where's my mamma?" he cried as they laid him, feverish and suffering, on a cot. "Get my mamma," he pleaded, "and tell papa to come, too."

His parents at Venice were notified and the father came to the hospital.

The parent could not remain long to soothe Harry's pain, for the doctors knew that rest and quiet and the merciful sleep induced by opiates were vital for the boy's recovery.

But all afternoon, during his fitful, waking moments, Harry called for his mother and would burst into tears when told that she had not yet arrived. The doctors and nurses, when they heard his story of how he came to St. Louis to get work that he might buy new clothes for school, took a new interest in him and did all in their power to relieve his distress and pain.

WOULD NOT SEND JOHN D. TO JAIL

"What's the Use?" Says Prof. Mills, "Another Fellow Would Skin Us."

HE LIKES THE TRUSTS

Wants to Own Them and Declares That Bryan's Plan Is Wrong.

Prof. Walter Thomas Mills of Seattle, Wash., who addressed a Socialist meeting in Riverside Park Sunday afternoon, said he did not want Rockefeller sent to jail. He was not interested at all in sending any trust magnate, he averred, to prison.

"What I want," said Mills, "is not to send Rockefeller to jail, but to get out of hades myself. If you send Rockefeller to jail, the people will continue to be skinned by some other fellow. And it makes no difference to me whether I am skinned by this trust, that trust, or by individual monopolists. The thing I want is not to be skinned at all."

"Suppose we adopt Bryan's idea of placing all articles manufactured by trusts on the free list, as far as tariff is concerned," said Mills. "What do you think will happen? Manufacturers will go to France, for instance, and form trusts with French manufacturers and it will then make no difference to them whether the articles are on the free list. Americans purchasing glass from France will then practically purchase from American manufacturers and pay for transportation of the articles to the railroads, steamships, etc., owned by trusts."

D. R. Francis Heads Delegates.

David R. Francis will head a delegation of five representing the Trans-Mississippi Congress at the deep waterways convention in Memphis Oct. 4 and 5. H. D. Loveland of San Francisco, president of the association, has forwarded the appointment to Gov. Francis, who is now at Rye Beach, N. H. He will go from St. Louis on the steamer Alton, which is to bear President Roosevelt and Mississippi Valley Governors.

Once Upon a Time

Man lived upon the prey that fell in the chase. His vigorous active life enabled him to keep alive upon a diet which

The Modern Business Man of sedentary habits, cannot possibly thrive upon, and now

Modern Conditions Demand a Modern Diet

Success in all undertakings depends upon, and cannot be secured without a healthy body and a keen brain, and they cannot be kept healthy and vigorous by drugs, or in any other way than nature's way, that is, by food.

There is only one

"Road to Wellville"

The makers of Grape-Nuts claim, with the best of reasons, that this scientific food is superior to any other for rebuilding the brain and nerve tissues and muscles worn down by modern strenuous life.

"There's a Reason" for this claim. The manufacturers of Grape-Nuts keep in this food the valuable phosphate of potash which unites with albumen and water in the human digestive organs, and directly feeds the delicate brain and nerve centers.

White bread lacks this important element, for the phosphate of potash is in the brown cells of the wheat berry, and the white flour miller must throw it out, because it will not make white bread. Then, too, all the starch in Grape-Nuts is changed in its manufacture to a form of sugar, which is very easy of digestion.

It possesses high value as a strength-making food, welcome alike to athlete, brain-worker, and invalid.

IN ST. LOUIS' GREAT SUBURBS

CHILDREN TEACH IN SLUM DISTRICT

East Side Sunday School Held in Alleys and on Vacant Lots.

BOXES ARE USED FOR SEATS

Experiences With Drunken Men Are Common Feature of Regular Services.

A Sunday school conducted by children and held in alleys and vacant lots near the playgrounds of the children of all nationalities is a successful innovation in East St. Louis. From a beginning with two pupils the school has grown until it now numbers 42 regular students, in addition to a large number who attend when the meetings are held in the neighborhood of their homes.

The name of the Sunday school, "The Band of Hope," was chosen in a vote in which "Sunshine" was its opponent. It is a branch of the Religious Home Mission, which is under the supervision of Mrs. E. J. Pearson of 1009 Broadway place, East St. Louis.

Children Are Officers.

Miss Bertha Boyer is treasurer and Miss Ethel Shannon acts as secretary. The superintendent is Mrs. Pearson. Regular Sunday school is held at Mrs. Pearson's home every Sunday afternoon. On Sunday mornings Mrs. Pearson, accompanied by the secretary, treasurer and a few of the volunteers among the regular students, hold two sessions of the school at chosen places in alleys or lots.

Entering a thickly populated district, the religious workers engage the services of the surrounding children in finding boxes and boards, and the rudely constructed seats are soon filled with children, who prove willing listeners. Following the song service by the volunteer workers and the Bible lesson taught by Mrs. Pearson, the secretary distributes religious literature and Sunday school cards among the children. No collection is taken at these meetings. This program is followed at another meeting in another place before noon.

Through the courtesy of several East St. Louis merchants, Mrs. Pearson has added fans to her list of distributions, and each child attending will be presented with a fan during the hot days of the summer. The school is kept up through charitable donations by merchants and friends.

Unique Experiences.

Unique experiences are frequent in the work of the little band. Recently when the children visited a district thickly populated by foreigners, the meeting was disturbed by a man somewhat the worse for drink. Mrs. Pearson took him in hand and asked him who he was.

"I'm the wickedest man in Armenia and nobody knows how mean I am," the man boasted.

The man could understand the English language fairly well, and within a few minutes Mrs. Pearson had tamed him, and in the presence of the children gathered around he took the pledge and apologized for his conduct. He has since visited Mrs. Pearson's religious services.

East St. Louis News

Railroad clerks of East St. Louis formed a union which will be affiliated with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks at a meeting in the Metropolitan Lodge Hall Tuesday night. The organization details were in the hands of J. J. McCarthy of Kansas City. A temporary society was formed and a charter applied for.

The Eureka Athletic Association will give a moonlight excursion Friday night on the steamer Alton. The boat will leave East St. Louis just south of the Eads Bridge at 7:45 p. m. The officers of the athlitic club are: President, J. P. Farrel; vice-president, William Ritchey; secretary, Wilbur Keane.

The funeral of William W. Allen, 52 years old, a bartender at the Stephens' Hotel, 555 Collinsville avenue, who died Tuesday, was held Thursday afternoon from Walsh's undertaking parlors to St. Peter's Cemetery.

The funeral of Henry Cross, 31 years old, a negro politician, familiarly known as "Stuttering Hank" Cross, who died Wednesday at his home, 113 Winstanley avenue, will be held Saturday at 9 a. m., from the family residence to St. George Cemetery.

The Fraternal Tribunes will give a boat excursion to the mouth of the Illinois River, Aug. 28, having chartered the steamer Alton. The boat will leave East St. Louis at 9:45 a. m. and will return at 6 p. m.

Harry Tims and Frank Loomis were arrested Wednesday charged with malicious destruction of property. The complaint was made by Mrs. Belle Fanning of North Sixth street, who charges that the boys took two wheels from a baby buggy with which to build a cart. The boys were released on bond for their appearance for trial.

Objections to the sewer ordinances providing for the construction of a $750,000 sewer system for East St. Louis will be heard in the City Court by Judge Moyers next Monday morning. The assessment roll of property affected by the sewer will be completed by that time and will be presented for confirmation.

The first trial resulting from the police crusade against the junk-dealers to compel them to furnish a record of junk bought and sold, resulted in a hung jury in Justice William's court Wednesday. Sam Mutznick was on trial on a charge of failing to keep the record required by the city ordinances. Mutznick presented a few memorandums and figures on the fly-leaf of a note book said to be written in the Jewish language. The police claimed that it was not intelligible and contained no names or addresses of persons from whom junk was bought. Another trial will be had next Tuesday. Mutznick will be tried Thursday afternoon on a charge of receiving stolen property. It is said that several bars of stolen brass were found in his junk-shop on Piggott avenue.

W. H. Arnett, a negro, was arrested Wednesday by Detectives Green and Hawkins, charged with being a fugitive from Helena, Ark. He admitted that a charge of grand larceny is pending against him at Helena, but refused to return without requisition papers. The Helena authorities were notified and will arrive Friday to take him back. This is the fifth fugitive arrested by Green and Hawkins and sent back to other cities to face charges within the last two weeks.

HORSE ON TRESTLE DELAYS RAILROAD TRAFFIC 2 HOURS

Traffic on the O'Fallon branch of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad was stopped for nearly two hours by a horse that became wedged in the ties of a trestle about two miles north of Belleville. Incidentally a wreck came near being caused by the animal, which was ground to pieces under the wheels of the engine.

The horse had wandered onto the trestle and had fallen between the ties. A curve and high weds obstructed the engineer's view of the track. The engine was within 25 feet of the horse before the engineer saw it. He applied the air curve and high weeds obstructed the engine ran over the animal. The train crew had much trouble removing the carcass.

WOMAN GETS WARRANT FOR DOCTOR, CHARGING ASSAULT

Henry Theobald of 224 South Church street, Belleville, spent the greater part of Thursday getting together enough money to pay a $100 fine and costs, but at that he was a lucky man. If he had gone to his home Wednesday evening it is probable that he would not have been able to get around Thursday.

A crowd of neighbor women were lying in wait for him with horse whips and broomsticks and a fixed purpose to do him harm.

The women had become aroused by Theobald's alleged mistreatment of his wife. He had, it is said, put in most of the afternoon using very bad language to her and threatening to harm her and she had finally ed from the house and had gone to the office of State's Attorney Tecklenburg for protection.

Theobald also went away and the women of the neighborhood got ready to give him a reception on his return. He heard about it and stayed away until 11 o'clock, and did not make any noise then because the vigilantes had only disbanded an hour before and some of them might still be awake.

He locked himself in his room. His wife was sleeping. She heard a noise in the room at 6 a. m. Thursday and telephoned for Constable Lautz. Justice Wangelin fined Henry $100. The women say they are satisfied and will not do anything to him as long as he behaves.

"HAPPY HEINY" AND HIS DOG HONORED BY CHAUTAUQUANS

Piasa Florist Warmly Greeted When the Band Played Music Named for Him.

All the honors of the closing night of Piasa Chautauqua were for "Happy Heiny" and his dog. Happy Heiny is in private life Emil Fischer, but at Chautauqua, where he is head florist and custodian, he is known to everybody as Heiny. Latterly the "Happy" has been prefixed.

When Band Director Jeffries announced that the band would play something in honor of the quiet little man who made the flowers grow the audience cheered and Fischer attempted to beat a retreat, but he was caught and brought back by Manager Paisley and when the band had played "Happy Heiny" that worthy was pushed out on the stage and compelled to acknowledge with an embarrassed bow the homage of the people.

And Nigger, Heiny's constant canine companion, not to miss his share, trotted upon the stage and received an ovation, which he acknowledged with a wag of his tail.

DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS

N. Y. STOCKS MAKE GAINS OF 1½ TO 3 POINTS

Feeling Now Is General That the Market Tide Has Turned.

MORGAN HASN'T TALKED

Early Irregularity Thursday Followed by Steady Advances and Activity.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22, 10 a. m.—The opening of the stock market Thursday was irregular. Among those opening over the close of Wednesday are Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, M., K. & T. common, St. Paul, Atchison and the local tractions.

Among the industrial stocks, Republic Iron and Steel preferred opened higher, in company with Distilling Securities, Smelter and Amalgamated Copper. Allis-Chalmers common and preferred also opened higher. All of the higher openings were advances of ¾ of a point and less.

The low opening of so many of the leaders is attributed to sympathy with the London market, which opened lower. J. P. Morgan, who is at home again, declines to talk about the market because he says he is not yet conversant with governing conditions.

The first half hour of the market showed inequality. Some stocks advanced after the opening and then declined fractionally. Others declined from the opening. All movements were in a narrow range, but the general tendency was for lower prices.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22, 1 p. m.—The stock market has had an advance of 1 to 3 points. Starting from the close of the first half hour of the market, Great Northern led off, with the advance closely followed by Union Pacific, Reading St. Paul, Atchison and Northern Pacific on the rail side, and Amalgamated, National Lead, Smelter and Steel common and preferred on the industrial side.

The market was more active than yesterday and the feeling was plain that the recovery of the market is due from this time on. The high point of the forenoon was reported at 1 o'clock, when Union Pacific touched 127¼ and Great Northern 122¼.

FINANCIAL.

It was reported Thursday that some time bank loans had been made at 7 per cent, but inquiry failed as to the truth of the report. Most St. Louis bankers are of the opinion that money is not needed badly enough by their local customers for such a rate. The movement of money to the interior remains in fair volume.

The St. Louis bond market is dull and Fourth street houses expect that there will be no marked revival of demand until the fall months.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 304-5-6 Security Bldg., report local money: Indorsed bills receivable 4 to 6 months, 6 per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 6 per cent; other names, not so well known, 6 to 6½ per cent on first-class security.

Call money on the New York Exchange opened Thursday at 2 per cent, 2 per cent low and 2¼ per cent high and last up to noon.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Thursday, $10,079,485; last week, $9,840,697. Balances for today, $496,501; last week, $1,365,578; increase, clearings, $238,818; decrease, balances, $869,077.

Total gross earnings of the United Railway Co. in July amounted to $941,878, against $901,554 last year. The net earnings show an increase of $31,066, and the surplus, after charges, etc., $31,305 increase.

Society

Late August days find many St. Louisans ranching and touring in Colorado, Montana and the far West.

At the Lehmann ranch, beyond Colorado Springs, Miss Estelle Rassieur and the Misses Rocker of Kirkwood are spending two months, having gone West the 1st of August. They are entering heartily into the delightful outdoor life of this mountain resort and are spending much time in horseback riding.

Dr. and Mrs. Bransford Lewis, with Mr. and Mrs. Will Danforth, started West the first of the month, going first to the Yellowstone and from there to a large ranch in Montana just west of Butte. They have become regular ranchmen and fairly live in the saddle, so Mrs. Lewis writes to friends.

Hunting antelope and other big game occupies the men, and all find the outdoor sports refreshing and exhilarating. They are living entirely in tents, and sometimes travel fifty or sixty miles a day on horseback. Their plan is to return to civilization early next month.

Family on Ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. George Luddington Young, are, as usual, spending their summer at the Young ranch, not far from Glenwood Springs, Colo., where they are entertaining extensively. They have many traps and a handsome coach and make frequent trips to the Springs, taking over their guests for the various hops and the annual horse show. Mr. Young Sr. of Chicago is with them this summer.

At the Skelton ranch, Colorado, are Mr. and Mrs. Hinman Clark Jr., bride and bridegroom of this summer; Mrs. Harry Hawes and two children, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bown and Mr. Billy Bown, with several other St. Louisans.

Mrs. McDearmon of Hosmer Hall, with her daughter, Miss Mame McDearmon, went West a short time ago, to take the Yellowstone trip, and will not return before the middle of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Bryan and Miss Mary Clark are just beginning their Colorado tour, having departed for Denver and Manitou the first of this week. They will spend a month in the trip.

On Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyrill Williams, who were married this month and have gone West for their wedding trip, are to tour the Pacific Coast and then go to the Oswego (Mont.) ranch of the bride's father, Mr. Frederick G. Niedringhaus.

This extensive tract includes 7000 acres, all of which is under cultivation, with hundreds of head of cattle roaming over it. The ranch house is handsomely appointed, built in bungalow style and with every comfort of civilization, including a splendid water system.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams will spend the month of September on the ranch, where they will be joined the first of October by Mr. Niedringhaus.

Cooks in West.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cook are taking a lengthy Western journey. They left the city late in June and first toured the Yosemite Valley, later traveling slowly along the Pacific Coast, visiting some of the prominent California seaside resorts. They are now at Santa Barbara, where they have just been interested spectators of the week's regatta and water carnival.

Mrs. Cook writes that the flowers are magnificent and all floral parades and displays beyond her highest expectations. They leave for home next week, reaching St. Louis Sept. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beckert and Miss Adele Roman reached Colorado Springs recently, where they met Mr. Beckert's son, Mr. J. L. Beckert, who is chief surgeon of the Mexican Central Railroad. A pleasant family reunion was held at the hotel where all are guests.

Mrs. W. K. Burnett and her niece, Miss Harrison, are now at Manitou, and will go to Colorado Springs to remain until October.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nicholaus, recently married, and the latter formerly Mrs. Griesedieck, are spending their honeymoon at Colorado Springs.

KEPT DOG FOR A FRIEND; MUST PAY FOR ITS BITE

Justice of the Peace Sanders has decided that any person who owns or harbors a vicious dog is responsible for any damage inflicted by that dog.

In a suit of Joseph Kurrus of 2320 Hickory street against Charles Hallin of 2329 Chouteau avenue, it was shown by Attorney Hale that a dog owned by Hallin ran into an alley and bit Kurrus' 3-year-old son in the leg and on the arm.

Hallin said that he did not own the dog, but was keeping it for a friend. Justice Sanders awarded Kurrus $250 damages.

MUCH NAMED JAIL SLEEPER ASKED SHAVE IN MORNING

Frederick Carlos Wilhelm Peter Vevelas Wanted Tools for Elaborate Toilet.

Frederick Carlos Wilhelm Peter Vevelas was the name submitted by an applicant for lodging at Central District Police Station Wednesday night.

"Will you please dictate a little slower," said Sergt. Mike Drissell.

"I'll write it myself," said the visitor.

"You must be godfather of King Alfonso's baby," said Drissell.

A few minutes later the guest was seated at a table of chairs and boxes playing solitaire. He complained that he couldn't sleep.

"Will you kindly lend me a comb and brush and a mirror and a piece of soap and a towel and a razor?" he asked Drissell in the morning.
